

Harding Opposed to Drastic Cut in Strength of Army

President Favors Force of Not Less Than 130,000—Pershing Appeals to Chief Executive.

Washington, March 3.—President Harding took a hand in the army strength discussion today, summoning members of the house army appropriation subcommittee into conference after a talk with General Pershing.

The subcommittee yesterday agreed tentatively to cut the army enlisted strength for next year from the authorized 150,000 to 115,000. After the White House conference it was disclosed that the administration policy for a force of not less than 130,000 had been formulated and expressed. The present actual strength is about 137,000.

General Pershing would not discuss the nature of his talk with the president, but when the summons to Chairman Anthony and his associates followed, there was no effort to conceal that General Pershing had felt it necessary to appeal to the president against the cut in the army the committee had in mind.

New Plans in Danger. As active head of the army, General Pershing is known to feel that not alone the efficiency of the new military policy worked out under the national defense act of 1920 was threatened, but that even the post-war scheme to combine the regular national guard and organized reserve into one army would be impaired if the regular service was further reduced before the new system had been perfected and was in operation.

At the War department Acting Secretary Wainwright said the military policy of 1920 was passed as an aiding policy and was not a plan "subject to the whim or caprice of every shift in the economic situation. If that policy was needed in 1920 it also is needed in 1922," he said.

With relation to General Pershing's call at the White House, Mr. Wainwright said that "no man is better fitted to speak with authority on this question than he."

Praise for Pershing. He pointed out that General Pershing alone of the commanders of the great army that fought in the world war, was still in active service now an army of 150,000 men.

"We feel," Mr. Wainwright said, "that he is doing this because he feels it his patriotic duty to give his experience and knowledge to the task of establishing a sound, peace-time military policy such as the act of 1920 provides."

Full confidence was expressed in administration circles after the subcommittee's conference with the president, that a conservative course would be followed in army reduction when congress comes to its work on the appropriation bills. The committee members are known to have been assured of complete sympathy by the executive with their desire to reduce government expenditures in every possible way.

However, that a cut below the 130,000 strength figure would not be regarded by Mr. Harding as "conservative" in view of the present situation in the world.

The president is also fully aware, it was said, of the situation with respect to putting the military policy of the 1920 act into effect.

Platte Valley Beet Growers Urged to Hold Up Contracts. Scottsbluff, Neb., March 3.—(Special Telegram.)—A practical boycott upon the Great Western Sugar company by beet growers of this valley, by uniting with the Mountain States Beet Growers' association to secure a high price for the 1922 crop, was advocated by Fred Cummings, president of the association, at meetings with farmers of Mitchell, Morrill and Bayard. Mr. Cummings urged the farmers to contract with the association not to sign for any acreage until the beet growers had negotiated a more favorable contract with the sugar manufacturer.

At this meeting possible irrigation projects in which land owners in western Lincoln county and eastern Keith county are interested, will be discussed.

Still Seized in Home of Woman in Gage County. Beatrice, Neb., March 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Captain Moore, federal agent, and State Deputy Sheriff Fulton raided the home of Mrs. Richard Kliment at Wilber, where they found a large still in operation. Sixty gallons of alcohol and three gallons of the finished product, together with the still, were seized.

Dances on 100th Birthday

Jacob Capria, 100

A gay old man is Jacob Capria, New York, centenarian, who danced gayly with his children on his 100th birthday. Even though he has passed the century mark, Capria expects to live a good many years more. In this picture he is shown playing the phonograph at a party given in honor of his 100th birthday. As evidence of the fact that his eyes are good, the centenarian threads needles without use of his glasses.

Fields Is Moved to Reformatory

Omaha Doctor Will Care for Sick Prisoners Pending Action of Parole Board.

Lincoln, March 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Dr. Leslie Fields, serving from 1 to 10 years for an alleged criminal operation on Ruth Ayres at Omaha, which caused her death, has been transferred to the state reformatory, temporarily, pending formal action by the state board of pardons and paroles on a petition for a permanent transfer to the reformatory.

Gus Miller, superintendent of the reformatory, announced as soon as Fields' sentence was upheld by the supreme court, that he wanted him at the reformatory to give first aid treatment to reformatory men.

Several days ago Miller went to Governor McKelvie with his request, saying some of the men were indignant and he would like to have some one there who could superintend and look after them in an emergency.

"I told Miller to get Fields to meet that emergency, but a permanent transfer must be made by the board of pardons and paroles," the governor said tonight.

Jefferis Obtains Ruling in Alien Passport Cases

Told by State Department That Families Abroad May Be Brought to United States.

By E. C. SNYDER. Washington Correspondent Omaha Bee. Washington, March 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Because of an apparent conflict between the state department and the Department of Labor, with reference to the matter of visas to wives of alien residents in the United States, Congressman Jefferis took with Acting Secretary of State Fletcher the right of consuls in foreign countries to issue such visas.

It appears that American consuls abroad have been holding that wives and families of alien residents are not to be naturalized until their husbands have been naturalized. On the other hand, certain judges in the United States who have been holding that alien residents in the United States cannot be naturalized until their families were also in this country. While this is not the law, some jurists have gone so far as to promulgate their opinions under their discretionary powers.

Fletcher Gives Ruling. Acting Secretary of State Fletcher today in a letter to Mr. Jefferis, advises that "American consular officers have been instructed to grant visas to wives of aliens residing in the United States upon the presentation of documentary evidence that the husbands have declared their intention to become American citizens in the manner prescribed by law."

Interested in Omaha Case. Mr. Jefferis became interested in the question through an Omaha case growing out of the application of Mrs. Chana Friedman and four children, wife and family of Benjamin Friedman, a business man of Omaha. Friedman had declared his intention to become a citizen but was unable to complete his citizenship because his wife had not arrived from Poland. Later he was granted citizenship.

Davis Replies to Attacks on Language Law

Attorney General Claims Religion Is Used as a Cloak to Make German Language of Heart.

Lincoln, March 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Claiming that religion is used as a cloak in fighting the Reed-Norval language law, Attorney General Clarence A. Davis filed an answer in the supreme court today to the petition of the German-Lutheran synod and others to have the law declared unconstitutional.

"It was never intended," the brief reads, "that the religious freedom amendment could be invoked as a protection against legislation for punishment of acts inimical to the peace, good order and morals of society."

"The use of the German language is not at all essential to the religion of these people, though they may prefer to employ it in their worship. The religious necessity of the use of German is merely a cloak to cover the effort to make German, rather than English, the language of the heart, as stated by Rev. Henry Erk on the witness stand."

"Perhaps 10 per cent of the church parishioners do not have sufficient knowledge of the English language to comprehend religious exercises in it; but instead of teaching English to this 10 per cent, the church insists on teaching German to the 90 per cent. Following this theory German will be perpetuated rather than displaced."

Divorce Action of 3 Years Ends at Fremont

Fremont, Neb., March 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Divorce action started three years ago came to an end here with the decree granted to Mrs. Iva Clark of North Bend, who, since their separation, entered a second matrimonial venture that was later annulled.

Three years ago the Clarks, prominent residents of North Bend, found themselves unable to get along without quarreling. When Mrs. Clark left the family home, the husband instituted action for divorce. The decree was granted on default.

Unaware of the laws that require a divorced husband to wait six months before taking another wife, Clark married Angie Middleton, North Bend. When they discovered that their union was not legal, they had it annulled.

Mr. Clark then sought a legal separation from his former wife. But Mrs. Clark is said to have objected to his remarriage Angie Middleton. At the hearing, however, she decided to release her husband when the court informed her the divorce would be in her favor if she wished to file an answer and cross petition.
