Davis Plans Fight to Get Convicted Banker Returned

Attorney General Draws Up Papers to Prevent Wentz Escaping Prison Term.

Lincoln, May 16.—(Special)—Attorney General Clarence A. Davis was preparing requisition papers today in an effort to bring Charles W. Wentz, Aurora banker, back to Nebraska to serve from 1 to 10 years for falsifying records of the American State bank of that place. He received word today that Wentz, who is under arrest at Kalkaska, Mich., on a charge of embezzlement from a Michigan bond house, intended to fight the attempt to bring him back to Nebraska.

The Nebraska supreme court yesterday affirmed a 1 to 10 year-sentence against Wentz imposed by the Hamilton county district court. After his conviction Wentz disappeared and months were spent by the Hamilton county sheriff in locating him. Finally new charges were filed against him in an effort to force his attorneys to tell where he was and at the present time a legal fight is underway concerning new charges.

by the American Relief administration. The statement was made that the United States already had made informal representations in the matter and that these had generally proven effective. In view of that, it was added, the American government could see no pressing need to join with Great Britain, France and Italy as proposed in an inquiry by a commission.
