

Court May Take Son From Alleged Whisky Seller

Judge Day Tells Dave Gard He Is Unfit to Care for Lad — Neighbors Testify.

"I am not going to be made a party to sending that boy to live out there in that den of vice," sharply stated District Judge Day to Dave Gard, 5761 North Forty-third avenue, who was ordered before juvenile authorities yesterday to show why his 10-year-old son, Edwin, should not be taken away from him because of improper parental care.

Gard was arrested last Monday and bound over to the district court after police seized a still and liquor at his home. The Gard boy was taken to Riverview home following the raid.

"The Gards do nothing but steal, sell liquor and violate other laws," said Judge Day after he declared that he would take the case under advisement for two days. The Gards haven't made an honest dollar for 10 years.

Six witnesses, all neighbors of the Gards, testified that they saw Edwin filled with intoxicated persons come and go from the Gard home.

County Clerk Frank Dewey who was one of those instrumental in having Gard brought before juvenile authorities stated that Gard's home was raided by police after a complaint was made by a mother who stated that her son had not contributed one cent to her support since he became a whisky customer of Gard.

Among those who testified were Marie Terry, 19, a nurse; James G. Robertson, 21; Harry Dewey, 17; Frank Dewey; Edgar McCarthy, 18; Robert Thompson, 19; Mrs. Minnie Pond; Mrs. Marie Freeman; Mrs. Hazel Fowler; Mrs. D. and Miss Edna Ackerman; Mrs. Bess Hald and Inez Daniels.

Two Girls Taken After Hot Chase

Arrest of Pair Sequel to Issuance of Bogus Checks for Over $500.

Two young women were arrested yesterday as forgers of checks in a thrilling chase through downtown streets.

They gave their names as Mary Smith and Kathlene Shepherd of Kansas City, both 22, professing to be clerks. They registered at the Loyal hotel March 28.

Detectives Larry Finn and Ray Coady have been on the trail of spurious checks totaling more than $500, said to have been passed on downtown department stores, and in their quest went to the Loyal hotel.

As the sleuths emerged from the hotel the two girls sprang them and ran south on Sixteenth street to Douglas, up the Douglas hill toward Hotel Fontainebleau, where they were caught just as they were about to enter a taxicab.

When taken to Central police station and booked for forgery the Shepherd girl is said to have confessed and taken the blame to save the Smith girl from prosecution.

The bogus checks held by the detectives in the case were signed with the names of Mrs. J. E. Wallen, Mrs. Arthur E. Lyon and Mrs. J. L. Burdick.

PYORRHEA

Should Not Be Neglected

See Your Dentist And Use Lykolene Daily

Don't temporize with pyorrhea or receding gums. It is a serious condition which if neglected means abscesses, marginal cavities and eventual extraction of the teeth. If you have this trouble, go to your dentist and begin treatment to arrest the progress of the disease. Also use Lykolene, the powerful antiseptic, as a mouth wash, every day. This will keep the gums from becoming soft and spongy; it will make them firm and keep them healthy. Whether you have pyorrhea or not you should use Lykolene as a mouth wash to keep teeth and gums in fine condition and to purify the breath. Used regularly it works wonders.

A General Antiseptic

Use Lykolene also as a wash for cuts and sores, as a spray and gargle for colds and sore throat, use it wherever a powerful, soothing antiseptic is needed. See what wonderful results it brings. Sold by leading druggists.
