Many Anxious Mothers Find the School Childrea's "Run Down" Condition Source of Worry in The Spring.

OUR grandmothers used to give us sassafrass tea about this time o' year when we showed signs of lassitude. The modern mother places the children of her family on a carefully planned diet which, in every case, is built around the perfectly pasteurized Alamito milk. Even though the youngsters' appetites leave them entirely, if they drink Alamito milk, and they "just love it," there is no immediate cause for worry. Jaunty Blazers Attract Flappers

As Substitute for Sweaters Short Jackets Are Built In All Materials and Colors.

THE short jacket has high ambition to usurp the place of the cape. It is not as graceful and it is not as suitable for the majority of women as the loose wrap. It is not an attractive garment to the stout, the thick and squarely built, the large hipped. It possesses jauntiness and it needs it in the figure which it covers. Yet it is here in such large quantities that it must be reckoned with wherever the problem of street costumery comes up.

It has been chosen by many well-dressed women as a substitute for the sweater. It is built in all materials and colors. It is put over a one-piece frock; it is worn with a plaid skirt and overblouse; it is added unto a one-piece frock of serge or crepe de chine, and it is considered the right thing with a wool jersey sport frock.

It may be like any other jacket and take on the color of the skirt, or it may follow the fancy for plaid and checked designs. It seems to be saisfactory in whatever form it is offered. It is a ruling fashion, Why Jackets Instead of Capes?
