SOME people are more emotional than intellectual. Great has been the wall from numerous quarters anent the Saturday night dinner dance at the University club.

But the board of directors at the club thinks before it acts. It consults an Episcopalian, a Presbyterian, a Catholic and a Unitarian authority before it schedules a big affair.

So the directors have announced a post Lenten party for Saturday night. Saturday will be a gay day from noon on, generally speaking. Among those who will entertain at the University club dance are Robert Gantt with a party of 16, Dr. Allyn Moser, Clarence Spier, Alan McDonald, Fritz Koenig, E. J. Phelps, C. L. Thurston and V. C. Pioneer Figure of Wyoming Dead

Omaha people who have spent happy summers in the Wyoming Big Horns, at or near the Eaton ranch, have heard with regret this week of the death of Howard Eaton, eldest of the three brothers who are so widely known and admired. Mrs. W. H. Low has been a frequent visitor at the ranch, having spent seven or eight summers there. Harry McCormick, too, was a regular visitor. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Low spent a week at the ranch last summer, and Mrs. Barton Millard and Mrs. John Redick have been there in the past. The Joseph Barkers have a ranch nearby and so have been neighbors of the Eatons, and Arthur Smith and his son, Huntington Smith, have spent much time in the region. Howard Eaton, although a man of 74, was remarkably active, and was accustomed each summer to conduct a party of 30 through Glacier park on horseback. Mrs. W. H. Low was twice a member of the parties. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Low were at the ranch last summer when the party returned, and Howard Eaton had suffered quite a serious fall from his horse, but in spite of that he seemed as energetic as ever. The Eaton brothers have been in Wyoming for over 25 years and have been pioneer figures well known to both easterners and westerners. Luncheon and Card Club. Carter Lake Card club will meet for luncheon and cards Wednesday, April 12, at the Flatiron cafe. Reservations may be made with Mrs. H. A. Nelson or Mrs. George Pa.

(Continued From Page One.) daughter. Her villa by the way is the show place of Algiers. We spent a most enjoyable afternoon not long ago with the Countess de Brazza, a delightful French woman who is a great-granddaughter of the famous Lafayette. She has two magnificent paintings of her noted ancestor and his wife and draping the pictures are the American and French flags. Some years ago she resided in Washington, D. C., when her late husband, an Italian nobleman was a member of the diplomatic circles. At her request (Miss Dow's brother) and a charming American woman whose name I can't recall just now, sang several of our American songs including "Swanee River." That same afternoon we went to a tea given by a bride, the daughter of former Governor Harrison of the Philippines, whose wedding you may remember I attended shortly after my arrival here. I shall be glad to get back to a warm house. The St. George hotel is the only place where there is fireplace heat. The houses here all have fireplaces in the rooms, but still they are rather chilly.

(Continued From Page One.) burner. Raw beef, thinly sliced, onions, bean curd and some other stuff were brought on and we cooked it as we would Welsh rarebit. Eating it with chop sticks was more complicated, as it tended to be soupy like stew, but the great art is achievable. "We took rickshaws back to the hotel last night. It was moonlight and late enough to be fairly quiet on the wide boulevard next the moat that surrounded the emperor's palace. The water lay like a mirror and the weird, oriental fire trees were reflected on it like lacquer work. Suddenly my boy, who was the last of the party, jabbered something to his fellows and started off down an alley with me jiggling helplessly after, while my five companions disappeared down the other thoroughfare. He ran me down a narrow winding road, lighted only by an occasional lantern. "Where are we going?" I asked him. "Go back with the others." "He smiled blandly and replied in Japanese, continuing in the same direction, but me feeling more helplessly all the time. But somehow I wasn't afraid for one minute. I liked that boy's face, and he had an honest air, for all the alleys he was taking me through I felt the thrill of a little adventure, too, but there was no sign of meeting the others, and I was about to expostulate further when we suddenly came in sight of the hotel. It seems the main way was blocked by paving and my boy knew it and took a short cut. The others got stuck and had to go around another way."
