

Chicago's Famous Market Street to Become Boulevard

Gay Limousines to Flaah Where Hucksters Cart Now Rumble Over Slippery Cobblestones.

By The Associated Press. Chicago, May 13.—South Water street, where about a billion dollars worth of turnips, chesks, ducks, eggs, onions and other foodstuffs are bartered in a year, is preparing to pick up its squawking fowls, its smelly, its hubble of tongues, its slippery cobblestones, and move. A $20,000,000 double-decked street—boulevard above, trafficway beneath—is to replace it. The street extends six blocks along the river through the heart of Chicago.

Promoters of the "Chicago Beautiful" plan say the crooked river street will give way to a boulevard that will rival Michigan boulevard in beauty. The gay limousine will fling its heavy body, its wiggly and delivery trucks rumbled. Silks will rustle where the commission house cat purred atop an orange crate. South Water street, more or less known wherever people eat, will become a reminiscence.

The new street, like the old, will begin at the site of Fort Dearborn, the original nucleus of Chicago, and will connect with other boulevards about a mile to the west, close to where the pavilion or wigwam, in which Abe Lincoln was nominated for the presidency, it will wind with the Chicago river and the lower deck will have docks.

Overcrowded for years in a bewildering jam six blocks long, the commission merchants under the new plan are to spread out over the very latest thing in market places to be constructed a mile or two away on West Randolph street. Assessment rolls amounting to $20,000,000 for the South Water street improvements will be filed within the month.

The new quarters for the food merchants will be an immense rectangular section containing a number of railroad tracks alternating with streets, the commission houses to face inward along the outer sides of the rectangle, leaving the interior free for the movement of traffic. Adjoining will be another large rectangle containing switching yards for produce and affording direct connection with approximately 30 lines entering Chicago.

Charles Godding, member of the committee of wholesale merchants that has the new market place project in hand, is authority for the statement that the business done in South Water street reached a total of nearly $1,000,000,000 a year.

Will Honor Dr. Murphy. As a memorial to the life of John B. Murphy, world famous surgeon and pathfinder in medicine, a great medical library is to be erected here in the near future through the efforts of more than 5,000 distinguished members of his profession, the roll call of the American college of surgery. A $200,000 fund left by Mrs. John B. Murphy for the benefit of medical science will be used as a nucleus of the library fund, this to be multiplied by subscriptions from the membership of the college.

Dr. Murphy after arranging his own funeral, died August 11, 1916. Trail Boulevard Vamps. The detective bureau has picked a dozen of its handsomest men and assigned them to patrol Michigan boulevard and Sheridan road in fine big cars in an effort to stay the ravages of the boulevard vamp, said to infest these thoroughfares in such

These shoes are, in the first place, good looking. The spring sole styles are so sensible that Cantilever Shoes are stylish. They're graceful, well shaped shoes; finely made; reasonably priced.

LIGHT AND FLEXIBLE. And they harmonize like good pals, with the active life of the modern woman! They're flexible, easy, efficient—full of pep and go. They fit your feet, let the toes bend, the arches flex. They add wings to your walk.

Cantilevers are flexible like youth—not stiff like old age. They keep the well foot well by permitting good circulation and exercise of the foot muscles. They support a weak arch like a bandage around the instep and allow nature to strengthen the foot through the simple exercise of walking.

Unions Watching Construction of New C. of C. Home

Gompers Pays Visit to Goodwin to Ask if Discrimination on Building Is True.

By The Associated Press. Washington, May 13.—Business men and labor leaders are watching with a good deal of interest the getting under way of construction on the $2,000,000 permanent home for the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Particularly, the question is whether construction on an "open shop" plan will encounter particular resistance from organized labor. It was first raised after prominent publication of an article asserting that not a tool in the hands of a union workman would touch the structure in its erection and that not an ounce of material would come from a concern having union workers.

Elliott H. Goodwin, vice president of the chamber and executive in its affairs, had an interview with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, concerning the matter. Following the interview Mr. Goodwin remarked that the big construction job would be "all right if the radical labor man and the radical business man can be kept out of it."

Gompers Obtains Conference. President Gompers brought about the conference with Mr. Goodwin by asking whether the chamber intended to make an anti-union demonstration in Washington under the noses of the men officially responsible for the conduct of labor organizations. He was told that the stories published were gross exaggerations.

Further, Mr. Goodwin assured Mr. Gompers that primarily the Chamber of Commerce was going to be engaged in erecting a building, not in starting an industrial row. It would, however, live up in its conduct to its professions, defining the "open shop" policy as that which guided employers in "hiring men to work without discrimination for or against them because of union membership."

Mr. Goodwin is further said to have asked Mr. Gompers to consider that the "chamber had as much right to build its headquarters on an open shop basis in Washington as did the American Federation of Labor a few years ago to build its offices here on a closed shop basis."

Plan Expense Check. Institution of new methods of government to permit of a more accurate check on federal expenditures and receipts is under consideration by Comptroller General McCar. Orders probably will be promulgated soon providing for a new system of accounting for government expenditures which will show the disbursements of the various departments by objects so that the government may know exactly how much of all appropriations are devoted to specific purposes such as the purchases of paper, ink and other supplies, as well as the larger items of expenses.

Standardization of accounting by the various departments and agencies of the government also will be required, so the daily, weekly and monthly disbursements and the objects covered may be readily ascertained. Treasury officials declared today that a system will be installed by which the secretary of the treasury may make quarterly allotments to the various bureaus for their operations as a means of forestalling deficiency appropriations.

First National Guard Armory in State Dedicated

Hastings, Neb., May 12.—(Special Telegram)—The armory of Company G, 134th Infantry N. N. G., was dedicated with a large gathering of officers and men of the guard present. The building was dedicated by Kirk Griggs, president of the Hastings Chamber of Commerce, and response was made by Adjutant General Paul. Col. Amos Thomas of Omaha was among the speakers. The armory is the first to be built for the new National guard. The ceremonies were followed by a ball.
