

America Must Bar Japs to Maintain Peace, House Told

Japanese in U. S. Running "Government Within Government," Coast Editor Declares.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—If friendly relations with Japan are to be maintained the United States government "must efficiently stop the continued admission of Japanese and the rapid increase of Japanese population," V. S. McClatchy, publisher of the Sacramento, Cal., Bee, declared in a statement today before the house immigration committee.

Urges Federal Action. Urging federal action along the lines approved by the California legislature in its memorial to congress last year, Mr. McClatchy declared the "gentlemen's agreement" between this country and Japan "should be cancelled as failing to carry out the purposes for which it was made, and this country should, by treaty or proper legislation, accomplish the intent of that agreement as clearly set out by President Roosevelt, under whom it was made."

Although immigration from other countries has been sharply curtailed under the percentage immigration act, Mr. McClatchy said, approximately 6,500 Japanese have been permitted to come into the United States under the agreement since that legislation went into effect. While the immigration of Japanese "picture brides" has been stopped "in deference to public protest," he said, there are now coming to this country "in still greater numbers" what he described as "excursion brides." These, he declared, are urged to beget many children in order that the Tamato race may be permanently established on this continent.

Government Within Government. Mr. McClatchy asserted that Japanese in this country were "maintaining here a government within the government most dangerous to American institutions." The citizenship of those born here is being "utilized largely for purposes of Japan" he declared, adding that of the 90,000 claiming rights as American citizens by registration up to last year only 73 had applied for expatriation from Japan, and only 64 had been granted it. He said there were nearly 20,000 Japanese mines born in Hawaii now temporarily resident in Japan between 10,000 and 15,000 who were born in California.

Pioneers Discuss Omaha as Village

County Association Holds Its First Meeting Since New Officers Installed.

The spirit of old Nebraska is still vibrant with keen interest about progressive affairs in the state, as was indicated at a well attended meeting of the Douglas County Pioneers' association in the court house yesterday.

The occasion was the first meeting of the association since the installation of new officers. Nearly 100 men and women attended. George R. Armstrong, who was 5 years in Omaha in 1855, a year after the village was incorporated, presided. He is one of the oldest members in the association. Mrs. Mary McCormack, secretary, and Mrs. Eva Paige Wilson, treasurer, presided over the event when they went over the minutes of the meeting which took place at the old Jefferson school that stood near Sixteenth and Chicago streets. Other old-time members of the association who attended the meeting were Mrs. Jennie L. McGinn, 1621 Pinkney street; Mrs. Isabelle Bennett, Jacob Countzman, treasurer; Moses P. O'Brien and Carr Asford. The association will hold a banquet February 22.

Following examination, physicians reported to Mrs. Enrico Caruso that her daughter, Gloria (above) had a throat formed almost exactly like that of her famous father.

With Nebraska Editors

Mayer Ellsberry of Grand Island and J. D. Ream have purchased the weekly newspaper established in Grand Island some months ago and devoted to union labor. The paper has been edited and printed in Lincoln. The new editors will make it strictly a local paper.

Madison Editor Marries. Frank Connelly, editor of the Madison Star-Mail, is passing around cigars and admitting that she finally said "yes." The ceremony was performed in Omaha. Miss Jessie Gilland, deputy recorder of deeds in Madison county, is the latest addition to the fourth estate.

Tribune Uses "Screamer." Adam Breede of the Hastings Tribune is publishing his daily paper with a "screamer" in red ink across the front page.

Back at Helm. After an absence of over a year and a half, the name Willis is again at the head of the Stockville Publisher. R. O. Willis is editor and publisher, and A. J. Willis, associate editor.

Paper Enlarged. Editor Shields has enlarged his Benedict Booster to a four-column size. The paper is well patronized and the new is written in a live and original style.

Sells Interest. F. A. Napier disposed of his interest in the Lincoln Tribune to the Tribune Publishing company. The paper will be continued under the same name and "Skin" McNew will be at the helm for the present.

New Publication. Ernest Smith, recently with the Bridgeport News-Blade, is soon to launch the Morrill County Democrat at Bridgeport, according to rumor in western Nebraska. He will be editor of the new publication.

Hammond Buys Dailies. Ross L. Hammond, former editor of the Fremont Tribune, collector of internal revenue at the Omaha office, and candidate for United States senator in Nebraska, has purchased and consolidated two daily newspapers at El Centro, Cal., according to word reaching his former associates at Fremont. His son, LeRoss, who until last spring attended the University of Nebraska, will be managing editor. Two years ago, after 40 years in the newspaper field, Mr. Hammond retired and purchased a large alfalfa ranch in California, where he has been operating.

