

Society

In a season remarkably void of huge social affairs, such as lavish balls, debutante presentations and brilliant dinner parties, the Salvation Army Rescue-home nursery committee ball at the Fontenelle hotel Thursday evening, February 9, looms large on the social horizon. There has been no lack of beautiful weddings during past months, and no end of delightful small affairs, nor was the younger set anything but well entertained during the holidays. A really large social function one has to go back to the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities or to the Associated Charities dinner dance at the Brandeis so long ago as last September.

Checks which are reaching Mrs. Charles Offutt of the nursery committee by every mail indicate the eagerness of Omaha's elite for a truly large fashionable occasion. The dinner offered by the Fontenelle hotel preceding the dance is proving popular. Among the larger parties for which reservations have been made is the one by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Page, who will entertain Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. William Ritchie, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Kinsler, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Crofoot, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Gaines, Mrs. Frances Nash Watson and Ben Warren.

Mrs. Blanche Peterson will have as her guests Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Westbrook, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wickham, Dr. H. M. Fitzgibbon, Messrs. Walter Head, Farnam Smith, Ed Moore and Earl Gannett.

Sullivan-Moriarty

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Moriarty announced the marriage of their daughter, Viola, to a young man, Patrick Sullivan, which took place Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Our Lady of Lourdes church. This is the first wedding which has been performed in the new church. Father Dowd performed the ceremony in the presence of only the immediate families. The bride wore a Malaya brown suit, trimmed in Scotch moiré; a hat of orange satin and a corsage of Ophelia roses. Miss Sue Moriarty, sister of the bride, who was her attendant, wore a navy blue suit and a matching hat. The bride had a corsage of sweet peas to match. After a short motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan will be at home at the Hamilton hotel.

Green-Field

The wedding of Miss Anis B. Field of Omaha and Arthur A. Green of Fairfax, Mo., was solemnized Tuesday evening at the home of the bride by the Rev. B. V. Vanderlippe of Clifton Hill Presbyterian church. Following a three months trip through California, Mr. and Mrs. Green will be at home on the Green ranch near Fairfax.

Prizes for Card Party Announced

Card players of Omaha will be interested to know that the many beautiful trophies awaiting the winners at the first card party to be given by the Omaha Woman's club Friday afternoon in the Burgess-Nash tea room.

Auction and high-five will be played. Tables for auction will be found in the main café and high-five tables in the northeast private dining room. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

This is the first of a series of parties to be given to raise money for the new woman's club house.

The following prizes have already been secured: Two pairs of silk hose, candy jar, pottery, baking dish, bread board and knife, six tridescant tumbler, cut glass vase, mahogany domino sugar tray, thermos bottle, tiffany fruit dish, polychrome candles, three pairs of individual salt and pepper, pair of book ends, calendar, cornpone and an Italian flower pot.

Humane Society Committee

Mrs. C. L. Farnsworth, Mrs. A. J. Love, Miss Jessie Millard, Mrs. C. E. Carter, Mrs. W. B. Tagg, Mrs. Walter Page, Mrs. W. H. Harper, Mrs. Mary Hultz, Mrs. E. Ferris, Mrs. John W. Welch, Mrs. W. S. Martin, Mrs. W. W. Bradley and Mrs. Otis Alvison who are sponsoring the humane society pencil-selling campaign, have been meeting their teams regularly at the Burgess-Nash headquarters on the fourth floor. This committee has charge of 13 districts, one woman for each district. Those who will meet Thursday with their Walter Page, Mrs. W. W. Bradley and Mrs. G. E. Ferris.

Two Families to Travel

Mrs. John Iten and her daughter, Miss Helen Iten, of Los Angeles, are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. O. Barnett. Numerous informal affairs are being given for them by their friends. Mrs. Iten, Miss Iten and Miss Irene Barnett leave Sunday night for a European trip. Mr. and Mrs. Barnett will accompany them as far as New York, and from there will take a three week's trip to Cuba and New Orleans before returning to Omaha.

For Denishawn Dancer

Miss Mary C. Cooper entertained at luncheon at the Blackstone hotel Wednesday for Miss Doris Humphrey who is appearing at the Orpheum this week. Miss Humphrey is a Denishawn pupil, having studied there for five years. She is looked upon by many as the possible successor to Miss Ruth St. Denis. Appearing with Miss Humphrey is Dorothea Bowe who has been here with Ted Shawn at the Brandeis last fall.

Re-Elected President

Fuller-McDermid Wedding Is Announced

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDermid of Kansas City of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Maud McDermid, and Edward Fuller of Omaha, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fuller. The marriage took place December 4 in Colorado Springs, where both young people were spending the winter. The wedding was not announced at the time, or later at Christmas, when Mr. Fuller spent two weeks with his parents in Omaha, and it is a surprise to his friends.

This is the second wedding in the family to be announced in the weekly column. The first was that of Miss Mary Fuller and Paul Shirley were quietly married at the Fuller home last Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fuller will make their home in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Fuller is said to be one of the most attractive girls of the young social set in Kansas City. She attended Miss Bennett's school at Millbrook, Conn., where she and Miss Mary Fuller were good friends. Although she met Edward Fuller at that time when he was attending the law school nearby, the romance did not develop until a later date in Colorado. Several Omahans have met Mrs. Fuller, among them Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Allison, who stopped at Colorado Springs on their wedding trip last fall.

