Forward North Omaha Exposition Is Oponed

The second annual Forward North Omalia Exposition in the Imperial Sash and Door company building at Florence boulevard and Boyd streets opened last night with a large crowd in attendance.

Sixty exhibits, ranging in variety from crackers to automobiles, held the attention of the throngs. Foods of many kinds, paints, automobile accessories and an "imperial" four-room cottage, completely furnished, were among the exhibits.

The exposition will be open to the public each evening from 6:30 till 10:30 during this week. It is being held to stimulate interest in industrial advantages on the north Berry, C. E. Paulson and W. W. Wuchter are on the committee in charge. The exhibitors are factories and retail dealers on the north side. Prizes are awarded each evening.

New York, April 8.—The first sold off slightly with heavier pressure in the cotton market today. The early tone was fairly steady and trading quiet and featureless, but before midday a renewal of local selling caused prices to slip off some 11 to 17 points. Buying power was poor and the market could not hold up in the face of offerings from locals, Wall street and the south. Demand was scanty from brokers with Liverpool connections or from the trade. Continued strength of securities about offset the unsettled textile labor situation. In the afternoon selling was checked and the list recovered somewhat, closing unchanged to 10 points net lower.

Spot cotion was quiet, 10 points deciline; 18 cents for middling upland.

Duffy's Second Wife Asks Decree

Wealthy Sheet Metal Man Faces Divorce Court Again -Paid $11,000 Alimony.

The matrimonial ship of Joseph L. Duffy, wealthy sheet metal dealer, is on the rocks again.

Eight months after his first divorce, in 1920, Duffy remarried. His second wife, Catheryn Duffy, brought suit for divorce in district court and charged that her husband was cruel "by continuing a course of treatment calculated to harrass, distress and humiliate her." Mrs. Duffy No. 2 also charges in her petition that Duffy threatened her with bodily injury and forbid her attending the church of her

Mrs. Dufty No. 1 charged her hushand with cruelty. She claimed that he was worth close to $75,000. She was awarded her maiden name of Frost and $11,000 alimony. Her attorney was given $500.

Water Service Charge

If the municipal government of Omaha pays to the Metropolitan Utilities district $190,000 a year for fire hydrant service, should the city pay additional expense for maintenance or for change of location of these hydrants?

The foregoing question loomed in the city council chamber yesterday when John E. Wilbur, chief clerk of the Metropolitan Utilities district. urged the city commissioners to "please remit" $705 said to be due on account of change of hydrants and other services, Commissioners Zimman, Hopkins and Koutsky were named to serve as a special committee to examine
