Miss Hess Feted.

Ten guests were present on Monday of last week at a beautifully appointed luncheon given complimentary to Miss Geraldine Hess, an April bride, by Mrs. Eldon Lougee, at her home on Oakland avenue.

Miss Hess was also honored at a luncheon on Tuesday when Mrs. Robert Turner and Miss Marian Turner entertained for her at the Omaha club. Other guests at this affair were Misses Daphne Peters of Omaha and Gretchen Hess, Mesdames Henry Hart, Eldred Hart, Chester Dudley, George VanBrunt, and Charles R. Hauman, Jr.

Yesterday a luncheon was given by two Omaha matrons, Mrs. Howard Baldrige and Mrs. Malcolm Baldrige, for this bride-to-be. Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dudley are entertaining at a buffet supper for Miss Hess and her fiance, and a dinner has been planned for tomorrow night in their honor by Miss Verne Head of Omaha.

Preceding the supper-dance which two of the ushers, Clarence Peters and David Caldwell, have arranged for this couple at the Omaha club next Saturday evening, there will be a dinner at the Barton Millard home with Ray Millard, another usher, as host.

Informal Gathering.

En route from their home in Los Angeles to New York City Mrs. Caroline Stevens Meek, formerly of this city, and her daughter, Miss Wilhelmina, spent several days last week at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Hancock.

Owing to recent bereavements in the family they preferred not to accept any formal invitations, but on Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Oscar Keeline invited to her home a small group of Mrs. Meek's girlhood friends for a little reminiscing over a cup of tea.

Friend of Miss Skinner.

When Miss Geraldine Hess attended Bryn Mawr one of the girls whom she found very congenial was Cornelia Skinner, daughter of Otis Skinner, the famous actor, who comes to the Brandeis for an engagement next week.

It seems that Miss Skinner, at a very early age, was most anxious to go on the stage, but her very wise father insisted that a thorough education was essential first, and for that reason she entered Baldwin school and later attended Bryn Mawr, entering at the time that Miss Hess was receiving her education at this eastern college. The following year she spent in Paris at Beaux Arts.

Miss Hess says of this talented young actress that she is very unusual and foreign looking, and a brilliant conversationalist and does exceptionally clever writing.

It is rather a coincidence that "Blood and Sand," the play in which she and her father are to appear, is scheduled for an engagement next week in Omaha, for three nights, on the last one of which will occur the wedding of Miss Geraldine Hess and Douglas Peters.

From the fact that Mr. Skinner is rather strict with his daughter, in not allowing social affairs to interfere with her career, it may be possible that she cannot come over from the performance at the theater to the wedding reception, but Miss Hess would be very happy to welcome her on this occasion, and as soon as she arrives in Omaha will see if it can not be arranged.

Luncheon Club.

Mrs. E. L. Empkie and Mrs. A. H. Dunn will give a luncheon to the members of their bridge club on next Wednesday at the Empkie home on Oakland avenue.

Dancing Party.

The Tuesday Dancing club will entertain this week in the Masonic hall, at a formal dancing party to which each member is privileged to invite a guest, and elaborate plans are being made for the event.

Wedding Attendants Arriving. Miss Martha Moir, who is to be one of the bridesmaids at the Peters-Hess wedding on Wednesday evening, April 26, is expected the early part of this week and will be a guest at the Hess home until after the nuptials.

Another out-of-town attendant is little Mary Stewart McFerron of Hcopstown, Ill., who comes Tuesday with her mother, Mrs. Donald McFerron, and grandmother, Mrs. Charles Stewart.

Mrs. Stewart has been in Hoopstow with her daughter's family for the past few weeks, and remained over to accompany them here where they plan to visit for some little time.

Weiner Roast.

Twenty members of the Beta fraternity, with a like number of girls in the younger set, motored to the Wilcox farm Thursday night for a weiner roast.

Personals.

Miss Patricia Tinley, a student at the State University, plans to return there tomorrow.

Mrs. Beckler of Fort Worth, Tex., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. P. Hombach and Dr. Hombach.

Mrs. H. A. Quinn and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth, leave next Wednesday for Excelsior Springs, Mo.

Miss Helen Park returned Tuesday evening to her home in Tabor, Ia., after a brief visit here with Miss Inez Perego.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Everett, who have been in California for several months, returned home the early part of last week.

Miss Ann Walker who has been ill in Zopeka, Kan., has been obliged to return to Council Bluffs and is now with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Walker.

