League Revue a Family Affair

Although the Junior League Revue, to be held at the Brandeis theater May 12 and 13, is very much of a family affair, there is but one husband and wife in the cast. Mr. Robert Reasoner is the prince in the opening Arabian court scene, while his wife is one of the humble flower slaves in the same scene.

There are, however, several groups of sisters, and brothers and sisters. The Misses Corinne and Elizabeth Elliot take part in many of the same choruses, while Mrs. Charles Allison always has an escort for evening rehearsals in her brother, Donald Kiplinger, as does Miss Catherine Peacock in her brother, Jack Peacock. Miss Josephine Congdon, who appears in many of the choruses, is a sister of Mrs. Arthur Rogers, and Mrs. Herbert French, who are sponsoring as chaperones several of the groups. The Congdon family is the only family which has three daughter members in the Omaha league. Howards, two sisters on the general committee and are still performing Herculean labors; they are Mrs. F. H. Bucholz, in charge of the properties, and Miss Marian Towle, who, as chairman of the program committee, has even surpassed last year's remarkable program record.

Skipping to the second degree of relationship, we find the following cousins all taking an important part in the league revue: Mrs. Newman Benson and her cousin, Milton Rogers, both in the Chinese songs; Mrs. Lawrence Bruiker and her cousin, Eleanor Berkeley, and Mrs. Henry Bohling, and her cousin, Gertrude Koumte.

The general ticket sale opens today at the Brandeis theater.

Birth Announcements.

Clef Club Election.

The Clef club met for its last dinner of the season Monday night at the Brandeis restaurants for the annual election of officers. Thirty-five members attended. Lilacs and tulips were used for decorations. Miss Corinne Paulson, retiring president, presided.

Martin Bush was elected president. On the board of directors for the next season are Miss Juliet McCune, Miss Luella Anderson, Miss Adelyn Wood, Mrs. E. K. Zabriskie, Jean P. Duffield and Albert Beck.

Problems That Perplex

Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Proud of What She Can't Do. Dear Miss Fairfax: I'd like to meet a bunch of girls who don't dance, swim, skate or go out with fellows. I don't do any of those things and I wondered if there were other girls like me in Omaha. I know that this isn't in your line of business, but print it anyway for me, like a dear, and see if there really is a girl like myself. Please, until I hear from you in The Bee.

A READER.

All right. I have printed it like a dear, though there doesn't seem to be much point to your request. There are many girls in Omaha who don't dance, swim, skate or go out with fellows. You seem more proud of the things you don't do than the things you do. What can you do well? And are you trying to add to your abilities and accomplishments as you go along?

One In Sorrow: When in doubt, marry neither, is a pretty good rule to follow. I have some sympathy for you in your perplexity, however, because I am not one of those who believe that love is a fixed thing. You can't measure it off as you do yard goods, or potatoes. If you are in doubt about how to choose between the two young men, consider well their characters. Try to decide which one is the most nearly meets your ideal, and which is most congenial to you. Be sure there is some good, wholesome respect mixed up in your regard, for real love doesn't go far without it. I cannot decide for you, of course, between these young men. Consult your mother.

Y. W. C. A. Classes in Their Annual Demonstration

More than 300 women and girls participated in the annual spring demonstration of the Y. W. C. A. department of health education Tuesday evening at the City auditorium.

The program, which was given under direction of Miss Lucy Jane Giddings and Miss Mary Jewell, included: A letter dance by Marcella Ashby; Dutch twins dance, Anne Beck and Norma Wass; nature studies (Dawn), Irene Winter, Grace Gilie and Dorothy Crawford; (Birds Awake), Mabel Van Brunt, Alice Drake and Anne Rasmussen; (Daisy Chains), Lee Wiberg, Bernice Ruxton, Lola Sandy; (Shepherd's Pipes), Norma Wass, Norma Weeks and Mrs. C. A. McCarty; (Sundown), Anne Beck and Elsa Drews; Sandman, Poppies, Rustic Courtship, Witches, Dist. in the Park and Tyrolian Trio were other artistic numbers given by the various classes.

The second part of the program included singing games and the following floor drills: Pyramids, wands and dumbbells, Indian clubs, apparatus and calisthenic drill and zovavé drill.

Common Sense

Are You Teaching Un-Americanism? When you hear a child say that it is going to do a certain thing now, "just for spite," you can be sure it has heard it before or would never have thought it "smart" to say such a thing.

There is altogether too much of that sort of spirit shown about existing laws at the present time, which is bearing fruit which injures the ones who have fostered this spirit of rebellion more than they think. When a thing has gone far enough to get into the hands of the authorities and the authorities have spoken, it is time to hold the words of the authorized spokesmen.

Parents cannot make a greater mistake than to condone something which is basically unprincipled just because it was started in a spirit of fun, as the youngsters say.

Anything which injures another or which permits another to exact a promise to do whatever is asked, without knowing beforehand what is to be asked, is essentially un-American, and should be put under the ban of public disapproval.

Foreigners are not to say that Americans are like sheep—unthinking—but it is too bad if such a statement be literally true.

Parents' Problems

Can good taste in dress be taught when children are as young as five and seven? Yes. Provide simple clothes for the children. Call their attention to the attractiveness of plain colors, a coat and cap of the same color and tone, etc.
