

Meeting at Genoa 'to End Wars'

Lloyd George Declares All Nations of Europe Asked to Meet to Bring Peace.

London, Jan. 21.—(By A. P.)—Premier Lloyd George, addressing the national liberal conference today, declared that all the nations of Europe, without distinction, had been invited to the Genoa economic conference "because we want to put an end to constant wars and rumors of wars."

Discussing the Washington conference he said: "The peace of the world largely depends upon good understanding between the United States and ourselves. The conference has done more than anything else to restore that understanding."

Faith in Mankind.

The premier, in referring to international conferences in general, said if there had been a conference in June, 1914, there would have been no war in August, 1914.

"No international conference ever settled Europe's problems," he said, "but they have advanced the cause of peace on earth. I have profound conviction and faith in the ultimate reason of mankind."

Mr. Lloyd George was greeted with a storm of cheers when he appeared on the platform in Central hall, where the conference was held. All the coalition ministers and liberal members of parliament were present. Replying to an eulogistic introduction by the chairman of the meeting, Mr. Lloyd George, the premier immediately began a discussion of the advantage accruing to the empire from the Irish settlement.

Enhances Prestige.

"It is the first time for a century," he said, "that we have had an Irish government established with the wholehearted sanction of the people of Great Britain."

Mr. Lloyd George said that the Irish settlement had enhanced the prestige of Great Britain throughout the world and had deprived our enemies of the means of that treaty that we were always willing to give excited advice to other nations, which we never followed ourselves."

Touching on the subject of a general election he disclaimed that he had started the talk of it, saying he had not made up his mind in regard to such an election and that it would not be his business to do so until the last minute.

"Whether the election comes early or late," he added, "we shall have but one policy to put before the country—a policy not dictated by electioneering exigencies, but a policy demanded by the needs of the country and of the world."

Must Establish Peace.

World trade, he said, was in a worse plight than any one present had ever before witnessed. He continued:

"International confidence is the basis of international trade. The problem confronting Great Britain and the world may be summed up in one phrase—restoration of international confidence."

"Order will restore confidence. We must establish real peace in the world."

Mr. Lloyd George said he was looking to the Genoa conference to restore peace in the east.

"If permanent peace is established there must be a great reduction in the costs of armaments," he added.

"The British army is being reduced to below prewar standard and the navy and air forces are being reduced also. The nations must be prepared to take risks for peace."

Believer in League.

The prime minister said he was a believer in the league of nations, "and I wish some of my friends would not run it as if it were a sort of little party show," he added.

"With reference to German reparations he said:

"I am one of those who think Germany ought not to be let off from payment, but Germany is suffering from exhaustion, like other nations, and delay is inevitable. The sooner, however, a settlement is reached the better."

"The less governments interfere with trade the better for trade and the governments," Mr. Lloyd George went on. "There is but one urgent program—peace on earth, good will amongst men."

Says Arms Meet a Success.

The premier said the Washington conference had been a notable success and owed a great deal of gratitude to Mr. Balfour, the head of the British delegation.

The prime minister affirmed his belief that the Washington conference had done more than anything else to restore a good understanding between Great Britain and America and went into a discussion of the benefit of international conferences.

"All who are anxious for peace and who have the courage to tread the path believe in face to face discussion," he added.

Dunn Denies Omaha Police Inquisitions

"Third degree methods are not used by the Omaha police," Police Commissioner H. W. Dunn, said today. This statement was made yesterday by the commissioner in reply to a report that B. C. Hubbell, assistant secretary of the Society for the Friends of the State, had written to complain of brutal inquisitions held by the police here.

"Prisoners frequently make accusations against the police because they believe the police are responsible for their incarceration," said Commissioner Dunn.

"There is nothing to the third degree charges against the Omaha police," he added.

Little Progress Made in Railway Wage Discussion

Hearings at Chicago to End This Week—Labor Board to Decide Practically All Points.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Railway shop workers on 40 roads whose delegates have been in conference here for many days with railroad executives, expect to complete their negotiations this week. It is admitted that little progress has been made regarding lower wages and modified shop rules and that practically all points at issue will be taken before the United States railroad labor board for final judgment. The proposed shop rule reductions are effective February 1.

"The railroads are not making an honest effort at negotiating a lower wage," declared B. M. Jewell, president of the railroad employees department of the American Federation of Labor. "They are making no effort to offer data on the cost of living or wages for similar work in other industries. The general course is to pass the wage reduction along to the men with instructions to take it or leave it."

Mr. Jewell said a strike vote was still a possibility, although he admitted there was a danger of striking a snag in the transportation act. Various interpretations of the new shop rules have been fairly well ironed out in the conferences and the general committee will meet Sunday to take final action on these amended rules.

Ulster Agrees on Boundaries With South Erin

London, Jan. 21.—(By A. P.)—Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, and Michael Collins, head of the provisional government for Ireland formed under the Anglo-Irish treaty, issued a joint statement this evening announcing an agreement regarding the question of the boundary between Ulster and southern Ireland.

The agreement, it is announced, also provides for the cessation of the southern Ireland boycott against Belfast and the return of the Catholic workmen to the Belfast shipyards.

The Collins-Craig agreement likewise provides that the two governments (of northern and southern Ireland) devise a more suitable system than the proposed "council of Ireland" for dealing with problems affecting the whole of Ireland.

Today's agreement was considered here as giving promise of an amicable adjustment of affairs between Ulster and southern Ireland.

8 States in Buyers' Strike on Cement

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Executive officers of the highway departments of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, South Dakota and Wisconsin today at the opening session of the Mississippi valley conference of state highway departments declared a buyers' strike against the cement manufacturers of the country. A flat 10 per cent decrease in the price of cement is wanted by the highway officials, and their refusal to enter into negotiations with cement manufacturers will retard construction of more than $100,000,000 worth of highways, they said.
