orders that all homes be placarded that contain patients with influenza. All social functions have been postponed including the annual banquet to be given by the Farmers union. City superintendent of schools E. C. Nyrop states that about 20 per cent of the pupils of the schools are out on account of sickness.

Former Southsider Makes Money on Farm

C. H. Nelson, a former resident of South Omaha, who for 14 years has been farming in Knox county, was a visitor at the stockyards, having brought in a load each of hogs and cattle.

"I thought of a lot of South Omaha and its people," said Mr. Nelson, "but I have never had a desire to move back to the city since I went out on my farm near Wausa. I bought my land for $75 an acre and have been offered $350 an acre.

"I have found there is a little profit in the livestock business, and by careful operations there is money in raising grain. Although prices are pretty low now, I look for a rise in the near future. The one big drawback in the agricultural business is the high taxes on land owners and the high rents to farm tenants.

Merchants Here for Market Week See Normal 1922

Survey of Visitors' Views Discloses Confidence Because of Agriculture's Strides to Prosperity.

Financial relief through the War Finance corporation to stockmen, farmers and business men in the Omaha trade territory, a gradual readjustment of business and economic conditions bordering on 'normalcy' and the general feeling of optimism are the chief reasons for the great success the eighth annual Merchants Spring Market week has attained this year, according to Roy Moore, chairman of the committee, and Roy T. Byrne of Byrnes-Hammer Dry Goods company, who have been making a survey among the out-of-town merchants in Omaha this week.

Purchases Have Doubled.

Mr. Moore said yesterday that most of the merchants were buying double the merchandise they did last year because they were finding attractive prices and large stocks from which to make selections. Mr. Moore said the merchants were not here for pleasure but for business, and that depleted stocks were being replenished because of the prosperous outlook for the future.

Interviews Show Optimism

Several interviews with visiting merchants, representing almost every part of Omaha's trade territory, were obtained to show the prevailing conditions and the optimistic current throughout the territory. The interviews follow:

John W. Hoar, Durak, Wis.—Shops in our section are contracting their 1922 winter clip on a basis which means about 100 per cent more than they received in 1921. This means a most excellent outlook for business all during the present year. Merchandise at present prices represents a very fair exchange, compared to the price the people of our section are receiving for their main products.

H. W. Hallgren, Newman Grove, Neb.—There has been a very marked change in sentiment among the farmers of our community and, after all, the merchant cannot be prosperous unless his community is prosperous. The rise in price of farm products has speeded up the liquidation of store accounts and bank debts, and I cannot see anything but a greatly improved outlook for the year.

H. L. Lutzner, Chatter, Ia.—It is quite noticeable that in the past 30 days we can again easily sell the class of merchandise our customers bought during the past 20 years. For a short period, during the present season, there was a tendency to favor bargain merchandise, but very shortly this will be a thing of the past. We merchants have been mirroring our stocks at the expense of business, and now, with the greatly improved local conditions in our trade territory, we must reverse this policy and realize our stocks to properly serve the community.

Darl Basdall, Crofton, Neb.—Farmers of our community have as a general thing been quite conservative in the last couple of years and, as a result, are recovering themselves very quickly in the present improving situation. The outlook for business in our immediate territory is exceptionally good, and we plan to make frequent trips to market during the year. We think this is a good policy for all merchants.

Oscar Sandberg, Madrid, Ia.—Early spring weather has greatly stimulated trade with us as a result, and recovering sentiment among the farmers in our section is most noticeable. Every day we see new evidence of the rapid return to normal conditions. Farmers are disposing of their surplus, paying their debts, cleaning up their bank obligations, and doing their best to forest all their
