Fighting sleet is the hardest battle the Northwestern Bell Telephone company wages in Nebraska during the winter and early spring, company officials say. A glance at these pictures will demonstrate why phone service is not always up to standard after a hard sleet storm.
The photographs were taken in the vicinity of Grand Island, Neb., just after the storm of March 18. Upper picture shows how wires were pulled down by weight of the ice. In the lower right picture a heavy pole has snapped under the strain and is standing on its head. Lower left shows an intricate tangle of crossed wires linemen had to contend with just outside Grand Island.

An unusual photograph showing the unveiling of the statue to King Edward VII. of Britain at Biarritz, France. The men in white trousers are Bayonne fishermen, who admired King Edward for his love of the sea.

ARCHIE ROOSEVELT. The smiling third son of the late President returns on the new White Star liner Olympic after spending several months abroad on business for the Sinclair Oil Company. Wish somebody would teach Archie how to crease his hat—or is that the latest overseas style?
