Jimmy Barry Proves He Has Edge Over Buff

Sports Writer Writes "Sees" Chicago Bantam as Better Boxer Than Buff in Mythical Fight.

THIS article is one of a series describing mythical fights between boxers who never have met. Many arguments are caused by those attempting to compare stars of the past with those who later achieved fame in the ring, and these series are meant to convey what might have happened had such contests been possible when the contestants were in their prime.

The story of an imaginary battle between Terry McGovern and Johnny Kilbane will appear next Sunday.

By RAY PEARSON. Paw Paw, Mich., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—Jimmy Barry, Chicago's sterling bantam, or to be more accurate, fly-weight, mastered Johnny Buff, the New Jersey crack, in a battle which went the limit of 10 rounds. It was a battle replete with slugging, which might have gone more rounds had the law permitted these boys to battle to a finish, but he was evident that Barry would have triumphed by a knockout in the end.

JOHNNY BUFF, Bantam champion.

Seldom has any pair of scrappers provided the action that Barry and Buff, we expounders and the fantastic art, turned out in this struggle. Here was Barry, fast as greased lightning, weighing only 109 pounds, and Buff, just as fast as a regular sacker, who notched just five boys never known to back up during his years in the ring, and here was Buff, a fast swinger who simply does on aggressive battling, and who could fight in no other way even if he tried.

As Game as Any Pair. Then, just add to these considerations that Barry and Buff are as game a pair of bantams as every striped for action, and there was nothing needed to make a battle that kept the fans on their feet howling, from the first clang of the gong until the final break up the battle, with Barry throwing a fusillade of damaging wallops to Buff's head and body, while the New Jersey boy lung on the ropes to save himself from a knockout.

We have said that gamer ringsters than Barry and Buff are not made, and in almost every round fought it was necessary for Buff to depend on gameness to stave off defeat. That was because Barry's punches carried greater force than those delivered by the boy from New Jersey.

Barry in Trouble Once. There was one round in which the Chicago boy seemed to be in trouble. It was the seventh, when Buff, pulling a spurt and trying for a knockout to offset the advantage gained by Barry in the earlier rounds, popped Jimmy with a stinging right hander on the jaw. The punch was hard, but lacked knockout force, and although it jarred Barry to the toes, it tore in savagely and swung rights and lefts so fast that the end of the session found Buff anxious to hear the bell.

Barry, the "old school" boy, always was shooting stiff lefts to the face and crossing rights to the jaw. Occasionally he changed his attack by hooking left and crossing his right to the body. He thus made it tough road for Buff to follow, did not combine as efficiently as Barry, did the business of offensive and defensive mulling, and it was his weakness in defending himself, rather than weakness in attack, that enabled Barry to defeat him.

Lesser Man Would Have Crumpled. A boy less game than Buff never would have stood up under the punishment meted out by the Chicago scrapper in the earlier rounds. It looked as if Buff was done, again in the ninth, and once more in the 10th and final session it appeared that the Jersey boy would crumple under the slugging attack of Jimmy. Just once did he drop to the canvas, and that was in the ninth. He took a five count then and came back gamely, finishing out the round on stamina alone.

Barry left the ring with a bruised lip, while Buff had a bleeding nose and one eye was nearly closed.

New Woman Golf Champ Contest in British Meet

Miss Mariou Hollins of New York, American women's golf champion, who advanced farthest for the Yankee women in their excursion into the British championship tourney last summer, expects to go abroad to England again in 1922. Miss Rosemond Sherwood of Stony Brook, N. Y., one of the best women golfers in the metropolitan district, also intends to play in Britain, as do some of the Chicago woman stars.

Past Season in Both Harness and Running Race Developed Champions of Highest Type

By CHARLES L. TRIMBLE. Secretary, Ak-Sar-Ben Exposition Co.