"Can't Be Did." With Bill Maupin as governor, Asa Woods as representative, Edgar Howard as United States senator and Adam Breede as congressman, it looks like Frank, Watkins and I ought to be able to land a job somewhere between rum, slumh'm and postoffice.—Clay County Sun.

As much as we would like to see Adam, Frank and Fred land, it simply can't be did if Maupin and Howland are as necessary parts of the prescription.—Sutton Register.

prayers—for you, honey," and Jill's downcast lashes were unusually shy. "And now listen to your feminist friend. We have progressed beyond the old-fashioned idea of housework. Every wife should have equal freedom with the husband. Children should be educated by the state and, to educate them in the new equality, should be reared from infancy in state institutions, freed from the silly sentimental influence of the old-fashioned home."

Jill nestled her head over his shoulder and spoke very softly. "Dear boy, if—some time, you know—any state official should come to our home—to take away a little Jack or a little Jill to be reared by the state—" "You'd what, dear?" asked Jack with a low laugh. "I'd show him that a woman had as good a right as a man, and I'd use it on his eye, the hateful old thing!"

"Ah, ha! And so the New Feminism doesn't make such a hit then, dear?" "No, honey. I guess I'm an advocate of Old Fashioned Womanism. Or I would be if my husband kissed me and hugged me hard enough to be glad that I am wearing a ring which symbolized the ancient slavery."

Nebraskans Need Pioneer's Faith, Asserts Banker

Present Financial Woes Petty Compared to Trials of Early Settlers, Head Tells Lumbermen.

The kind of faith that will bring Nebraska back to prosperity is that kind the pioneers had when they overcame every hardship and turned the prairies into broad fertile farms, Walter W. Head, president of the Omaha National bank, declared in a speech before the Nebraska lumber men in convention at the Hotel Rome yesterday. His subject was "Have Faith in Nebraska," and the banker said: "To any man who is harassed with doubt and discouragement as to the present outlook and future development in this state, I suggest he spend an hour some evening reviewing the history of this state. If so doing does not strengthen his nerve, does not enable him better to master the problems that oppress him, then he is not worthy to be called a true Nebraskan."

"The settlement of Nebraska began in the 50's and in 1867 it became a state. "The faith and hope which brought those early settlers to Nebraska was often tried. From 1870 to 1880 was a period of hardship—Indian wars, grasshoppers, droughts and prairie fires—but the indomitable spirit of the pioneers fought down these discouragements and laid deep the foundation for wealth and prosperity we see all around us today. When we think of the trials and troubles of those days, the problems which we have today seem almost petty in comparison. "The banking and financial situation is immeasurably improved. Credit is now available for every one who has a sound basis for it; money is becoming more plentiful and cheaper, and this is always a forerunner of a period of revived industrial activity. "If we can but combine with the productive resources we have today the courage, spirit, energy and perseverance of the pioneers we will carry Nebraska along to greater heights and triumphs than it ever has known before."

Dog Hill Paragraphs. Ellick Helwanger says if the hound dogs don't stop howling every time the Excelsior Fiddling Band plays in public, he is going to get offended and quit. Somebody told Sap Spradlen that when a person went crazy they were the last one to believe that they were, but he says he would bet anybody a dollar that he is not.

Several from here visited Musket Ridge in the night. Some of the old out and the new in, as they could get a better view up there.

Be sure your reasons are logical. "It is not sufficient to say, 'I do not know you to do that,' or 'don't do that because I say so.' "Occasionally it is well to appeal to a child's courtesy—their sense of deferring to another's preference, but usually let them learn why there is objection to the forbidden thing. "It may take time and be very aggravating to you to have to explain, but if you will meen up your mind to be ready with good and sufficient reasons for what you require in obedience you will reap a greater reward in long-run.

Parents' Problems. How can children best be taught the right attitude of mind toward their school teachers? As they can best be taught most other things—by the example of their parents. The old custom of "boarding around" was exceedingly valuable in one respect, namely, the pupil saw the teacher, to whom his obedience and deference were due, treated in his own home as a respected guest. Pupil and teacher met simply as people, and without even the formality of the teacher's desk between them. Much of the discontent of children at school springs from home criticism of the
