

Life Term in Pen for Otto Cole

Slayer of Harry Hahn, Who Conducted Defense Without Counsel, Escapes Death Penalty.

Will Ask for New Trial

"We, the jurors, do find Otto Cole guilty of murder in the first degree, and for his punishment an imprisonment for life in the penitentiary."

This is the verdict of the jury which tried the man who calls himself "Otto Cole," on the charge of murdering Harry Hahn, secondhand clothing merchant, 414 South 28th street, the morning of March 28.

The jury was locked in the jury room all night, but reached the verdict at 3:40 yesterday morning. Louis Grebe, veteran bailiff, when notified that the verdict had been reached, summoned the 12 tired men with cots and they slept a few hours after that.

Judge Is Summoned. County Attorney Shotwell and District Judge Leslie were notified early yesterday morning that the verdict was reached and were in the big court room before 9.

The news of the verdict had come just too late for the morning papers, so the great crowd which had jammed the court room ever since the trial started was absent. Only a bare 50 of chiefly court house employees, newspaper men and court officers were in the room when the judge and county attorney took their places, and Otto Cole was brought in by Deputy Sheriffs Charles Hoye and Charles Johnson.

Haggard Appearance. Cole looked haggard. A growth of gray whiskers was on his face. He looked carefully at each juror as the 12 men filed in and took their places.

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you reached a verdict?" asked Judge Leslie. "We have," said Guy L. Smith, the foreman.

Sidney Gottneid, jury clerk, received from the foreman the paper containing the verdict. Cole's eyes followed him as he took the paper to the left of the judge's bench and read it.

Expression Changes. As the words "guilty of murder in the first degree" were uttered Cole's eyes moved again to the jury and his usual studiously, gentle expression seemed to change to one of hate.

"Gentlemen of the jury, do you find your verdict?" again asked the judge. "It is," they said.

The jurors were then excused with the compliments of the judge. Cole was led back to the county jail.

The jurors refused to state what went on in the jury room, except to give the information that 14 ballots were taken.

"What took so long?" Foreman Smith was asked. "Deliberation," he said.

It is believed that the deliberation was on the question of whether to make the punishment death or life imprisonment.

Rumor at the court house said the first ballots were 10 for the electric chair and two for life imprisonment.

Called by Shotwell. County Attorney Shotwell, in striving to give Cole every legal advantage, had him brought from jail at 11 yesterday morning to be informed as to procedure in making the ordinary motion for a new trial.

Cole was dressed in the brown uniforms which are the jail garb. He nodded pleasantly to the county attorney as he took his seat opposite him at the table.

"I want to tell you, Cole, of the steps you are entitled to take if you

Impressive Arbor Day Plea Made by Secretary Wallace Via Radio

Bee Receives Special Message Through Wireless Service—All A Plant Trees.

Marking the golden anniversary of Arbor day, and honoring a distinguished Nebraskan, J. Sterling Morton, founder of the day, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace last night broadcast a special message, which The Bee is presenting to its readers by courtesy of the Postoffice department radio service. The message was received here by Operator McAvoy. It follows:

Washington, April 21.—(By Postoffice Radiogram.)—To the people of the United States: Fifty years ago in Nebraska the first Arbor day was observed. A distinguished citizen of that state, who later became one of our national leaders, had the foresight to discern what tree planting might accomplish.

Arbor day means tree day, and we honor its founder, Hon. J. Sterling Morton. In 1872 Arbor day had in view the planting of trees where nature had spared no pains to provide them. In 1922 we give thought to our need for forests, and in all the principal towns on itinerary, including reception by Cardinal Lucon of Rheims cathedral and the commandant of the port of at Verdun."

Paris Plans to Receive Good Will Delegation

Winners of Trip-to-France Contest Will Be Greeted by Officials at Havre—Reception at Rheims Arranged—Trip to Fort at Verdun Also on Itinerary.

New York, April 21.—The following cable from Mrs. Anne Murray Dike, commissioner in France for the American committee on devastated France, was received in Good Will headquarters: "Regarding the Good Will delegation, we are pleased to hear that you will be in all the principal towns on itinerary, including reception by Cardinal Lucon of Rheims cathedral and the commandant of the port of at Verdun."

Candidates continue to enter The Omaha Bee Good Will election contest and new names appear daily.

As an indication of the local interest, a commercial traveler began making inquiries in a hotel about the local contest, stating that immediately on his arrival in town he noticed an attractive daughter of the state conversing with a uniformed employee who insisted upon her entering some sort of a contest. Later, he noticed cards inviting the general public to vote for Miss Mabel M. Leary, a girl further on he found cards inviting him to vote for Nellie B. Dunn, and again in the hotel he saw several persons meeting and pointing out paragraphs in the Good Will election story.

Told of Contest. When told that the American Committee for Devastated France was running an election to send popular girls of the city to France, he stated: "Yes, they are running one of those in St. Paul where the placards and campaign slogans and the university students parade in attempting to secure votes for Miss Mosback, who is by no means the embodiment of a corruption of her name."