It is New Year, 1922, and it remains to be seen whether in a trotting or running race since 1922 can possibly compare with the wonderful results obtained in both branches of the sport during the past 12 months. It is, indeed, a pleasure to look over the splendid showings made by the 1921 champions in the Harness Horse world.

Peter Manning, 1:57 3/4 b. g. by Azoff, the world's champion trotter, during the Lexington trots wrestled the crown and scepter from Ullian 1:58 after a reign of nine years, and proved to be the greatest trotter in the history of the sport of harness racing. The last half was covered in 57 seconds and the last quarter in 27 1/2 seconds.

Trots to Record. Arion Guy, 4. b. h. 1:59 1/4 by Guy Axworthy, world's champion 4-year-old trotter, trotted to his record the same day at Lexington that Peter Manning established the world's record. Both champions were trained and driven by Tommy Murphy, the Poughkeepsie Wizard.

The following list shows the 1921 champions. Grey Worthy, 2:02 1/4, champion racing trotter. Rose Scott, 3, 2:03 1/4, 3-year-old trotter. Jeanette Rankin, 4, 2:03 1/4, champion money winning trotter. Guardian Trust, 3, 2:04 1/4, champion 3-year-old trotter. Herbelwyn, 2:05 1/4, champion 1/2-mile track trotter. Suavity, 2, 2:08 1/4, champion 2-year-old trotter.

Single G, 1:59, champion pacer. Jimmy McKerron, 2:01 3/4, champion money winning pacer. Sir Roch, 4, 2:02 1/4, champion 4-year-old pacer. Belmar, 3, 2:03 1/4, champion 3-year-old pacer. The Grand and Great Western circuit harness races provided wonderful entertainment for thousands of enthusiastic patrons. In these two circuits there were 18 meetings and more than $700,000 distributed to the horsemen.

During 1921 there were more than 1,300 race meetings held in the United States and more than 9,000 races were contested. The recent sales held at New York city and Chicago indicate very plainly that the public is anxious to buy good prospects and willing to pay high prices for them.

Big Things for 1922. Everybody looks forward to "Big

THE past season in sport competition in Nebraska has done much to awaken confidence in the athletes of Cornhusker land, and as a result the fields in each branch of sport during the reign of Old Man 1921 have been large. Especially was this true of golf, tennis, bowling and all high school athletics.

In the above layout are the photos of seven champions in their respective branches of sport for Nebraska during 1921. Because of the large number of champions in the state it is impossible to include all the champs, so we collected the photos of a few of the stellar performers who are outstanding stars.

Gus Tomah holds the singles bowling title of Nebraska, while Mrs. H. L. Arnold of Omaha is the champion woman golfer of the state. Blaine Young is the state golf champion, and Ralph (Duke) Powell still retains his championship tennis singles honor of Nebraska. Sam Reynolds captured the city golf championship, and Mrs. J. R. Jameson, the champion woman bowler of Omaha and Nebraska.

Herder, the speedy runner with W. Mauders up, while not a native of Cornhusker land, captured the lion's share of the money at the Ak-Sar-Ben initial running meeting last June and is worthy of mention.

Athletes Under Fire Get Temporary Cards

The Union Outfitting company bowling team dropped a trip of games to the Maritime provinces last night. Merna of the smokes captured high gains with a score of 214.

WITH THE PUGS.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, Dec. 28.—Tex Rickard has arranged a quartet of 16-round bouts to be held at Madison Square Garden next Friday night, January 6. Babe Herman, the little California who cut through his field in front of shape on his trip last night, has been matched to meet a night, the former Baltimore scrapper is the main event. The date was a member of the Jack Dempsey training camp last summer.

Efforts are being made to have Jack Britton defend his title as westernweight champion in a 15-round contest against Dave Shado in the Garden. The two had a previous exhibition in which Shado was said to have held his own against Britton. Shado will agree to return meet with the Californian.

