Anklets, Straps and Shoes

A few women who like to dress in a spectacular fashion may be interested in copying the fashion of a few French women who have taken up the fad of wearing an anklet beneath very thin stockings, depending on the thinness of the stockings and the brilliance of the stones or glitter of the gold to make it not difficult to behold.

Another rather striking fashion that we have taken from France is to wear leather straps above the ankles in connection with strapped slippers. These straps are placed about where the top of a high shoe would come. They are made in soft leather or satin to match the shoe, both shoe and strap usually being stitched in color—red or green or blue. The straps on the shoe buckle on the ankle and the matching straps buckle just above.

The sandal type of shoe is still in favor in copying the fashion of it emphasized by slashes and perforations over the toe. Often the slipper shows almost no support just above the arch of the foot.

Quite new are some sandal shoes that show very low heels. The low heels and rounded toes of these shoes make it possible to wear them in short lengths that would otherwise be impossible, so instead of making the feet look larger, as the woman who clings to high heels and pointed toes insists, they make them really look very much smaller. Added to all, usually it is the men and women who are wearing the shoes, both shoe and strap usually being stitched in color—red or green or blue. The straps on the shoe buckle on the ankle and the matching straps buckle just above.

White shoes and white and black shoes have proved immensely popular this season at the resorts, and with them white stockings are almost always worn.

Another costume selected were these: That of Queen Elizabeth, a girl of 1830 in hoops, an Indian princess in chamois costume embroidered in beads, Yama-Yama girl and a Greek dancer's costume. Even young girls nowadays do not refrain from going to such dances in costumes that have been agreed upon—at the lower left hand side of the invitation card.

At a fancy dress ball recently given by the younger set in Washington society the costumes were especially varied, many of them being genuine peasant costumes from our various

STEINWAY

STYLE M GRAND PIANO

Antique Mahogany Case $1375

This is the smallest of the six styles of Steinway grands, but much larger than the "baby" grands of other makes. We call it "The Miniature," but its length is 5 feet, 7 inches, giving sufficient sound-board area and string length for the best effects of the grand piano. Every extra inch of strings in a grand multiplies the value of tone and volume so tremendously that buyers should be cautious of "grands" that are grands only in shape.

We cordially invite you to call at our new sales-rooms and hear the incomparable STEINWAY tone. Liberal allowances made for instruments of other makes in exchange. Convenient terms of payment arranged if desired.
