

Episcopalian Bishops Open Meeting Here

Communion Service Followed by Business Session—Visiting Clergy Guests at Luncheon.

The conference of domestic continental bishops of the Episcopal church, was opened at 7 yesterday morning with the celebration of holy communion at Trinity cathedral. Bishop E. V. Shaylor of the Nebraska diocese was celebrant. Business session of the conference started at 10, in diocese headquarters, 202-3 Kennedy building. There was a luncheon for the visiting bishops at the Omaha club at noon yesterday, given by Bishop Shaylor and the executive committee of the Nebraska diocese. Public services were held at all Saints church last night in the interest of missions. Bishop Nathaniel Thomas of Wyoming will speak at the Chamber of Commerce today noon on "Religion and Business." Rev. Carroll M. Davis of New York, domestic secretary of the department of missions; L. B. Franklin, national treasurer, and John W. Wood, national executive secretary of the department of missions, will be present during the conference.

These bishops are expected to attend: Herman Page of Spokane, Robert Paddock of eastern Oregon, L. A. Sanford of San Joaquin, James Atwood of Arizona, F. B. Howden of New Mexico, E. A. Temple of northern Texas, T. P. Thurston of Oklahoma, Robert Mize of Salina, G. A. Beecher of western Nebraska, Nathaniel Thomas of Wyoming, H. L. Burleson of South Dakota, W. P. Remington, assistant bishop of South Dakota, J. P. Tyler of North Dakota, Cameron Mann, southern Florida; Julius M. Horner of Asheville, N. C.; George Huntington, Nevada.

Association to Mark New Road

I-G-O Highway Will Connect D-L-O and Lincoln Routes.

Ogallala, Neb., April 20.—(Special.)—The I-G-O Highway association, formed to establish a marked road from Imperial, Neb., to Ogallala, by way of Grant, was organized at a meeting held at Grant on April 19, at the Keith County Commercial club.

The new highway, which will extend over a 46-mile stretch, will furnish motorists with a well-marked road connecting the D-L-D highway at Imperial with the Lincoln and Park-to-Park highways at Ogallala. There is much demand for a north and south highway in western central Nebraska. The I-G-O, when completed, will be the only well-marked north and south road in the district between Kearney, Neb., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Markings for the new highway will be the letters "I-G-O" in white on a black background. Forty large road signs are being made and will be put in place at a big get-together meeting at Grant on April 25. Commercial clubs at Ogallala, Grant and Imperial are paying for the erection of the signs.

Officers of the association are: Dr. Stewart of Imperial, president; M. D. Keller of Grant, vice president; and C. H. Fisher of Ogallala, secretary-treasurer.

Few Pay Personal Tax in Excess of $500 Valuation

Grand Island, Neb., April 20.—(Special.)—In connection with renewed demands throughout the state for the publication of the personal tax list, and the suggested amendment to the measure promoted by the newspaper publishers of the state last year, that such list be limited to persons filing more than $500 worth of personal property, a compilation has been made of the schedule filed under the letters A and B of Grand Island city. This list shows that less than 25 per cent of the people return more than $500 worth of personal property, including securities, cash, household goods, automobiles, etc. Out of 81 names beginning with A and 238 beginning with B, a total of 319, only 73 show property to the value of $500 or over and only 21 property of $1,000 or more, exclusive of the $200 exemption for household goods.

Humane Trustees Meet.

Trustees of the Nebraska Humane society will meet Tuesday noon, April 25, in the Burgess Wash tea room to hear a report of Secretary Bradley and inspect plans for a new animal shelter to be submitted by Architect Prinz. Stereoscopic pictures will be shown during Miss Dickman's talk in the toy room on the fourth floor at 1:30.

The Dancing Master

By RUBY M. AYRES
(Copyright, 1922.)

SYNOPSIS. Elizabeth Cynara, a country girl, is visiting her city cousin. They take her to a ball. She finds herself the center of attention. Her cousin, who is a dancer, takes her to a dance. Elizabeth's relatives tell her that he is a dancing master; that he is married and that she is not to see him again. Elizabeth's cousin tells her that he is a dancing master; that he is married and that she is not to see him again. Elizabeth's cousin tells her that he is a dancing master; that he is married and that she is not to see him again.

Now go on with the story.

The band was still playing, and the room was crowded with dancers as he wended his way through them, looking to the right and left as he went for Mme. Senestis, but there was no sign of her.

He spoke to one or two persons, asking if they had seen her.

"Haven't seen her at all," so someone told him; "don't think she's been here tonight."

