Surgeons Waiting to Cut Siamese Twins Apart Minute First One Dies

Realizing Chances of Life Are Slight, Rosa Blazek, a Mother, Would Live for Sake of Her Son After Sister's Death.

Chicago, March 28.—Josefa Blazek, one of the "Siamese twins," operated ill of jaundice, lapsed into unconsciousness this afternoon at West End hospital and surgeons say she will die in a few hours.

Rosa, the other twin, who had practically recovered from her attack, is now sinking, but she smiles and makes various attempts to cheer her sister as the counts of the minutes to eternity. She knows that it is now a question of minutes.

Agree to Operation.

The surgeons have written the consent of the twins to cut away the dead one immediately after her heart stops, in a desperate effort to save the survivor, but they admit there is not one chance in a thousand the operation will be successful.

Rosa feels that she will die immediately after Josefa expires. Her chief regret is leaving her boy, 11 years old, and whose father, an Austrian soldier, perished in the world war.

Government Bureau of Mines Informs Motorists Rumors of Shortage Are Unfounded.

Washington, March 28.—There is no danger of a gasoline shortage, Fears expressed in some quarters that the United States might be threatened with a gasoline famine today were declared by officials of the federal bureau of mines to be groundless.

"There is an ample supply of gas to meet all the requirements of the 10,505,660 automobiles and trucks that are said to be in use in this country, together with the predicted 20 per cent increase in their number this year," declared one of the government oil experts.

With the use of automobiles and trucks growing by leaps and bounds the bureau of mines is giving close study to the gasoline situation. Surveys of production of crude petroleum, operations of refineries and stocks in storage are being made at regular intervals by the bureau, and by this means the government's touch with the production and consumption of the commodity, which keeps the automobile running.

303 Refineries Operate.

Officials pointed out that at the end of last year there were 586,087-132 gallons of gasoline held in storage, while there were 303 refineries in operation having a total daily capacity of 1,736,725 barrels of crude oil.
