Body of Seven Appointed to Co-Operate With Commerce Commission—To Meet Thursday.

By GRAFTON WILCOX. Omaha Bee Special Wire. Washington, May 22.—Demonstrating the earnestness of their promise to President Harding to do all in their power to make possible railroad rate reduction that would contribute to restored prosperity, the railroad executives of the country today appointed a committee of seven to co-operate with the interstate commerce commission to see what can be done.

The committee conferred with the interstate commerce commission for more than two hours, arranging for a second conference on Thursday. The railroad committee follows: Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio; Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway; Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; H. E. Byram, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific; W. H. Finley, president of the Chicago, North Western; Edward Chambers, vice president of the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe.

In official quarters the difficulties to be encountered by the railroad presidents in attempting to meet the president's wishes are thoroughly realized. Notwithstanding the difficulties in the way, there is a growing feeling here that the movement initiated at the White House dinner will get somewhere. It may be necessary to submit a plan which will involve further action by the railroad labor board, with respect to reducing labor costs, but the president is said to hold the view that labor cost reduction might be brought about if some plan of rate reduction could be agreed upon in advance.

Tarkington Wins Pulitzer Prize for Best Novel of Year

Noted Author Awarded $1,000 on Book "Alice Adams"—Stories of "Unknown Soldier" Best Newspaper Accounts—Des Moines Girl Gets $1,500 Scholarship.

New York, May 22.—Booth Tarkington again has won the Pulitzer prize of $1,000 for the American novel best presenting the "wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standards of American manners and manhood." Columbia university announced yesterday. The prize-winning novel was "Alice Adams."

Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie" won the $1,000 prize for American play best representing the educational value and power of the stage in raising the standard of good morals, good taste and good manners.

The $2,000 prize for the "best book of the year upon the history of the United States" goes to James Truslow Adams, for "The Founding of New England," and the $1,000 prize for the "best meritorious biography teaching patriotic and unselfish services to the people, illustrated by an eminent example, excluding as to obvious, the names of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln" to Hamlin Garland, for "A Daughter of the Middle Border."

Edwin Arlington Robinson's "Collected Poems" won the $1,000 prize for the best volume of verse published during the year. The Arlington ceremonies for America's "Unknown Soldier" last November proved the material from which were written the prize winning newspaper stories and the prize winning newspaper editorial of the year.

Kirk L. Simpson of the Washington staff of the Associated Press, for his stories on the return of the "Unknown Soldier," was awarded the $1,000 prize for the "best example of a reporter's work during the year." Frank M. O'Brien's editorial, "The Unknown Soldier," published in the New York Herald on November 11, was awarded the $500 prize for the "best editorial article written during the year, the test of excellence being clearness of style, moral purpose, sound reasoning and power to influence public opinion in the right direction."

The prize of $500 for the best newspaper cartoon went to Rollin Kirby of the New York World for his cartoon, "On the Road to Moscow," published August 5, 1921.

The New York World won the gold medal for the "most disinterested and meritorious public service rendered by any newspaper during the year for its exposure of the Ku Klux Klan." Three traveling scholarships of $1,500 each for graduates of the Columbia College of Journalism, "who have passed their examinations with the highest honors and are otherwise most deserving" went to Robert Arthur Curry of Nassau, Bahamas; Zilpha Mary Caruthers of Denver and Herbert Henry Best of Spartenburg, S. C.

Edith Bell of Des Moines, Ia., won the $1,500 scholarship to the American art student "who shall be certified as the most promising and deserving by the National Academy of Design."

Senate Returns to Tariff Fight
Most of Day Given Over to Minor Amendments—Dye Issue Postponed.

Washington, May 22.—The senate returned today to its struggle with the tariff bill, resuming night sessions, but making comparatively little progress. Most of the time was given to consideration of minor amendments, the dye fight being postponed again, this time until Wednesday, because of the illness of Senator King of Utah, who is to lead the democratic fight on both the license embargo and tariff duty provisions.

The chief controversy centered in the committee amendment to make the duty on red or brown quarry tiles 5 cents a square foot and 30 percent ad valorem, which was approved after the rejection, 24 to 38, of an amendment by Senator Shepard, democrat, Texas, to fix the rate at 20 percent ad valorem. In opposing the committee rate, Senator Hitchcock, democrat, Nebraska, declared the American people were "tired of having their pockets picked" and wanted to see further price reductions. He argued that instead of reductions there would be increases if the pending bill were passed.

A move to put crude petroleum and fuel oil on the dutiable list was made today by Senator Harrell, republican, Oklahoma, who offered an amendment to make the rates 35 cents and 25 cents a barrel, respectively. His amendment went over and cannot be brought up for some weeks.