Royston found one of the stewards.

"Mme. Senestis, have you seen her?"

"The man hesitated."

"I think she's gone; almost sure I saw her leaving about half an hour ago."

Royston found Elizabeth's cloak lying across a chair where Nell Farmer had left it, and he was crossing the lounge again with it over his arm when Edid Sanger, sitting on the stairs with half a dozen men gathered around her caught sight of him.

"She scattered her little group of courtiers without ceremony and ran down to him."

"Pat!"

Royston stopped dead, and his face grew pale.

"Well, what is it?"

"I want to speak to you; I've been looking for you everywhere."

"Very well, presently; I'm engaged now."

"He moved as if to pass her, but she barred the way, her eyes resting suspiciously on Elizabeth's white cloak."

"Where are you going? Who does that belong to?" she asked.

"During the short time she had lived with Royston she had made his life a hell, but though she did not want him herself, she hated to think that any other woman found him attractive."

"His eyes met hers unflinchingly."

"When I interfere with your life and question you about your friends it will give you the right to do the same with me," he said stily.

"She shrugged her shoulders—she enjoyed annoying him."

"Oh, all right! No need to get ratty," she said. "When shall I see you again?"

"I'll meet you here in a quarter of an hour."

"She laughed. "I may turn up or I may not; it depends," she said.

"Please yourself," Royston said curtly.

He walked away, and Edid went back to the group on the stairs, her eyes following her husband's tall figure with a little vixenish gleam.

Royston found Elizabeth standing where he had left her, but she raised her eyes as he came forward and he realized with a pang that their childish expressions seemed somehow to have been wiped out, and that it was a woman who looked at him now through their greyness.

He put the cloak around her shoulders, trying hard to steady his voice as he spoke:

"I am afraid Mme. Senestis has gone. I have sent for a taxi for you."

"They went across the hall together and upstairs to the main entrance."

"There was hardly anyone about; everyone was downstairs dancing. Presently the hall porter came to Royston."

"I've got you a taxi, sir."

"They went out into the cool night; Royston gave the porter something and he moved discreetly away."

Elizabeth got into the cab, leaning back so that her face was in a shadow, but the light from the big hotel door showed her little feet in their high-heeled shoes, her white cloak, and the hands clasped so tightly in her lap.

Royston stood bareheaded at the open door. It was good-bye, and he knew it; but the lover in him was driven to make one last appeal, even though the man in him knew its futility.

"Elizabeth!" It was only her name that he spoke, but a thousand words would have been less eloquent and would have told her less truthfully all that he was renouncing.

A little shudder passed through her.

"You call me a child," she said slowly. "Perhaps I am, but I shall never love anyone else as long as I live. Good-bye."

And the next moment she had gone and Royston was standing looking into the darkness.

Support of Norton Is Urged by Wray

Third Party Candidate for Governor Favors Co-Operation With Other Groups.

Lincoln, April 20.—Progressive support of J. N. Norton for governor and other candidates friendly to progressive principles is urged in a statement made public yesterday by Arthur G. Wray, announcing himself as candidate on the progressive ticket for United States senator.

He said in part:

"It is necessary to meet the new national issues, and I would like to see actual farmers, actual workmen, and progressives generally join hands and grapple with the vital problems of railroads, taxation, money, credits, national primaries, peace and war, and the other national issues which are rapidly coming to the front."

"If I am selected as the progressive candidate for senator, I shall make the campaign as a progressive only, and will not accept endorsement from other parties. But my selection to again head the ticket does not mean that I should not co-operate with other progressive groups in an effort to secure a winning ticket in state, congressional, legislative and county units."

"In the coming campaign, I hope that the progressives of all parties will get together and make the full program of the farmer, the full program of labor and also the great national issues which are crushing alike the producer and consumer."

"National problems are coming to the front. We must meet them. As a progressive, I want to begin the national contest now in 1922, and if progressives desire me to again head the ticket, I will put up the best fight I know how to make from now on until November in order to get before the people the full program of labor, the full program of the farmer and the great national issues which so vitally affect us."

Pioneer Schoolmaster Dies at David City

David City, Neb., April 20.—(Special.)—Funeral services were held here for William H. Taylor, 68, in the Christian church.

Rev. A. D. Harmon, president of Cotner university, officiating.

Mr. Taylor died at his home in David City.