Musical Tea At the Home of Mrs. Bradshaw

The first of a series of musical teas given by the February team of the First Methodist church, will be at the home of Mrs. D. E. Bradshaw, 102 South Fifty-second avenue, Tuesday afternoon, February 7. Other hostesses during the month will be Mrs. J. H. Reedy, February 9; Mrs. Homer Stuntz, February 16; Mrs. George Mickle, February 23. Friends and members of the church are invited. These teas are part of the intensive work of the Ladies Aid which has divided into monthly teams for their accomplishments.

On the program at Mrs. Bradshaw's home will be a trio composed of Mrs. P. F. Dreibus, Mrs. E. F. Williams and Miss Thelma Cole; Mrs. Flora Sears Nelson, who will give piano numbers; Mrs. Charles H. Wright, soloist, and Mrs. Ernest A. Reese, violinist.

Swastika Club

Mrs. Roy Hinman was hostess for the Swastika club Tuesday afternoon at a high five party. Mrs. Louis Cobb was a guest of the club. The next meeting will be with Mrs. O. C. Johnson.

My Marriage Problems

Adelle Garrison's New Phase of "REVELATIONS OF A WIFE"

The Task Lillian Asked Madge to Perform.

Katie went slowly out of the room, a bowed, drooping figure, so pitifully different from the volatile, tempestuous little maid who had served us so long and so faithfully that I could not keep the tears from my eyes as I watched her.

For I knew, as Lillian and Mother Graham did not, the bitter disappointment which was in store for her when she should read her letter. But I always get around that husband who had adored her in his clumsy, stolid fashion, had gone away for an indefinite period, firm in the belief that she no longer loved him, that, instead, she cared for the man she had been meeting in so mysterious a fashion.

The door had no sooner securely closed upon her than Mother Graham whirled upon me. "You can't fool me!" she said. "There's something going on that I don't know anything about. What did Jim tell you tonight when he asked to see you in the kitchen? Has he left Katie? If he has, he ought to have his neck wrung. I wish I had known what he was up to when she came sneaking around asking me to talk to you. I'd have put a flea in his ear. I can tell you that."

Not Exactly. "Not that she doesn't deserve to have him leave her," my mother-in-law resumed, with one of the lightning-like changes of front with which she often bewilders us. "Almost any husband would raise Cain at the way she's been acting lately. But, for all that—look here, Margaret, haven't you a tongue in your head? Did Jim tell you he was going to leave Katie for good?"

"Not exactly," I returned, thankful, indeed, that my promise to Jim concerning his plans extended only to Katie. I could confirm Mother Graham's guess with a conscience. The day after the opportunity was given me to warn her against saying anything to Katie about Jim's departure. I wanted to deal with my little maid on that question by myself.

"What sort of an answer is that? Now, don't you come any of your high-and-mighty airs with me, Margaret, for I won't have it. I have a right to know what is going on in this house, and if you can't tell me I'll go straight to Katie and get it out of her."

She started to the door, her head held high. That she would make good her threat I well knew, and I returned Lillian's wink of understanding commiseration with a wry grin, as I followed her and put a restraining hand upon her arm.

"I haven't the slightest intention of keeping anything from you, mother. Come into the library and I'll tell you what Jim said."

I made the mental reservation, as I followed Dickey's mellified mother from the kitchen, that I had not promised to tell her all Jim had said; and I carefully censured my report of the conversation as I repeated it to Mother Graham. But it satisfied her curiosity, and provided her with a glowing recommendation of a wonderful thing to give her when she is especially rampagous—in the proposed substitution of Jerry Ticer for Jim in the doing of the farm chores.

eternal 'yes, ma'am' of his makes me feel like throwing the poker at him! And I know he'll forget every single solitary thing I tell him to do.

I mentally agreed with her, for the redoubtable Jerry, although one of the most obliging lads in the world, and a good, faithful worker, of whom even Mother Graham approves in her good-natured moments, has a most wretched memory. But I always get around that deficiency of Jerry's by checking each order I give him with a similar request to his mother. And as Mrs. Ticer could give cards and spades to any memory teacher, I always feel secure about any tasks I may lay upon Jerry's willing shoulders.

I knew that Mother Graham would forget all about Katie in her contemplation of Jerry Ticer's deficiencies, and I encouraged her in a monologue upon the boy until she ran down for want of words, and remembered that she ought to make an inspection of Richard Second and the other sleeping children.

"Of course," I acquiesced, but I looked at Lillian ruefully when my mother-in-law finally left us. "Will this day never end?" I asked, with every nerve and muscle reminding me that I had risen at dawn, had driven over a hundred miles, and had just experienced one of the most strenuous hours of my life.

"Yes," smiled Lillian, looking at her watch, "in an hour and a quarter more, and we'll have just about time before Dicky and his sister get here to take the wheels of tonight's happenings apart and see if we can't find out what makes them go round."

