Arms Meet Forecast

Approval of Naval Holiday Assured as Result of Popular Sentiment in America, Britain and Japan.

Minor Plans May Fail

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING. Washington, Nov. 26 .- As the second week of the international conference came to a close today there was a fairly well defined prevision among the leading delegates of the character and extent of the eventual results of their labors. The negotiations have progressed to a point which appears to justify the following forecast of the outcome: An agreement of a naval holiday, providing for the radical reduction and limitation of naval armament, to which not only the United States, Great Britain, Japan but the other powers represented and eventually all other nations will subscribe, thus con-stituting the association of nations for minimizing the possibility of war which President Harding has long contemplated.

Will Protect China.

An agreement of the powers on general principles of a self-denying ordinance governing their relations with China, designed to put an end to aggressions upon the territorial and administrative integrity of ori-ental public and to assist the Chinese nation to regain unity and stability. Application of these principles to existing conditions in such manner as to bring about the withdrawal by the powers of some of the restric-tions upon the independent action of the Chinese government.

Postponement of the application of the principles to more difficult far eastern problems and of considera-tion of further assistance to China to a subsequent conference of the powers to be held, possibly in Pekin, in the course of the next two tionals of all countries be maintained, and that the territorial and administrative integrity of China be

Dissolution of the Anglo-Japanese alliance by the formal joint announcement of Great Britain and peace in the orient will be more adequately achieved under the changed conditions by the under-standing reached by all the powers on far eastern questions.

The widespread popular sentiment Great Britain, the United States and Japan in favor of the reduction and limitation of naval armament has been the best guarantee from the start of the success of the conference as to its principal object. If the delegates should go home without acheiving that aim they would he received with a howl of popular disapprobation. Consequently they will stick to the job till that task

Walk Out Proposals. The factor of success next in importance was the presentation at the outset of a tangible, clear cut plan for naval reduction by the American government. Diplomatic jockeying

British Fliers Plan Flight Around World, One East To West, Other West To East.

Prizes May Be Offered

By CAPT. CLAUDE R. COLLINS. utical Expert of Universal Service. New York, Nov. 26.-Within the next two months several attempts will be made to fly around the world. At least two of numerous British projects for the leap around the globe, under consideration for some time, will hop off shortly.

Sir Ross Smith heads one of the expeditions. The principle other British project will be a big flying boat, backed by an aircraft manufacturing concern. Either attempt will be in the do main of an adventure and is hardly expected to throw any real light on the problem of flight. Success will, however, prove highly credit-able for aircraft, and the aviators manning them. Of more advance interest is the selection of the probable routes to be followed with reference to seasons and prevailing winds.

Fly East to West. One of the first questions to be decided by these expeditions is whether the circuit of the planet shall be from east to west or from west to cast. Sir Ross Smith, who will fly a two-motored Vickers-Napier amphibian, and will be accompanied by his brother and Sergeant Bennett, who were with him on his flight to Australia, has decided to make the Cicht eastward flight eastward.

He proposes to follow his London-Australia route as far as Calcutta, Australia route as far as Calcutta, from where he will travel northeast, by the Asiatic shore of the Pacific, to the Arctic Circle, crossing to Alaska, and then fly by way of British Columbia and the Great Lakes. He intends to visit New York, then return northward to Nova Scotia, from where he will hen across the Atlantic to England op across the Atlantic to England.

One of his chief aims will be to avoid India monsoons and to choose a period during which the generally fogbound northern Pacific