He was a pioneer school teacher of Butler county, coming here in 1880. He, with his wife and daughter, moved to David City in 1894. At this time he was elected county treasurer and served in that office for two terms. Later he was sent to the state legislature from this district and was the instigator of the county text book bill. He was one of the county's prominent republicans and was also an active member of the Masonic lodge. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Alma Taylor.

Prospects Good for Big Fruit Crop, Say Experts

Table Rock, April 20.—(Special.)—Experienced fruit men say there never was a better prospect for a large fruit crop in Pawnee county than there is this spring. Opinions differ as to the amount of damage done by recent frosts. Peach, pear and apricot trees are a mass of bloom.

Owing to wet weather which has kept farmers out of the fields, sowing of oats has been somewhat delayed and some have decided not to include as much oats as usual. The moisture has put the soil in excellent shape for the crops already planted.

Farm Home Burns Down as Man Takes Wife to Safety

Superior, Neb., April 20.—(Special.)—The farm home of C. F. Wadsworth was destroyed by fire. Mr. Wadsworth was awakened by the smoke in the room and he managed to get Mrs. Wadsworth, who is just recovering from the flu to a neighbor's home. By the time he could summon help, the fire was beyond control. Origin of the blaze is undetermined, but it is thought the fire started in an outbuilding attached to the back of the home.

Superior Couple Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary

Superior, Neb., April 20.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Groves celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. It was also Mr. Groves' 73d birthday. All the children were present including Supt. Ben Groves and family of Falls City, Neb.; R. Groves and family of Hugo, Colo., and Mrs. Ruth Donahoe of Bostwick. Mr. Groves is city assessor and is very active in his duties.

RADIO DEPARTMENT

Keep Aerial Away From Other Wires

Care Should Be Taken in Setting Up Antenna, Expert Says.

A good aerial is a big factor for clear reception over the wireless receiving outfit. In constructing a radio set too little consideration is given to the efficient design of the aerial, a wireless expert writes. Experience has proven that an aerial which is short enough to transmit on 200 meters is too short to give the best results for receiving. Therefore, it is advisable that the up-to-date amateur should possess two aerials, a short multi-wire one for sending, and a long single wire one for receiving.

In erecting any aerial, it should be kept as far away as possible from power lines, telephone lines, trees, tall buildings, etc., as such objects have considerable effect on both the transmitting and receiving efficiency. Where it is absolutely necessary to erect it in the immediate vicinity of power lines or telephone lines, it should be installed at right angles to such lines. Also where two aerials are erected they should be at right angles to each other in order to minimize their mutual effect. The higher you erect the aerial the better.

Three Drug Stores Robbed by Bandits

Masked highwaymen held up three drug stores in Omaha Wednesday night. J. A. Baum was behind the prescription counter of his pharmacy, the Highland Apothecary shop Twenty-fourth and A streets, when two masked men entered and robbed the place of $30 and a $10 check. J. H. Daniel of the Minne Lusa pharmacy, 6716 North Thirtieth street, was robbed of $40. A. T. Thompson, proprietor, his brother, O. R. Thompson, and a customer, R. B. Jamison, 3810 North Twentieth street, were in the Thompson drug store, 3508 North Sixteenth street, when bandits entered, marched them to a rear room and searched them. The robbers got two watches and $17.

Doctor at 82 Finds Mothers Prefer His Formula to New-Fangled Salts and Coal Tar Remedies for Babies

Judgment of 1892 vindicated by world's approval of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a simple vegetable compound for constipation—So safe thousands give it to babes in arms—Now has largest sale in the world.

WHEN a man is in the 83rd year of his age, as I am, there are certain things he has learned that only time can teach him. The best of treating sickness has not changed since I left Medical College in 1875, nor since I placed on the market the laxative prescription I had used in my practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach, and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of my Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Recently new medicines have been brought out for constipation that contain calomel, which is mercury, salts of various kinds, minerals, and coal tar. These are all drastic purges, many of them dangerous, and the medical profession is warning the public against them. Certain coal tar products will depress the heart; certain salts give rise to intestinal poisoning, impaction and rupture of the intestines. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with pills and powders and strong drugs, even if disguised in candy? My remedy, too, costs less than most others, only about a cent a dose. A bottle such as you can find in any drug store, will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the babe in arms because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The formula of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is on the cover of every bottle, and the ingredients have the endorsement of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia.

In remembrance of my 83rd birthday I have set aside the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars to be given away in half-ounce bottles of my Syrup Pepsin. Only one Free Trial bottle to a family. All are constipated now and then, and here is an opportunity for you and others to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE. Ask for your free bottle today, simply sending name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 514 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Do not postpone this.
