

Boy Auto Victim Calls for Mother Who Seeks Work

Driver Disappears After Taking Injured Lad to Neighborhood of Home and Leaving Him on Porch.

While his widowed mother wearily plods downtown streets in search of work, a little schoolboy, 19, lies in St. Joseph hospital, calling for her.

He is critically injured, according to hospital attendants, who say he may be suffering a fractured skull and internal hurts.

He was run down by an automobile, whose driver disappeared, according to police, about noon, while on his way home from Mason school, 1004 South Twenty-fourth street.

The boy is James Starkey. He lives with his mother, Viola Starkey, at the rooming house operated by Minnie Cornell at 618 South Seventeenth street.

Police Seek Driver.—Detectives are seeking the missing motorist.

Police were summoned to the rooming house by the Cornell woman. They removed the injured boy to the hospital. The Cornell woman told little James was returning home from school with several schoolmates when, at Twentieth and Leavenworth streets, an automobile ran him down as he attempted to cross the street.

The driver of the car stopped, picked up the injured boy, and learning where he lived from the other schoolboys, drove with him to that address, she told police.

But he took James to the house across the street from the rooming house, she said, and asked little Willie Cortez, playing there, if she wanted the boy.

Boy Laid on Porch.—He laid the little fellow on the top step of the porch, she said, and declaring he would get a doctor, drove away.

He did not return, she declared. Then Willie and a man, whose identity the Cornell woman did not know, carried little James across the street, she said, and she called police.

Little James' father is dead, she said, and his mother, a woman about 40, has been seeking employment.

Early yesterday morning she left the rooming house to hunt for a job and had not returned at the time of the accident.

Mr. Gaukel conferred with officials of the Chamber of Commerce with a plan of making Omaha an intermediary headquarters between foreign trade and middle west manufacturers. The primary object of this particular bureau is to assist manufacturers in the extension of their foreign trade.

Conventions Bring 34,939 Persons to City This Year

Omaha has had more conventions this year than in any previous year, according to statistics gathered by the bureau of publicity of the Chamber of Commerce.

So far in 1921 there have been 131 conventions, including seven national gatherings, as against 107 in Omaha last year and 112 in 1919.

Eleven more conventions are booked for Omaha before January 1. The total number of visitors to the various conventions and 25 carpenters in 1921 was 34,939 against 25,544 last year and 35,848 in 1919.

Pair Nabbed in Burglary Plead Guilty; Sentenced

Robert Harlan and J. M. Lennon, who were both greatly surprised when arrested by Detectives Trapp and Munch last week for robbing the Paramount Cleaners, 1422 South Sixteenth street, pleaded guilty before Judge Trapp yesterday and were sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

When taken in custody both men were laden with stolen clothing.

Dr. Leslie Fields Must Serve Term in Prison

Dr. Leslie Fields.

Dr. Leslie S. Fields, Omaha physician, must serve one to 10 years in the penitentiary, under a decision handed down by the supreme court in Lincoln yesterday, upholding the verdict of the jury which tried his case last December.

He was found guilty of causing the death of Ruth Ayer, 19, Hayes Center, Neb., girl by performance of an illegal operation, August 5, 1920.

Lincoln, Nov. 17.—The supreme court today dismissed the appeal of Ben Short, representing the Omaha local union of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, from an order made by the state railway commission last year, at the time when the street railway employees threatened to strike for increased wages.

The state railway commission issued an opinion at that time stating that it had the right to establish a general schedule of wages sufficient to attract and secure the necessary number of men to operate the system.

The court, in dismissing the suit, made no decision on this point, but merely held there was not enough material on which to base an appeal to the high tribunal.

The ruling of the commission, on which the appeal was taken to the high court, was made in refusing to grant the Omaha street railway employees an increase in wages.

While the case has been in the supreme court the street railway men's wages have been cut about 12 per cent.
