

Amendments to Yap Treaty Are Defeated 50 to 23

First Test of Strength on Questions Affecting International Covenants Favor Administration.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Divided virtually on party lines, the senate refused to amend the Yap treaty today in the first test of strength on any question affecting the international covenants negotiated during the Washington conference. The vote was 50 to 23.

Only two republicans, Borah of Idaho, and France of Maryland, supported the proposal, and only four democrats, Underwood, Alabama; Pomeroy, Ohio; Williams of Mississippi and Myers of Montana, voted against it.

Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, and who have amplified the proposition that existing treaty rights of the United States shall apply to the mandated islands of the Pacific.

Later, by a vote of 52 to 11, the senate also rejected a proposed amendment by Senator France to prevent manufacture or export of intoxicating liquors on the mandated islands.

Just before adjournment, another amendment was presented by Senator Pittman, stating that under the treaty the United States should be sole judge whether Japan is maintaining sufficient wireless facilities on Yap island or whether the American right to install a wireless station there should be exercised.

Laugh at Dry Amendment. During today's debate further attacks were made on the treaty by Senators France, Pittman, Borah and Reed, democrat, Missouri.

It was to the accompaniment of repeated bursts of laughter, which the presiding officer made no effort to check, that the France prohibition amendment was presented and rejected.

Senator Lodge declared this amendment wholly unnecessary, quoting from the treaty a provision that intoxicants are not to be "supplied to the natives" of the mandated islands.

Shroyer objected to two culverts put in at the top of a hill, which failed to drain the outlying land sufficiently. Johnson, who lived in Richardson county for five years, declares that for years counties had been putting culverts on the hilltop too small and unsatisfactory.

Installed Larger Culverts. "The state put in larger ones," he said, "and I wish to present these figures to prove the success of an overwhelming majority of state aid culverts. Seven out of 2,000 installed have failed."

Shroyer and Duerdorf also criticized a bridge built across the Nemaha river, which, they declared, was unstable and too costly. Upon cross-examination Duerdorf admitted that bridges built by the county for years had been washed out regularly, while so far the state aid bridge had withstood a big flood without any serious breakdown.
