

Lady Astor Center of Admiration in National Capital

Member of Parliament Says Men Must Look to Women for Moral Help in Their Battles.

Washington, April 29.—Lord and Lady Astor came to Washington from Baltimore, were guests at luncheon at the capitol, spoke at the National Press club and later in the day attended a reception given by Mrs. Charles E. Hughes at the Pan-American building for the Pan-American conference of women.

Last night they attended a meeting at Continental Memorial hall for the Pan-American women's conference. From the time of her arrival, Lady Astor was the center of admiring groups. After luncheon at the capitol where she was the guest of Senator Swanson of Virginia, her native state, and at which she met the entire Virginia delegation in congress, and the members of the Virginia branch of the National League of Women Voters, she and Lord Astor were guests of the Press club, where both spoke on national and international questions.

"My view is," Lord Astor said in her address, "that the men must look to the women for moral help in their struggle to accomplish worth-while things. I believe in one moral law and I believe that it is incumbent upon the women to do their share in aiding men in their battles. Women are misunderstood and it should be their function to dispel this idea. Men will continue to misunderstand until they are made to understand. I recall during the war my experiences with Americans who came across. They did not understand conditions, of course, when they arrived.

"I talked with a crowd of fine fellows one day and I called a spade a spade. They had their pockets filled with money and I knew what they had in mind. I said to them: 'You fellows are going out and perhaps will drink too much and perhaps flirt a little, but in the morning you will have a headache and regret the time wasted. You won't think it was a good time at all.' I talked so frankly to those men that one big fellow with a solemn face sided up to me and said: 'Lady Astor you have ruined my holiday.'

"This is the function of the woman. If she makes herself understood and exercises the proper influence, she will become a great force in the world for good."

Omahan Reunited With Wife and Daughters, Left in Russia, After Eight Torturous Years.

It took eight years and more than a hundred million rubles for Hyman Goldenberg of Omaha to fulfill a promise to his wife and two little daughters.

Goldenberg left Russia early in 1914. He promised his little family that he would send for it as soon as he had established a home in the United States.

Shortly after he left the world war began. He came to Omaha and obtained employment with the Fairmont Creamery company. Then letters from his loved ones ceased to arrive.

U. S. Oil Reserve Frauds Charged by LaFollette

Wisconsin Senator Declares Interior Department Which Leased Lands Is "Reeking With Corruption."

Washington, April 29.—Investigation of the lease of naval oil reserves in California and Wyoming by the interior and navy departments was ordered today by the senate.

The photographic copy of the lease signed April 7 by Secretary Fall of interior department and Secretary Denby of the Navy on behalf of the government, and Harry L. Sinclair for the Mammoth Oil company, lessee, was transmitted shortly before action was planned on a resolution for a congressional investigation.

Washington, April 29.—Sweeping congressional investigation of the alleged private exploitation of the naval oil reserves appeared to be assured following sensational charges by Senator La Follette, Wisconsin, in the senate yesterday.

100,000,000 Rubles Spent to Bring Family to Omaha

Omahan Reunited With Wife and Daughters, Left in Russia, After Eight Torturous Years.

Then came the long awaited letter from his wife. It told of the horrors of war and hunger. Goldenberg sent his wife money and advised her to escape into Roumania if possible. She was unable to get a passport, but with her two daughters succeeded in crossing the boundary. She was held in a Roumanian prison and for a time officials threatened to send her back to Russia.

Obtains Passport. A passport for the family to America could not be obtained for several months because Roumania's quota had been used. Finally, as an American citizen and with the aid of Fairmont officers, Goldenberg obtained a passport.

But fate still remained perverse. One of the daughters contracted diphtheria on shipboard and on arrival at Ellis Island the little family was interned. The girl recovered from diphtheria, only to become ill again from measles.

New York, April 29.—The convention of the American Newspaper Publishers association closed after the members had adopted a resolution regarding federal taxes, two regarding advertising and one in memory of members who have died during the last year.

The most important resolution of the day, according to officers, concerned circulation. It read: "Whereas, the question of circulation as to a solicitation is liable to abuse and has been abused by both publishers and advertisers to the disadvantage of fair-minded dealers; therefore, he it resolved, that any form of guarantee that impairs the level justice of the publishers' rate to any other advertiser is destructive of advertising and should be avoided."
