

Millard Farmer Dies When Auto Turtles at Turn

Carl Dagerman, Arrested in Rum Raid Months Ago, Killed on Curve Near Bridge.

Carl Dagerman, living on a farm a short distance this side of Millard, Neb., was instantly killed at 8:30 a. m. yesterday, when his automobile turned turtle on a sharp turn approaching the I. N. bridge at Millard.

Dagerman was arrested several months ago in a raid by deputy sheriffs on a farmhouse on the West Dodge road, charged with illegal manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor.

Half a hundred automobiles belonging to thirsty customers for home brew were parked in the yard, deputy sheriffs asserted. He was found guilty of the charge in county court, and bound over to district court for trial. His case was still pending.

Dagerman was 46 years old and unmarried. He is survived by his father and mother, who run a fruit farm on West Center street, and by three brothers.

The body was taken to Peters undertaking establishment at Millard. Fred Reimers and Leonard Anderson, farmers, witnessed the accident.

Omaha Pilot Forced Down; Snared by Cupid

Forced landings and love seem to be synonymous in the air mail service.

And Sam Browne belts worn by pilots mean a wedding.

Putting the two together, Omaha air mail fliers discovered that one of their number, James F. Moore, more often called "Dinty," is to marry the daughter of the mayor of Coalville, Utah, next Wednesday.

Several months ago "Dinty," on his way to Salt Lake City, made a forced landing at Coalville. The first person he saw after stepping out of his ship was the most beautiful girl in the world, or at least so he said.

And, then the other day, when "Dinty" hopped off for Cheyenne, C. B. D. Collyer, a brother pilot, appeared with a Sam Browne belt, which he loaned to "Dinty."

Thus the discovery of the impending wedding.

Iowa Man Slays Sweetheart for Refusal to Wed

Breaking of Engagement Impels Deed—Stays Beside Dying Girl Until He Is Arrested.

McGregor, Ia., Oct. 28.—Cecil Kersten, 20-year-old daughter of a prominent Clayton county farmer, died at her home, Thursday afternoon, from gunshot wounds, inflicted by Peter Kleinow, who is being held on a murder charge.

Jealousy and the fact that Miss Kersten broke her engagement with him recently are ascribed as the causes. Kleinow first fired a shot at her and Harvey Sass, a former sweetheart, through the window of the Kersten home. They were only slightly injured.

Miss Kersten then rushed to the yard, where Kleinow met her and fired again. Then Kleinow picked up the girl in his arms and carried her into the house and he telephoned for a doctor.

"If I can't have you myself, nobody else is going to," Kleinow is said to have told the wounded girl as he knelt by her couch.

He remained by her side until arrested.

The Kersten and Kleinow farm homes stand opposite each other on the road about six miles northwest of McGregor.

Nebraska Nonpartisans State Belief in Townley

Lincoln, Oct. 28.—Sixty thousand men and women, members of the Nonpartisan league in Nebraska, announced their belief in the loyalty of A. C. Townley to the government and their appreciation "of the splendid fight he has waged in the interest of the common people" in a message sent today by the Nebraska executive committee of the league to its president, A. C. Townley, at Minneapolis, Minn.

J. D. Ream, signing as chairman of the committee, dispatched the following message to Townley, who is under jail sentence for inviting disregard of the draft laws in Minnesota:

"Kings, kaisers, ceasars and the agents of big business have used prisons to perpetuate their reign in every age, but ideas and principles cannot be jailed. The lofty ideals for which you stand will continue to live. Sixty thousand league men and women in Nebraska believe in your loyalty to this government and fully appreciate the splendid fight you have waged in the interest of the common people."

Scientists Are Interested In Find of Monster

Representative of Smithsonian Institute Inspects Recently Discovered Bones of Prehistoric Animal.

Mobridge, S. D., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—The recent discovery in the Missouri river bluffs near here by George W. Shrader, a rancher, of the remains of a prehistoric monster, has attracted wide attention, and scientists from different colleges of South Dakota have visited the scene for the purpose of examining the remains.

One of those who inspected the bones thus far unearthed was Richard Franklin Pettigrew of Sioux Falls, former United States senator from South Dakota, who, for the occasion represented the Smithsonian institute at Washington. While at the scene he gathered up a large number of the bones of the monster and arranged for digging to be prosecuted into the hillside with a view of unearthing as many more as possible.

Near Mastodon Size.
The bones thus far unearthed indicate they are from an animal approaching the size of the mastodon. One boxful of the bones was shipped to the home of Mr. Pettigrew in Sioux Falls. He will return later to the scene of the find in the Missouri river bluffs. Mr. Pettigrew has a large and valuable collection of the bones of prehistoric animals, which he plans ultimately to turn over to the state of South Dakota for preservation for all time.

The remains of the prehistoric monster found in the Missouri river bluffs were discovered by Mr. Shrader following heavy rains, which washed away the face of a hill to such an extent that some of the bones were exposed to view.

Is Important Discovery.
He dug a number of feet into the hillside without assistance and uncovered the bones thus far found. The discovery is believed to be of importance from a scientific standpoint.

Scientists as far east as Ohio have written Mr. Shrader in reference to his discovery, and it is expected some of them will visit the scene of the discovery to ascertain if the entire skeleton of the prehistoric monster cannot be dug from the hillside and preserved.

Alleged Burglars Are Arrested in Sioux City

Glenwood, Ia., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—Sheriff Logan and Deputy DeMoss returned from Sioux City last evening, bringing with them two men wanted for the burglary of the Martin store at Hastings, Ia., October 12.

Hughes is said to be a police character of Sioux City, and Marner, the second, is said to be unknown there. The grand jury was held long enough to have the case against these men investigated.

Fred Martin, owner of the store, who accompanied the officers to Sioux City, identified the goods as part of the stolen merchandise, which consisted, it is said, mostly of silk goods. The officers here report that the men were held in Sioux City, and the goods found in their possession were identified by cards sent from here.

Dakota Oil Drillers Find Work Goes Slowly

Rapid City, S. D., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—Rapid City men, returning from Elk Creek, where an oil well is being drilled, report that progress there is very slow. Because of the Dakota sandstone being so very hard the drillers can drill only one inch an hour.

The well so far has been out down 770 feet, at a cost of $5,000. The drill has only 15 feet to penetrate before striking Fuzon shale. After drilling through 10 feet of Fuzon shale a Lakota formation will be reached, where it is expected to find one of three things—water, gas or oil.

The drillers are very enthusiastic in the belief that it will be oil.

200 Republicans Honor Roosevelt

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—More than 200 Nebraska Republicans attended a banquet in honor of the 63d birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, given here last night under the auspices of the Roosevelt Republican club of Nebraska.

Among those in attendance were Adam McMullen of Beatrice and J. Weaver of Falls City, both of whom are expected to be candidates for governor in the primary next spring. Both of the men were speakers. Ex-Congressman J. J. McCarthy of Ponca acted as toastmaster and the Rev. Walter L. Alden of Lincoln made the principal address of the evening, taking the place of Governor F. P. Hyde of Missouri, who was scheduled to make the address, but who was unable to get away on account of a special session of the legislature.

McMullen spoke for a few minutes on the subject, "The Need of a Roosevelt." He was followed by A. J. Weaver, whose subject was, "What of the Future?" In the course of his address, Mr. Weaver spoke of the belief that will accrue to the middle west and the farmers of Nebraska especially, in event the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes canal becomes a reality.

About half of those present were republicans from outside of Lincoln, prominent among those being A. H. Prym of Franklin county, Perry Reed, Henderson; L. D. Richards Fremont; Wilber Annis, Dunbar, and George Williams of Fairmont.