Blind Man Who Became "Boss" of Frisco Is Dead

San Francisco, April 21.—Christopher Buckley, veteran political figure of San Francisco, at one time known as "the blind boss," died last night at his home here. He was 77 years old.

During the 20 years of his sovereignty it was conceded that he ruled the political circles of San Francisco. He was a democrat.

Buckley's career is a story of an indomitable will arrayed against an unkindly fate.

A politician of the old school, he fought relentlessly, if futilely, against such innovations as the direct primary. For years he was proprietor of the Sun cafe, a famous hangout dating back to Bonanza days, where his first job had been as a helper in 1862. The political machine built up by Buckley was finally destroyed in the middle '90s when James D. Phelan, former United States senator, led a revolt within the democratic party and was elected mayor.

J. Fawcett, director of the wool marketing department of the American Farm Bureau federation. The average net return to the grower was a fraction over 20 cents a pound, according to replies to questionnaires sent to wool-pool managers. In five of the chief cotton producing states, 1,500,000 bales of cotton have been marketed through pools and co-operative marketing organizations, the report said.

Testimony Called Lie by Pierce

Star Witness in Fogg Trial, Now in Insane Asylum, Kept Under "Dope," Affidavit States.

Officer Franks Blamed

Frank Pierce, star witness for the prosecution of Frank Damato, charged with the murder of Frank Fogg, druggist, innocent of manslaughter, declares he believes Damato "knew nothing about the killing of Fogg," in an affidavit filed by Joseph M. Lovely, in support of a motion for a new trial for Damato, in district court yesterday.

This affidavit was obtained from Pierce in an insane asylum at Topeka, Kan. In it Pierce admits that he "now feels that Mike Damato has wrongfully been convicted and principally upon my evidence given at the trial, for it is my firm conviction now that he is innocent of any connection with the Fogg murder."

Girl Retracts Statement. Bernice Wiler, another principal witness for the prosecution, declares she "did not know anything whatever about the facts of the murder and robbery of Frank Fogg, except only as told to me and prompted by Detective Erit Franks and Detective Walston, in another affidavit filed by Mr. Lovely."

She asserts that when she was called to the office of Chief Walston in Kansas City she said she never had been in Omaha and that she knew nothing of the Fogg murder. "I was supplied with a complete description of both men and was shown their pictures," she said, "which were published in local newspapers," the Wiler woman continues.

Tells of Interview. William Jamieson, Omaha lawyer, in a third affidavit, tells of an interview with Pierce, who baffled attorneys defending Damato, and whose testimony was admittedly the most damaging given against the prisoner.

"I visited one Charles Kerr, alias Frank Pierce, and in an interview he stated to me that if he could be assured that he would not be prosecuted for perjury he would make a statement in affidavit form incriminating each and every statement by him on the witness stand which in any way incriminated Mike Damato or his confederate, Walter Stevens," he deposes Mr. Jamieson.

"Jamieson says Pierce further asserted that he had given testimony solidly because he wanted to get away from several burglary charges pending against him in Kansas City, and because he was assured that if he would testify against Damato and Stevens he would be dropped."

Offers to Retract Word. Pierce stated if guaranteed immunity from perjury he would come to Omaha and repudiate all his testimony and clear Damato of any connection with the murder of Fogg, according to Jamieson.

Pierce, in his affidavit, states his true name is Charles Andrew Kerr, and that he was committed by the probate court of Lyon county, Kan., to the state insane asylum at Topeka, Kan., in 1921, and admits that he is again in the asylum under the same commitment.

Says Dope Given Him. At the time of the alleged conversation with Damato and Stevens at 706 North Sixteenth street, Omaha, on August 12, 1921, when Damato and Stevens were alleged to have talked of killing Fogg, Pierce in his affidavit admits that he was under the influence of dope and that every time he testified or made a statement regarding this conversation in Omaha he "was under the influence of drug furnished me by Omaha authorities."

The Wiler woman deposes that she never was on the premises at 706 North Sixteenth street until she was taken there by Detective Franks.

Officers of the firm, which has offices at 501 Karbach block, are J. E. Haarmann, president; Joseph Barker, vice president; Thomas Young, secretary; John D. Dutcher, treasurer. Rev. Albert H. Schwab is a member of the board of directors.

Dutcher, according to Attorney G. P. North, who filed the petition, has $90,000 worth of stock and Rev. Mr. Swab over $40,000.

The company, which was organized in the fall of 1919, has brick plants at Humboldt and Tekamah, Neb.

Dublin Barracks Troops Beat Off Attacking Force

Siege Lasts 40 Minutes—Intense Firing and Bomb Explosions Alarm Citizens—3 Deaths in Belfast.

Dublin, April 21.—(By A. P.)—The attack on the Wellington barracks, which began at 11:15 o'clock last night, continued 40 minutes when the besieging forces were beaten off by regular Irish republican troops.