Field Club Pro Weds Popular Omaha Artist and Society Girl

Introduced Mr. Stanley B. Davies, golf pro at the Field club, in a new role—that of love making. And he has proven as competent in the role of Romeo as he is on the golf course. Proof? Yesterday, Miss Gay Lavina Williams, popular young Omaha society girl and a portrait painter of ability, promised to "love, honor and obey."

In other words, the popular young woman was married to Miss Williams in his future home in the Hanscom apartments, by the Rev. Sharpless of Norfolk. The wedding was a quiet affair and only close friends of the couple were present.

Davies is widely known in Omaha golf circles. He came here from London five years ago and was assistant to Mr. Clark at the Field club for several years before becoming a professional. A brother, now in California, formerly was golf pro at Lincoln.

Commerces Alumni Defeat Varsity Cage Team at "Y," 33-26

The Commerces alumni basket ball team trounced the 1921-22 quintet on the Y. M. C. A. floor yesterday afternoon in a fast contest by the score of 33 to 26. Displaying the teamwork and basket shooting, that made last season's Commerces team known throughout the state, the alumni tried hard to pile up a large score on its opponents, but the guarding of Shoemaker and Krebs soon put a crimp in the hopes of the last year's basketekers. The half ended with the score of 15 to 13 in favor of the alumni.

Roy McDonald Appointed Umpire in Western League

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Roy McDonald of Hale, Mo., was yesterday appointed to the staff of umpires in the Western league for the 1922 season by President A. R. Tearney. McDonald is a former semi-professional player and has had considerable experience in Missouri, both as a player and an umpire.

American Athletes To Invade Australia

Arrangements are now being made on the Pacific coast to have a team of American athletes visit Australia and New Zealand early next year. According to information from the coast, a team of four athletes, under the leadership of "Dink" Templeton, coach of the Stanford university freshmen track team and former all-around star of the Stanford track and foot ball teams, will sail from San Francisco the latter part of next month.

Major Clubs Pick Training Camps

Connie Mack's Players Only Ones Who Don't Know Where They Will Train.

New York, Dec. 31.—Base ball managers are already perfecting their plans for the spring training season. Every major league team except the Philadelphia Athletics has picked a 1922 training camp. The Athletics were at Lake Charles, La., last season, but won't return there, and a report that they would get in condition at Montgomery, Ala., was denied by Connie Mack. The final selections are made as follows: American League—Vancouver, New Orleans, Indian, Dallas, Texas, Brown, Boston, La.; Washington Senators, Tampa, Fla.; Red Sox, Houston, Tex.; Detroit Tigers, Augusta, Ga.; White Sox, Sequita, Tex. National League—Glendale, San Antonio, Tex.; Pirates, Hot Springs, Ark.; Cardinals, Orange, Fla.; Brooklyn Robins, Jacksonville, Fla.; Boston Braves, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Chicago Cubs, Catalina Island, Calif.; Cincinnati Reds, Mineral Wells, Tex.; Phillies, Leesburg, Fla.

Landis Blamed For Kauff's Exile

New York, Dec. 31.—Emil Fuchs, counsel for Benny Kauff, former New York Giant outfielder, charged Federal Judge Landis, commissioner of baseball, with boycotting when he appeared yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Whittaker in an effort to make permanent an injunction restraining Judge Landis and others from preventing Kauff fulfilling his contract with the New York Giants.

Fuchs called Judge Landis' methods in the Kauff case "czar like," after the ball player was vindicated by a jury here for alleged shady transactions in stolen automobiles. He said he was kept from playing in organized baseball because Judge Landis "did not think he was a proper person to play with the Giants." He charged the commissioner with taking an arbitrary attitude, as Kauff never has been granted a trial before the highest authorities.

Eugene L. Bondy, appearing for the New York National league baseball team, announced the Giants are willing to tender Kauff another contract just as soon as he clears himself before Landis.

