Question Vital to Public

By PAUL GREER. A vital question is: How good an education do the parents of Nebraska wish their boys and girls to have?

The capstone of civilization in Nebraska is the state university. Looked at in the aggregate the appropriation of $2,092,927 for this purpose last year seems large.

Of all the states, only Iowa has a smaller per cent of illiteracy than Nebraska. Since 1917 the increase in common school education has been 108 per cent; that in university education, amounting to $127,000, deserves particular attention.

Legislative Made Cut. The special session of the legislature cut $267,000 from the operating revenue. The response of the university authorities to the emergency was prompt.

It is natural that taxpayers should look at the few acres of college campus downtown in Lincoln and wonder how so much money can be spent in such a small place.

Also Supports Hospital. The university is further charged with the legislative reference have to do with the conservation and soil survey, and the state hospital at Omaha, which receives charity patients from every county in the state.