Mrs. C. T. Dunkle and children are visiting at the Owen P. Wickham home on South Seventh street. They are en route from Columbus, O., to San Francisco.

Miss Frances Grow is expected home this week from San Antonio, Tex., where she has been visiting since January with Captain and Mrs. Thomas Christian.

Richard Bennett arrived Saturday from Lincoln, Neb., to spend Easter at the home of Mrs. Lyman Shugart, and on his return Tuesday will be

New Furniture From Old

By JEAN TRUE.

Have you a strong substantial stand tucked away in your garret? If you have, you can remodel it into a tea cart or service table wagon at a very small cost. Select a stand with a rectangular top. If the stand has a drawer and a shelf it will make an ideal service table wagon.

This stand may be remodeled in the home if some member of the family is clever with tools. If not, take it to a cabinet maker and have him add a good set of castors to the legs, make a removable glass tray to fit the top, and fasten handles to the ends. If you wish to use it for a tea cart and table combined you may have him add drop leaves.

If you wish to be real economical add the castors and handles and have pieces of moulding mitred to fit on the top edge of the stand, also a piece of glass cut to just fit inside this moulding. The glass and moulding is to be built an upright edge to the stand, and thus take the place of a tray proper.

You can use chintz or cretonne under your glass cover and carry out any color scheme you like. Now if you are real clever you can use a varnish product and give it a mahogany or walnut finish to suit your dining room furniture, or you can paint or stain it any color you prefer.

Remember this one thing; you need a tea cart or service table wagon very much. It saves endless trips to the dining room getting a meal or clearing the table afterward. There are lovely tea carts in the shops that will please you, but if you feel you must be economical, remodel a stand and make it serve your needs. You owe it to yourself to save time and labor in your work.

You can have a walnut, or mahogany stand that has been inherited as a cherished piece, if so you are in luck. You will have a real piece of wood of good design. This plan will not destroy any characteristics of a good piece of furniture.

Every housewife should plan to realize the utmost of utility, strength and beauty from each piece of furniture in her home at the greatest ultimate economy. It is possible to take antique pieces of unusual and distinctive design and remodel them for the convenience and pleasure of the family.

National League Women Voters This Week

More social functions have been planned for the national convention of the League of Women Voters and the Pan-American Conference of Women, which opens in Baltimore April 20, than are usually features of a business meeting, probably in honor of the distinguished visitors who will attend from 22 countries of North, South and Central America, and also from England.

Nebraska will be represented at the gathering by a number of prominent women, some of whom have already gone east and others will follow on Monday and Tuesday. Besides Mrs. Charles H. Dietrich of Hastings, who is a member of the national board, and Mrs. C. G. Ryan, state president of the League of Women Voters, Mrs. H. J. Bailey, president of the Omaha league; Mrs.

deis the night of April 29, is very dear to her. It was carried by her grandfather, Judge Tubbs, across the plains from Michigan to California in 1849.

Miss Tubbs is in her first year in the upper school at Brownell, where she has attended for three years, being formerly a student at the Holyoke-Dox school here. Dr. and Mrs. Tubbs lived at Council Bluffs until three years ago, when they moved to their country place at Emerson.

K. F. Pettis, president of the Lincoln league; Mrs. George Minkel, director from Nebraska of the D. A. E., and Mrs. Margaret Carna of Lincoln, state chairman for the league of committee on uniform laws. Others who will be in attendance are Miss Belle Dewey and Mrs. Edgar Scott of Omaha; Mrs. W. E. Barkley, Mrs. C. A. Sorenson, Mrs. Mabel Harid of Lincoln; Mrs. Zona Berg of Superior, and Mrs. Frank Babcock of Hastings.

One of the unusually interesting social events arranged for the convention is the reception tendered the delegates at the executive mansion in Annapolis by the governor of Maryland, Hon. Albert C. Ritchie, and his mother. A special train or automobiles will take the members of the convention from Baltimore to Annapolis and a committee of Annapolis women will act as guides to take the visitors around the historic old town and to the Naval academy, where the students will drill.

On the day the convention meets in Washington, each delegation will be assigned to a Washington hostess, who will entertain them at luncheon in her home. The most prominent women of the capital have offered their hospitality for the day; among them are Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman. The convention will come to a close with a fitting climax at the reception tendered the delegates by Mrs. Harding at the White Ho se.
