Direct the conversation along impersonal lines when in the company of afflicted ones. Endeavor to get the person who is sad over the loss of a near one to think and talk along interesting and absorbing topics wholly irrelevant but personally agreeable in tone.

Do not be sad and mournful, and do not go to the other extreme and be too frivolous. The person who controls expressions of sympathy in the presence of those who are lonely for a dear one gone recently is far more of a friend than the one who bursts out emotionally, and prompts a renewal or an increase of the heartache, which it is intended to alleviate.

What can be done to make a summer in a remote country place a time of happiness and profit to a city girl of 14, who finds the country "lonesome" and "dull"? It is well worth while to take time and trouble to give this lonely girl companionship. Cannot a friend be asked for a long visit, or a country neighbor invited—even if one must take pains to arrange it? If no other children are available, then a definite study of birds, animals, shells, flowers, or learning to ride a bicycle, swim or play tennis, with older people, will help pass the time. Loneliness is largely cured by regular and interesting occupation.

Colors to Wear. M. D.: Beauty and color are related. Remember that the hair does not entirely determine the colors one should wear. The complexion is an important consideration. Green, for example, is advised only for those with a healthy complexion. Pinks also require a youthful and fresh complexion. Tans and grays and olive green, which are to be popular spring colors, would not go well with a faded skin. Pinks, yellows and baby blues are good only for the young. Here is a table made up by a smart dressmaker and published by Antoinette Donnelly, the beauty specialist:

Red Head—Browns, every shade, particularly the golden and reddish browns; black; almost every shade of green if coloring is good; the new olive spring shade; jade for evening; fuchsias and purples; tans and grays. Blonde—Blue, mostly every shade; pink for the young and fresh; no yellows; lavender and lavender with touches of blue, ivory white; black. Brunette—Black; tans and grays; brown; yellow; lavender; rose and pink. Gray Hair—Gray (except slate and battleship grays, which are old colors); lavender or purple for evening; white, black; no green unless coloring is fresh; dark purple for street.

Phyllis: Perhaps the boys and girls of your own town were a little envious of you for a time, and they must be tried out carefully, always with an eye to their effect on the skin and on the eyes. There are colors that are extremely dulling and disastrous in effect. So the same analytical eye should be turned on them and if one is doubtful as to colors they may wear, and colors and line after all are, much more important in a becoming dress than material.

A. B. C.: I have the name of a woman who has an auto knitter. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope, I will forward it to you.

My Marriage Problems

Adele Garrison's New Phase of "REVELATIONS OF A WIFE"

How Marion Saved Little Roderick. At Marion's piercing cry, both Elizabeth and I turned and dashed for the stairs. But quick as we were, Lillian was swifter still. She brushed past us as we reached the top steps, and, grasping the banister, she swung herself down three steps at a time, as lightly as an athletic young girl could have done.

By the time we had reached the bottom step she was running through the lower hall. But a refractory catch upon the screen door brought her to a sudden stop, and the few panic-stricken seconds in which she wrestled with it, we heard her weaned to see the reason for Marion's screams.

The children, tired of the circus, evidently had been staging a Wild West story. They were all attired in broad-brimmed straw hats, in advance of initiation of sombreros, all save little Roderick—and as I caught sight of him I had for a second no breath even to remark that he had not been afraid it would startle the child.

"Take Him—Mother!" Lillian breathed and threw her weight against the screen door violently. The catch gave, and the next second all three of us were speeding across the lawn, our voices calling a peremptory command to Marion.

But Marion's flying figure was heretofore, and I saw one of Roderick's brothers dancing in evident pain, his hand to his mouth. That Marion must have bitten him in order to get free I realized subconsciously, but all my conscious attention was riveted in Lillian's ordinarily gentle little daughter who reached the tree in time to catch Roderick as Mary withdrew the barrel, and to hold him in such a position that the slip-noose which had drawn close around his neck could not choke him.

"Take—take him—Mother!" she gasped, as she had reached her side, and she put the now screaming child in her mother's arms, then turned to Mary: "Now!" she said tensely, drawing a deep breath, and the next second she had thrown herself upon the other girl with a wild ferocity which was so foreign to the child's ordinary nature that I watched her fascinated.

"Is He All Right?" Mary Harrison went down at once before Marion's onslaught, and though she used fists, feet and teeth valiantly as the two rolled over and over on the grass together, she had no voice, which I assessed, Marion, "Here!" Lillian transferred the sobbing, screaming Roderick to the arms of his mother—who had appeared utterly dazed and incapable from her first glimpse of the scene—and ran swiftly to the struggling children. I reached them at the same second, but I do not think Marion saw either of us. Seated astride of Mary, who by now, utterly vanquished, was shielding her face with her hands and sobbing violently, she emphasized each excited word she was uttering with a punning, humming hummy.

"There—you—murdering—awful girl! If you ever play hanging again with a baby like Roderick, who can't help himself, I'll kill you!" "Marion! Marion!" Her mother's voice, her mother's compelling hand upon her shoulder brought the child back to herself with a swiftness that was almost her undoing. She sprang to her feet, swayed toward her mother.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs. Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easy to prepare, and saves about 75c.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with cough and you cannot soothe him, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any drug-gist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that makes you say, "It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds. There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid deception, insist on 2½ ounces of Pinex with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

You Must Beat Constipation Before it "Gets" Your Health! We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will relieve constipation permanently if it is eaten regularly. You should also know that the consistent use of Kellogg's Bran clears up the complexion and prevents bad breath from stomach and intestines.

What you need is bran—a nature-food—KELOGG'S BRAN—cooked and branmed. Bran is not a "remedy," but it is a wonderful natural cleanser that will actually free you from constipation if eaten regularly. Results from eating Kellogg's Bran are astounding: Bran keeps the intestinal tract active; it sweeps, cleanses, purifies!

Physicians endorse Kellogg's Bran for constipation. It is the ideal way to correct constipation through food.

MRS. HATFIELD SABINA, OHIO. In Pitiable Condition When She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sabina, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for regularity. I was weak and nervous and could hardly stand on my feet. I took it for a year and had tried several medicines and had a physician, but no avail. My sister was taking your medicine and finally induced me to try it. I now feel fine and can do my household work without any trouble at all. You can use this letter for the sake of others if you wish."—Mrs. WELDON G. HATFIELD, R. R. 3, Sabina, Ohio.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble.

STOMACH UPSET? Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like, 15c and 30c.

Kidney, Liver, Bladder Troubles CONQUERED. Bladder Weakness and Prostate Gland Irritation.

Relieves RHEUMATISM. Relief—blessed relief comes when good hot applications are used. The best and hottest is BEGY'S MUSTARINE.
