

Basket Store Head Gives Testimony in Boycott Case

Declares Wholesale Buying With Two Big Firms Was Suddenly Cut Off in 1920.

By cross-examination of Walter B. Williams, president of the Basket Stores, a witness for the government in the federal trade commission's charges of unfair trade practice against the Nebraska-Iowa-Minnesota Wholesale Grocers' association, Emmet Tinley, counsel for the defense, tried yesterday to show it was the fixed sales policy of large eastern manufacturers not to sell to retailers.

Intimates Clients Exempt.

His clients are thereby exempt from responsibility if manufacturers would not sell to chain stores, he intimated.

Williams admitted that representatives of the Proctor and Gamble and Quaker Oats companies told him that though they sold to chain stores in the east, they would not do so in the west. Different conditions, such as sparsely settled communities, induced them to sell only to jobbers, they told Williams.

Referred Him to Jobbers.

The witness reiterated, however, his testimony that the Quaker Oats people, though they at first sold to the Basket Stores, suddenly cut off sales in 1920 and let it be known that they would apply him only through other jobbers.

The latter statement was stricken from the records, however, as correspondence relative to the matter is already in evidence.

tions to show that the United States, in spite of the protest being made against high taxes, was the lowest taxed nation of all the world powers. Mr. McCullough made a strong plea for more interest on the part of true Nebraskans, in the allotment of idle sand hill lands which are ideally situated for the growing of valuable pines.

A Record Run

443 times in New York. That's the record of the great American play by Winchell Smith and John E. Hazzard.

443 performances—and how many laughs and thrills a performance! You can't count the total.

But if you should, multiply it by three and you'll have the number of worthwhile moments in the picture that's been made from the play:

And now critics proclaim: "A great picture—even greater than the play."

ADVERTISMENT. DON'T SQUEEZE BLACK-HEADS—DISSOLVE THEM

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation—then, too, after they have become hard you cannot get all of them out. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Get from any drug store about two ounces of calomel powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition—anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should try this simple method.
