

Lincoln Paper Admits Error in Capitol Fight

State Put to Legal Expense by Citizens Fighting Spur Track to Haul Materials and Save Money.

Lincoln, March 16.—(Special Telegram.)—Lincoln has received a "black-eye" in the state that it will take a long time to heal, because of the attitude of certain residents in throwing state taxpayers to endless and expensive litigation in fighting practically every move of the state capital commission in building a new $5,000,000 statehouse here, a Lincoln newspaper said tonight in an article warning against this attitude. The state is now defendant in an injunction suit brought by Lincoln residents, who object to running a spur from railroad tracks to the statehouse grounds to carry materials for the new building.

Spur Is Necessary.

This fight is carried on in face of the admitted fact that a spur is absolutely necessary unless trucks are used and heavy trucks would tear up the streets at a cost of thousands of dollars to the city as well as extra expense to the state.

George E. Johnson state engineer, declared today that the property owners suffering a temporary inconvenience would in the end, as a result of the new statehouse, have their property enhanced more than $5,000,000 in value.

No Reason for City.

"I am satisfied that a majority of the people of Lincoln realize that if it were not for the various state institutions established in and about Lincoln there would not be much of a city here," Johnson said. "There certainly could be no excuse for a city larger than Grand Island or Hastings.

"The spur, which is the only feasible means of getting materials to erect the statehouse, may result in some temporary damage to property of these objectors, but permanent improvement benefits are bound to exceed the temporary damage."

Road Work by Convicts May Be Discontinued

Lincoln, March 16.—(Special Telegram.)—If road contractors this spring cut down their bids sufficiently, there will be no state convict road work, it was announced tonight by George E. Johnson, state engineer.

"Under falling prices of materials and labor it seems that contractors could reduce their prices sufficiently to make convict road work a bad investment for the state," Johnson said. "We must give the convict $1 a day, feed him and clothe him while he is on the road as well as maintain numerous guards and officials to watch him. In short, with the overhead for convict labor, which the contractor does not need to meet, it would seem that this year straight contract work would be cheaper than convict labor."

50-Word Will of G. B. Darr Leaves Estate to Widow

One of the shortest wills filed in county court for probate was that of G. B. Darr, late capitalist of Lexington, Neb., leaving an estate amounting to about $100,000 to his widow, Kate E. Darr. The will, which the testator made in 1915, bequeathed all of his property, real and personal, to his beloved wife, Kate E. Darr. At her death, without issue, one-half of all the property remaining shall revert to his brothers and sisters in equal shares.

Drug Store and Land Owner Defendant in Divorce Suit

Floyd W. Marshall, proprietor of a drug store in Wallace, Neb., was sued for divorce in district court here by his wife, Myrtle E. Marshall. She charges cruelty and failure to support her and two children, a boy, 8, and a girl, 2. She claims he earns $350 a month in the store and owns considerable land and city property and has cash in two banks. The Marshalls were married in Omaha, September, 1912. She lives at 2720 Howard street.

Stenographer Injured by Blasting at Capital

Lincoln, March 16.—(Special Telegram.)—Workmen blasting tree stumps from the statehouse grounds in preparation for the new $5,000,000 statehouse, overestimated a charge this morning. As a result the blast hurled large quantities of dirt through a window on the third floor of the statehouse and Miss Nellie Dee, stenographer in the bureau of markets, was cut on the arm with flying glass.

County Assessors Will Hold Meeting in Lincoln

Lincoln, March 16.—(Special.)—W. H. Osborne, state tax commissioner, announced today that Nebraska assessors, including the county clerks where the county assessor has been abolished, will meet Friday and Saturday at Lincoln to discuss and agree upon a basis of values for this year's assessment of real estate, live stock, automobiles and other kinds of property.

Prosperity Is Emerging From Postwar Chaos

State Secretary of Commerce Finds Optimistic Smiles Now Playing on Faces of Farmers.

Lincoln, March 16.—(Special.)—J. E. Hart, secretary of trade and commerce, declared today that Nebraska banks are swinging back the pendulum of hard times into prosperity to emerge from the postwar chaos. The recent rise in the market, which has resulted in farmers selling grain held for months, has enhanced deposits, according to Hart, added to the action of Uncle Sam in sending millions into Nebraska are reasons for the optimistic smiles beginning to play on the faces of Nebraska farmers. Hart has been informed that sheep feeding along the main line of the Union Pacific and on the Northwestern west of Norfolk has been exceptionally profitable of late. The present sheep market is bringing good returns to those who stocked up a year ago on lambs at $1-2

Liquor Ads. May Bar Magazines From State

Lincoln, March 16.—(Special Telegram.)—Copies of various magazines strewn over desks in the attorney general's office this morning made the office look like a "smoke shop" or barber shop.

Assistant Attorney General J. B. Chase explained that these copies, marked had been mailed by prohibitionists, objecting to alleged advertisements of home brew paraphernalia. "They want us to take action," Chase said, "and I am looking up the law to see what I can do with a foreign corporation advertising such things. It is clearly against the Nebraska law. Maybe we can bar such magazines from the state." The objectionable advertisements are captioned "Rye, Bourbon and Scotch." Underneath is reading matter urging the purchase of copper kettles, conditers and other things such as are found by State Sheriff Gus Hyers in his raids on stills.