When a child of a neighbor annoys one, should one deal with him, and if so how; or should one speak to his mother?

Theoretically, you should go at once to the mother or father of the offender, who should, theoretically, be glad to know the child's faults. In actual practice this may lead to much ill-feeling, as few parents ever put the tall hind wheels in front, and he has been traveling uphill ever since.

Today as Luke Mathews was reciting a big tale about an earthquake that swept through this country many years ago, a fine bit of realism was added when one of the loaves under the postoffice raised up too high.

Washington Hocks says it seems to him that the government did such a big business in selling postage stamps and cards for Christmas that it could at least put a new roof on our postoffice building.

Hemo-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply ready and quickly made. Saves about 50%.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon cures your cough entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine needles, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" in small directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Problems That Perplex

Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

In Doubt. "Dear Miss Fairfax: Although I have never been the party of the second part to a 'petting party,' I am prompted to enter the discussion, to have my own problem solved thereby.

To me a kiss is not a platonic thing like a handshake or a smile, but a symbol of love and affection—something sacred to be reserved for the right one. However, it appears that men do not cherish this sentiment as the girl who does 'gets left.' And deep down in her heart, Miss Fairfax, what girl wants to lose out? I cannot help but feel that the quiet, timid, 'cold' appearing girl's love is just as warm as the frivolis girl's. If properly encouraged, but she does not get the chance or, she is supposed to 'make her chances?'

Now, I am wondering if I would be justified in 'loosening up' in my idealism, in playing the game like the popular girls, and have some good times. To vamp or not to vamp, that is the question. I mean, E. E.

It is easy to see from your letter what you think of 'loosening up.' Now do you really think you would get any satisfaction out of such a performance if you lost your own self-respect in the process? I don't. In a sense, a girl can make chances for herself without being the least a vamp. She can be friendly, sympathetic and good natured. If she is 'timid, cold and quiet' her love may be 'just as warm' but her appearance would certainly be a bit intimidating. There is no need to hide your light under such a bushel. One great secret is that of appearing to enjoy yourself. No one is attracted to a girl who mopes.

C. A. You say that the thing which rankles most in your heart is that you got the worst of the bargain. At any rate you no longer care for the man, and have no intention of going back to him. You are only 23 and there is no reason why you should not still find a good deal of happiness in your life. If you intend to divorce him, why postpone action, unless you have some idea of patching things up again. You say the court makes him pay your weekly. If the court awarded it to you, it proves that the law believes you are entitled to it. Since you supported yourself for so many years while you were his wife I see no reason why you should have any compensation about accepting what is due you. You say he goes about with other women, and would you do wrong to go out occasionally? As a rule it is not considered very good form for a woman to go out with men of her acquaintance under such circumstances, until a divorce decree is granted her. There might be no actual harm in it, but you would lay yourself open to the gossip of any waging tongues interested in you. The other course is more dignified. Fall back on women friends for company for a while.

Brown Eyes: Being introduced to a whole group of people at one time is always rather difficult. Try to look at each person as you are mentioned, smile or bow slightly. It is correct to smile at the end of such a general introduction. "I am glad to meet you." If a man is formally introduced to you, as at a dance, it is unnecessary to shake hands. "How do you do?" "I am glad to meet you," is sufficient reply, and it is customary for the man, rather than the girl, to express pleasure.

If a third person joins two people who are talking, one of whom he does not know, it is compulsory with good manners that he be introduced at once to the third person. If an introduction is omitted it saves the third person embarrassment to slip away if an opportunity offers.

J. H. N.: If you need a housekeeper, you might advertise or apply to the Y. W. O. A. or an employment agency. I am sorry, but this department does not furnish correspondents or addresses.

SUCCESS OF TANLAC

IS DUE TO MERIT ALONE

Personal Recommendation of Celebrated Medicine by Persons It Has Restored to Health Is the Chief Reason for Its Tremendous Sale.

Nat a day passes but what thousands of people ask the questions: What is Tanlac? Why its phenomenal success? Why do we hear so much about it? The answer to these questions is not difficult.

Tanlac, Nature's Medicine, is a wonderful Reconstructive Tonic and body-builder. It is purely vegetable and is made from the most beneficial roots, herbs and barks known to science. The medicinal properties are readily taken up by the system, thereby aiding digestion, stimulating the appetite and assisting the stomach in converting the food into nourishing elements that build up tissue and nerve strength. There is probably not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of this remarkable medicine.

The system being purified and strengthened by Tanlac is toned up and invigorated. It quickly overcomes indigestion, non-assimilation of the food, nervousness, headache, backache, general debility and many other complaints that are so common to the thousands of half sick, depressed men and women.

Tanlac was designed primarily for the correction of disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. At the same time, as stated above, it is a powerful Reconstructive Medicine, for it naturally follows that any medicine that brings about proper assimilation of the food and the thorough elimination of waste products must, therefore, have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system.

Probably 80 per cent of all diseases originate in the digestive organs. Dyspepsia, or what is more commonly known as indigestion, is not only one of the most prevalent,
