His wife and two children, John and Andrew, jr., were at his bed-side when he breathed his last. Dr. William N. Anderson had been called a few minutes before. The police inspector was dying when the physician arrived.

He was about the house yesterday morning and toward noon complain-ed of feeling ill.

Superintendent of Police Henry Dunn was trying to get Inspector Pattullo on the phone when he heard a woman's voice crying over the wire. It was Mrs. Pattullo.
"Andrew just died," she sobbed.

Dunn Breaks Down. Commissioner Dunn broke down. He had been a fellow officer of the police inspector when both were young.

Inspector Pattullo's death was a shock in police circles. Saturday he was at his desk at Central police station until 6 o'clock. Every day during the packers strike he had arisen at 4 o'clock to go to the South Side station to see that all was well. On emergency calls to scenes of disorder or riot, Inspector Pattullo accompanied his men.

When Commissioner Dunn cautioned him against overworking him-self, the inspector said. "Well, the other men are putting in extra time and I'm right with them."

Worried by Attacks. To an intimate friend, Inspector Pattullo confided that he worried considerably over resent acceptable on the police department by City Commissioner Butler. J. It was Inspector Pattullo who is credited with injecting strict discipline in the police department and new methods of handling prisoners. He had charge of all parades and was an exponent of efficiency in police morale, dress and equipment.

The bandit relented.

With the watch argument concluded McCabe mustered the courage to ask for his lodge cards. They were in the wallet.

"No," the bandit said, "I'll mail em to you.

"Be a good sport," pleaded McCabe, but the bandit was obdurate.

Agreement Reached on Bonus Bill

Plan for Aid to Ex-Service Men Worked Out at White House Conference With Republican Leaders.

To Push Plan in Senate

Washington, Jan. 8.—A general agreement for the enactment of a bonus bill for former service men early in the present session of con-gress, it was indicated, had been reached at the conclusion of a White House dinner conference between President Harding and a number of senators, representatives and members of the cabinet.

The plan contemplates, it was understood, that the cost of the bonus will be defrayed, if possible, from receipts from the allied debts to the United States.

If these are not sufficient, it was said, it was tentatively suggested that a sales tax might be supported by the administration. Agreements Provisional.

All the agreements reached were provisional, it was emphasized by those who attended, and subject to revision if a further convass of sentiment among republicans in the house and senate makes it necessary. Other items of legislation under discussion include the permanent tariff and the refunding bill for the allied debt.

The conference lasted from 7 until midnight, and those present said that every possible detail of the legisla-tive situation was discussed, although it was not the intention to draw up plans or a definite program until other conferences have been held. It was indicated that President Harding will call in other representatives and senators later to give a broader scope to the discussions.

Plan Early Action.
The bonus bill, it was said, would probably be brought up in the senate in the very near future as a result of the negotiations tonight.
