

Crop Loans Asked of Finance Board by State Bankers

Resolutions Sent to Jefferis Asking That Growing Winter Wheat Be Taken as Collateral.

By EDGAR C. SNYDER.

Washington, Jan. 10.—(Special Telegram)—A group of 80 bankers of Cheyenne, Deuel and Kimball counties in conversation at Sidney (Neb.) late in December, have sent to the members of the Nebraska delegation in congress resolutions adopted at that meeting. The resolutions urge that growing winter wheat in good condition be accepted by the War Finance corporation as security for loans where the borrower is actually engaged and is in possession of sufficient farm property, including such wheat as to adequately secure the loans. The resolutions further urge that farm machinery extensively used in those localities be also accepted as collateral in view of the fact that new farm machinery is regarded as good collateral.

Talks With Cooksey.
Congressman Jefferis had a talk with Director Cooksey of the War Finance corporation with reference to the recommendation contained in the resolutions, and the likelihood of their being given the consideration they deserve, coming as they do from some of the best known bankers in the state.

Mr. Cooksey, in his talk with the congressman from the Second district, said that the consideration given by the War Finance corporation to matters of the character contained in the Sidney resolutions was based not so much on the nature of the security, but as to whether it was full and adequate. Mr. Cooksey further said that assuming that the security offered by the applicant was in other respects good, it might be possible to consider growing crops as a part of the collateral.

"It is rather difficult," the director said, "to state in the abstract what the War Finance corporation's attitude would be toward such security and the members. I feel sure, would rather deal with the matter according to individual cases as they are presented."

Thought Loans Adequate.
The director also remarked that he had presumed that the large sums recently loaned Nebraska farmers were adequate for present needs and that he was of the opinion that the resolutions passed at Sidney really concerned a situation which arose some months ago and which was now obviated.

Myron Learned and Frank A. Shotwell, Omaha attorneys who have been in Washington for several days, left for Nebraska this afternoon. They were presented to Attorney General Daugherty by Congressman Jefferis this morning.

Armour Must Resign Rail Directorship

Washington, Jan. 10.—J. Ogden Armour of Chicago was denied permission yesterday by the Interstate Commerce commission to retain his directorships in the Illinois Central and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad companies. Under the transportation act, Mr. Armour must surrender one of the positions of director immediately.

Only a brief order, bare of explanation except that "it has not been shown that either public or private interests would be adversely affected by his holding after December 31, 1921, the position of director of the Illinois Central Railroad company and of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company," was issued by the commission.

When the commission denies such applications, it is presumed to be for the reason that the railroads involved are competitors.

Paris, Jan. 10.—(By A. ### Lions Complimented on Growth of Club

Mr. Jones spoke briefly on the growth of Lionism in the United States and throughout the world and expressed his appreciation of the fact that the Omaha club showed signs of a healthy growth since his last visit here in February, 1921. William Baxter spoke on the Woodrow Wilson foundation. Representatives of the Burgess-Nash company gave a demonstration of draping a model and of the designing of Mina Taylor dresses. The program was concluded with the showing of a one-reel, historic film, which has not yet been released for public exhibition. There was a record attendance at the luncheon. Cub C. E. Cobby was chairman in charge of the entertainment.

Meanest Burglar Steals Fund From "Charity Box"
Katherine Dowd, chief nurse at Creighton Dental college, Twenty-sixth and California streets, finds the clinical students pennies, nickles and dimes when they forget to put their instruments in their proper places.

At the "close of business" Monday night the chief nurse had collected $4, which she placed in a "charity box," and which she planned to give to the Father Flanagan home fund. She returned yesterday to find the drawer of the desk pried open and the money missing. A burglar, it was found, had entered the building by a first floor window during the night.
