

Pictures From Everywhere—Daily in The Bee

Care to try it? The favorite stunt of this young woman, Babe Kalishek, is dancing on the wing of an airplane while it is thousands of feet above the earth.

Sights like this may be seen at Omaha swimming pools this summer. Classic swimming poses are the latest stunt of English mermaids. Members of the Beckenham Swimming club have developed a series of tableau-like figures which are worked out while floating in the water. "The Wheel" is pictured here. Other figures can be developed by any number of swimmers. Water fans in this country will take up the idea, it is predicted.

Here is Miss Carlotta Havemeyer, prominent New York society girl, ready for a canter at Virginia Hot Springs.

President Harding is shown shaking hands with Bernard S. McMahon, pilot of the District of Columbia Mystic Shriners' caravan, which has left the capital en route to San Francisco to attend the annual convention there.

These two pictures show Sirvart Totoanian, little Armenian girl, before and after she had received attention from near east relief workers. Dr. Clarence D. Royce of Rockville, Ind., who made a tour of inspection of the near east last year, found Sirvart hungry, homeless, and almost naked, her pitiable condition being typical of thousands of other children left orphans by ravages of war and famine. The upper left picture shows how she appeared. Dr. Royce had with him a box of children's clothing donated in America. The lower right picture shows how some of this clothing and a half hour's session with soap and a scrub brush wrought a transformation in Sirvart. Omahans are asked to remember the plight of these children when they are called on for castoff clothing during "Bundle Week," starting June 5.

This Porto Rican, ousted as district attorney, is coming to Washington to demand the removal of Governor E. Mont Reilly. He is Diaz Collazo. Governor Reilly, he says, exceeded his authority.

Miss Dorothy Ford (above) of Bloomfield, N. J., declares she was hypnotized by "Professor" Herman of Hoboken, so that when she was prevented from joining him she became hysterical.

There is no telling what might have happened to anyone who drinks the liquor manufactured in this place. The photo shows what remained of a room in New York city when a still exploded. The room was completely wrecked and one man nearly lost his life.

After listening to jibes of friends for many years on his lack of style because of his preference for suspenders, Charlie Docherty, well known Omahan, finds himself very much au fait, following the edict of the stylists pronouncing the erstwhile scoffed at suspenders as "the thing" this season. Yes, Charlie is one of those who "never wore anything else."

These two pictures show Sirvart Totoanian, little Armenian girl, before and after she had received attention from near east relief workers. Dr. Clarence D. Royce of Rockville, Ind., who made a tour of inspection of the near east last year, found Sirvart hungry, homeless, and almost naked, her pitiable condition being typical of thousands of other children left orphans by ravages of war and famine. The upper left picture shows how she appeared. Dr. Royce had with him a box of children's clothing donated in America. The lower right picture shows how some of this clothing and a half hour's session with soap and a scrub brush wrought a transformation in Sirvart. Omahans are asked to remember the plight of these children when they are called on for castoff clothing during "Bundle Week," starting June 5.

The panda, a member of the raccoon family, lives in the Himalayan mountains, at 12,000 feet. It is the champion mountain climber of the world.

When Julia Marlowe, Shakespearean actress, said "smile" to her husband and co-star, E. H. Sothern, the order, needless to say, was obeyed. Julia and her baby sailed on the Aquitania for Europe for their annual farewell tour.

This scene shows a part of the beautiful gardens at the home of Gordon W. Wattles, former Omahan, at Hollywood, Cal. The photo was taken by Mrs. W. E. Bolin, Omaha, on a recent visit to the Wattles home.

Howard Wilcox and Lucca Hearn.

At Indianapolis, on May 30, the speediest racing drivers on earth will compete in the annual 500-mile sweepstakes race. Braving the dangers of the bowl, it is announced, will be Miss Lucca Hearn, who thus will earn the distinction of being the only girl ever to drive a car in the championship sweepstakes. Howard Wilcox, noted racer, is training her.

Chicago may soon have a woman mayor. Mrs. Jacob Baur, social leader, prominent in republican state and national politics and known as Chicago's "best business woman," is in the race.

Father Francis P. Duffy (left), chaplain of the famous "Fighting Sixty-ninth," and Father J. B. Kelly of New York were among the passengers on the Arabic for Europe. They are going to Rome to see the pope and will attend the Eucharistic conference.

Chinese warriors are no longer poorly drilled soldiers. They are of high type and have modern airplanes and artillery to support them in their wars. The picture shows the type of troops engaged in the fighting this week around Peking.

Her college education, said Miss Sallie Kline (above) enabled her to argue a burglar who entered her home in New York, to leave without taking any valuables. He left begging her pardon.