Watson Threatens to "Punch Face" of Senator Phipps

Omaha Bee Special Wire. Washington, May 22.—Senator Tom Watson, Georgia, went on a rampage in the senate again today. This time Senator Phipps, Colorado, was the object of the fiery Georgian's wrath. Watson threatening to smash Senator Phipps' face in a quarrel over some Georgia postoffice appointments.

The altercation between the senators began in the senate chamber while Senator Wadsworth, New York, was making a speech and threatened for a few minutes to break up the proceedings.

The row was precipitated over Georgia postal nominations, to which Senator Watson objected, declaring the nominees personally objectionable to him. Senator Phipps, chairman of the postoffice subcommittee handling these nominations, apparently was not satisfied with Watson's criticisms of the nominees and wrote letters to Georgia making inquiries. He later laid the correspondence before Senator Watson.

Watson Starts Row.
This morning the senate had been in session a few minutes when the Georgia senator approached Senator Phipps in the rear of the chamber and began to criticize him in a loud voice because he had written the letters. Phipps defended his right to act in the matter as he saw fit. Thereupon Watson became furious, his talk disturbing the senate and Senator Wadsworth, who stopped his speech.

"I can't talk to you here," Senator Phipps muttered. "Well, come outside then," said Watson in tones that could be heard in the press gallery. Phipps followed Watson outside the main senate doorway, where Watson turned on him and cursed him roundly.

Offers to Punch Face.
"If you stop down off that step," Watson shouted so that he could be heard in the senate chamber, "I'll knock your face in with my fist." At this threat, Senator Phipps said he would summon the sergeant-at-arms. Watson did not desist. "Ain't you man enough to take care of yourself?" Watson replied. "I am."

At this juncture Senator McNary, Oregon, rushed from the chamber and stepped between the pair, persuading Phipps to return to his seat, while he led Watson away into the corridor.

Jury Frees Girl in Record Time

"Man Got What Was Coming to Him," Says Judge.

Memphis, Tenn., May 22.—"The man got what was coming to him. Possibly he did not get it in the right way, but he got it." Such was the remarkable statement of Judge Harsh of the criminal court here when arguments were concluded by lawyers in the case of Bessie Lee Sisk, a young woman tried for the alleged murder of Herbert Bingham, musician.

The jurors nodding assent to the court's remarks, did not leave the jury box to return their verdict. The court's statement at the conclusion of the trial was brought about when the defense attorneys asked that a directed verdict of not guilty be returned against the young woman.

Judge Harsh continued by declaring that he did not believe there was a chance for conviction of the young woman on the evidence presented and that there was slight chance that the appellate court would permit a verdict to stand against her. It would be waste of time and money to proceed with the case, he declared, adding that if no member of the jury felt to the contrary a verdict of acquittal might be returned.

Bingham, the murdered man, a musician at a local theater, had been going with the Sisk girl for months. Evidence by the state tended to show that he had gone to the boarding house where the girl lived, but to see other girls to the exclusion of Miss Sisk, whom he had declared he no longer loved.

It was developed that as a direct result of medical and surgical treatment urged by Bingham, Miss Sisk had become very ill and that she had spent weeks in a hospital.

Charlie Chaplin's Mother May Be Deported by U. S.

Authorities Investigating Conditions Under Which Aged Woman Is Allowed to Remain in America.

Washington, D. C., May 22.—Immigration authorities are investigating the conditions upon which Hannah Chaplin, the aged and shell-shocked mother of Charles Chaplin, motion picture actor, and of Sidney Chaplin, is allowed to remain in the United States. This became known today with the issuance of an order by E. J. Henning, assistant secretary of labor, granting stay of time to enable Mrs. Chaplin and counsel employed by her sons to present legal grounds for permitting her to be a semi-permanent resident in the United States.

Mrs. Chaplin, herself an actress, it was explained, was mentally deranged by shocks suffered during one of the first of the German aerial raids on London during the war. After the war ended her sons desired to take her to California to give her environment and treatment which would ease her condition and possibly, it was hoped, restore her reason. She was, after some difficulty, given permission to enter this country and remain for one year. This time has expired and the question has arisen whether she can be legally allowed a longer period of residence.

The Chaplin brothers, upon her arrival in this country, gave assurance that she would never become a charge upon public charity and installed her in a cottage at Santa Monica, Cal., under care of trained nurses, and with expert medical and neurological attention.

The attending physicians report, it was said, that her mental condition has improved steadily, despite her age, and counsel also have presented a statement that Charles Chaplin is worth more than $1,000,000, contending that the extraordinary circumstances justify some yielding in the legal barrier against admission to the United States of aliens, either permanently or temporarily mentally unound.

A decision in Mrs. Chaplin's case, it was said, is expected to be announced shortly by the immigration board of review.