The firing in different parts of the city, while it lasted, was even more intense than that of the previous night, the explosions of bombs causing the greatest alarm.

Wellington barracks, which is in a thickly populated residential section, was the last barracks here to be evacuated by the British and is not responsible for military action in Dublin, Beggar's Bush barracks being the headquarters of the provisional government's forces.

The firing of revolvers in various parts of the city at night has grown so general that it has had almost the same effect as a curfew law, peace loving citizens retiring to their homes at an early hour.

Twelve Easter Deaths. Belfast, April 21.—(By A. P.)—Firing again was in progress in Ballymacarret, the eastern section of Belfast, early today. A sergeant in the special Ulster constabulary was the first casualty of the day.

Two deaths in the hospital last night and the death of Andrew McCarty, one of Stevens's wounded, raised the Easter tide to 12.

Dublin, April 21.—A manifesto issued last night by the labor party and the trades union congress calls for a one-day strike for the issue, April 22, in support of the manifesto of the Dail Eireann, asserting its authority, reunite the army under a single command and accept the responsibility of government or confess its impotence and make way for the people to decide the issues.

The manifesto says the lord mayor and the archbishop of Dublin have been requested to invite the representatives of the executive council of the dissident section of the army (that headed by Roderick (Rory) O'Connor) to the adjourned session of the peace conference between representatives of the free state and the republicans next Wednesday.

It is declared in the manifesto that it is for the Dail Eireann, when it meets next Tuesday, to reunite the army and bring it under single command so that it may defend the nation and its liberties against foreign intervention.

Senate Delays Consideration of Tariff Measure

Discussion of Administration Bill Deferred to Monday at Request of Democratic Members.

Washington, April 21.—Officially the tariff bill was before the senate today but it received scant attention that republican leaders finally acquiesced in a request of the democrats that further consideration of it be deferred until Monday. By that time the minority expects to be ready to proceed with the general deliberation of the measure.

When the bill was called up by Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, Senator King, democrat, Utah, took the floor and after a reference to the tariff, launched into a nearly four hours' discussion of the Mexican situation.

After his address, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, had the senate clerk read a lengthy newspaper account of a speech by Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, in which the agricultural bloc and many other things were discussed. This over, Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican whip, demanded the regular order, which was a consideration of committee amendments to the tariff bill.

Senator King announced that if the regular order were insisted upon he would "have to make a speech on another subject."

Senator Harrison interposed to request that the tariff bill go over until Monday, saying the democrats had not had time despite "diligent work" to prepare themselves for the tariff fight. He added that there was no disposition on the minority side unnecessarily to delay the bill and that time would be saved and consideration of the measure expedited if it went over.

Russians Willing to Pay Debts

To Accept Prewar and War Obligations if Granted Recognition and Given Financial Assistance.

Germany Is "Surprised"

Genoa, April 21.—(By A. P.)—Both the Germans and the Russians today submitted their replies to the allies' demands. The German reply accepts the allied proposal that the Germans take no further part in the negotiations between the allies and the Russians, but the reply does not modify the effectiveness of the Russo-German treaty.

The Russian reply accepts the allied proposal for the payment of Russia's debts due to foreigners, and the restoration of foreign property nationalized by Russia, in case the soviet regime is granted full recognition by the allied governments and is given adequate financial assistance.

The effect of the two replies is to continue the German and Russian negotiations in the park here, and thus to bridge over the crisis which recently threatened to disrupt the conference.

Difficult Problem. While the soviet reply apparently accepts practically all the allied demands, the details of working out the plan and the amounts the Russians may expect in loans to restore their country admittedly present a difficult problem, without any certainty that it can be solved, and thus complete the preliminaries necessary for Russian recognition.

The allies believe the Russian counter claims for damages due to interventions will disappear from the discussions.

The German reply to the allied ultimatum accepts the condition that the German delegates be barred from participating in the further discussions of the Russian question by the Genoa conference, the Russo-German treaty signed at Rapallo being allowed to stand.

The German note is longer than that from the allies and begins by acknowledging "with painful surprise" the protest received, which is considered undeserved.

Exclusion of Germany. The note then repeats what Dr. Rathenau, German foreign minister, has stated on several occasions—that negotiations for the conclusion of the Russo-German treaty had begun long ago, were known to have been in progress by all the European governments, and had lately been suspended out of agreement with the soviet government. But the exclusion of Germany from the negotiations held by the allies with the Russians at the Villa De Albertis gave to the German delegation the impression that the allies were trying to conclude arrangements with the soviet government without German participation, perhaps to Germany's detriment.

At a certain moment, perhaps through misunderstanding, the German delegation received the impression that the allies were about to conclude an agreement with the Russians.

The ceremonies opened with a parade in which the school children, city and county officials, legion and various civic organizations took part. At the park an appropriate program was given with O. S.