Kline to Lead Commerce Cagers

Merle Kline, Commerce High school athlete, was elected captain of the 1921-22 basketball team at a meeting held yesterday of eight letter men of the school.

The Commerce captain-elect is one of the star all-around athletes at the Bookkeepers' knowledge foundry. He has won two letters in foot—Merle Kline, three in baseball and one in track. His work on the gridiron last season was worthy of mention, and his ability to play basket ball has marked him as one of the best game performers at the Leavenworth school. This is his fourth year as a forward on Commerce basket ball teams.

Past Season Banner One for Husker Sports

Championship Valley Football Team and Good Cage Squad Help to Make 1921 Athletic Successful.

Lincoln, Dec. 31.—The University of Nebraska has had one of the best years it ever experienced in the line of athletics this past year. The Husker school has been able to interest a large number of students in athletics, and the athletic department's elasticity has allowed several sports, heretofore unknown at Nebraska as college sports, to be introduced into the institution.

Football has always been Nebraska's "big game." The season passed with the Husker institution represented by one of the best grid aggregations in the country. The Cornhusker griders won seven of their eight games and allowed but 17 points to be tallied against them during the season. On the other hand, the Huskers pushed 284 points across the line, defeating Nebraska Wesleyan, Haskell Institute, Oklahoma, Kansas, Pittsburgh, and the Colorado Aggies, losing to Notre Dame by a 0 to 7 score.

Three Huskers were mentioned prominently as leaders in American football. John Pusell, Husker guard, was chosen by Eckersall for the All American, with Swanson, Nebraska captain, and Lyman, tackle, ranking with the remainder of the grid leaders on all other famous choices for the mythical Hartley and Preston were prominently mentioned, especially in the Missouri Valley conference phantom.

Track Season Successful

The basket ball team of 1920-21 stepped into the limelight, under the direction of Coach Paul Schissler, and took 22 out of 24 games. The speedy quintet was shattered by graduation and only a few letter men are left for the 1921-22 squad. Schissler's work at Nebraska as a basket ball coach places him high in intra-mural circles.

But Schissler's ability to catch was not confined to manipulating the cagemen. He took in hand the dead spirit of baseball two seasons ago and revived the national pastime at Nebraska. The Husker school has had two seasons of baseball, the last fairly successful. Schissler's name, composed of new men, won six out of 10 games, losing to Oklahoma twice, the Kansas Aggies twice, and winning from Haskell twice. One victory was over Oklahoma, two over Wesleyan and one over Cotner. They respects for the coming year are bright, with a number of letter men back in school.

Schulte Good Coach

Track work at Nebraska under Coach Henry F. Schulte has reached a stage of development never before hoped for. Schulte has been getting out between 350 and 400 men for track and from this material sorted out an aggregation which won the Missouri valley championship for the first time in Nebraska's 14 years in the conference. The team also won the Penn Relays when Wright, Husker hurdler, forced Thomson of Dartmouth to equal the world's record in order to win.

The cross-country team this year entered but two meets, the one at Lincoln and the other at the Missouri Valley meet. The Aggies won from Nebraska and the Husker runners placed fourth in the Valley, the meet going to Ames. The cross-country furnished the distance runners for the team. They were well, Bowman, Kretzler and Allen, all of whom made points toward the Husker championship in the Valley.

Golf is being instituted at Nebraska and tennis will become a part of the Husker curriculum this spring. A team in each of these sports will be formed. The 26 new tennis courts at Nebraska have enabled the Husker racquetters to workout weekly, a great deal of ease, and letters will be awarded for members of the team next spring. Swimming is also being added and will be used as an intercollegiate sport with a team representing the Cornhusker institution out for honors. Boxing has been taken into the institution, and Harry Reed, lightweight scrapper, is instructing in the fistie sport.

The wrestling team last season engaged in several matches and entered the Western intercollegiate. Several of the letter men from last year and two years ago will be with the team this season. The mat sport is progress nicely at Nebraska.
