Boxing Tourney for "Old Boys" to Decide Bantamweight Title Proposed

Frankie Mason, Seeking Crown, Springs Scheme

Former Flyweight Suggests That Earl Purycar, Buff and Himself Fight It Out for Title.

Same wise fistic promoter might pick up a little loose change by accepting a suggestion which comes is FRANEIR MASON, gives away a few pounds. This con-cession, however, doesn't make a great deal of difference, for Frankie has shown that he is well able to take care of himself.

This however, has nothing to do with the above mentioned sugges-tion, which is in effect that some promoters stage a triangular tour-ney with only the old boys of the bantamweight ranks permitted to contest. That would limit the field to World's Champion Johnny Buff, Earl Puryear and Mason himself. Incidentally Frankie mentions in his letter that he has no mercenary methods, for he is well heeled with the bank account, but he admits that he is simply brimming over with confidence that the conclusion of such series of bouts would find the world's bantamweight crown se-curely resting on his dome.

As Mason's little plan appeared A interesting, the writer got busy with basket ball team presents itself each the dope book in an effort to see if year when the high school basketeers one or two other veteran ring banties couldn't be discovered to en- nual tournament. Then take Earl Puryear. The little Denver scrapper doesn't admit it, but he is also 33 years old. Earl, however, always dodges conversation when a party of gloves wielders discuss ages. Earl is a good scrapper today. He goes along picking unice money and seldom does one hear of him finishing on the loss excellent content of him finishing on the loss excellent goal deservance and as golfer, did not believe in the phantom all-state. But in selecting Clyde Milan to succeed McBride the chief of the Washington club has made a diplomatic choice, because there is nothing that counts more for the morale of a team than to have one of its veterns promoted to the managerial berth in preference to an outsider. Has Shown Up Well.

Knepper is so good that George Dunean, the great British professional, got interested in him last sammer. Duncan pronounced Knepper a wonder and said his style, his finished work on the links, were certain to make him a champion.

Knepper is a shot-maker supreme. For this reason he has always shown up well is our national open tournaments, and undoubtedly he will come on stronger than ever before in this year's open in Chicage. As things stand right now, Knepper is a better medal than match player, and this one factor glone. I think, is all that enabled anybody to nose him out of the iast National Amateur Championship. He seems to have the utmost confidence in his ability to make shots, but to lack the full measure of confidence that he can beat a match opponent.

Knepper's great hands and steel wrists compensate for his rather slight build otherwise. These hands portend great things from him, as a golfer. Big, strong hands in the possession of a golfer of championship caliber are enough for the slight advantage necessary to send him under the wire. Knepper has great strength in his hands, the one place where super strength is desirable. He plays with perfect rythm and grace, which indicates a true foundation for a championship. He lifts his clubs slowly and accurately, applies the power stream perfectly on the down stroke, and then gets in the wrist snap with his strong hands just where it can do the greatest good. Speciators at Chicago and St. Louis last summer, during the championship, marveled that a player of Knepper's stature could slap a ball so hard, the impact of his wood clubs against the ball often sounding like the crack of a rifle.

Knepper played off the Western Amateur championship with me in Chicago last summer and I had a fine opportunity to see his game. I was glad to see him as the finalist because, to tell the truth it house the finalist because, to tell the truth it has the finalist because, to tell the truth it has the finalist because, to tell the truth find my interes

Knepper Medalist.

Knepper was the medalist in the Western Amatuer, while at St. Louis a couple months later, he romped in with a round that was surprising—a 68, I think it was. That was a qualifying round, however, As soon as Knepper had to face matched opponents he had to fight all the way, I know he could make any course in four or five less strokes, playing for a score, than he could do it in with a matched opponent. He seems to fear the opponent, whereas he has everything to make the opponent fear him. It must not be inferred from this, however, that anything even remotely resembling the factor of "quitting" enters into Knepper's play, His record in the Western and the National Amateur and in the recent National Open tournaments is sufficient on that score.

Knepped is a finished performer with all his clubs. I can suggest but one thing to him: Observe the brass of the brassle; learn of the ways of brass.
