

Recognition of Russia Debated by Borah and New

While Senators Argue, White House Makes it Plain no Change in Policy Is Planned.

By GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, May 23.—While the senate debated today the Borah resolution for recognition of the Russian soviet government, it was made clear at the White House that the United States is contemplating at the present time no change in its policy toward Russia.

Senator Edge, New Jersey, went after the Borah soviet recognition resolution when it came up in the senate.

"The constitution of the United States, as I interpret it," he said, "is built upon the principles of liberty and protection of property rights, and while I recognize the right of any nation to establish its own government, I differ very decidedly on the question of America's recognition of that government if it destroys the fundamental and bedrock principles upon which our own government is founded."

Not American Plan.
"The fundamental principle of American government has been the protection of American interests under any flag in the world, and how are we to protect American interests in a country whose government first refuses to recognize an American loan made to the government, and then positively asserts that property rights and protection form no part of their ritual?"

"It appears to me, Mr. President, that to recognize the soviet government under such conditions is not only infamous, but is destructive to all that Christianity has accomplished in the last 2,000 years."

"During the war, many American citizens bought Russian external bonds. That was to help the allies win the war. At the time, it was just as much a patriotic act as it was to later buy American Liberty bonds. They were bought, as I recall it, practically at par and not at an unusual rate of interest for such securities. As stated, the present Russian government has repudiated this debt in its entirety."

Borah Gives Views.

Declaring Senator Edge was under much misapprehension about Russia and that 14 nations are today trading with her, Senator Borah said:

"We are doing business there, but are doing it through another nation. A New York merchant told me recently that he had sold a large bill to Russia a short time ago and got his money, but he did it through an English merchant."

"It is constantly stated that Russia is unwilling to restore the property of other nationals. On the contrary, she has specifically declared that she would either restore the property or compensate for it. This is the most manifest evidence of good faith."

"The proposition submitted at Genoa meant the dismemberment of Russia. The question at issue was how much of the raw materials and resources of Russia each of the allies would get hold of."

He called attention to the fact that Frank A. Vanderlip, American banker, regarded the proposals to Russia as impossible.

Commencement exercises will take place at the college Thursday. The class to be awarded diplomas is the largest in the history of the school.

Sunday evening, the high school baccalaureate services were held. 81 students graduating this year. Rev. W. D. Harrington of the Baptist church delivered the address.

Can a Man Kidnap His Own Wife?

Mrs. Irvin L. Stair
INTL.

Irvin L. Stair of St. Paul, president of the Great Northern Grain company, married the daughter of wealthy George P. Flannery of St. Paul in 1916. The Stairs, with unlimited money, were members of the highest society in the Twin Cities. Two months ago she sued for divorce, alleging cruelty. An injunction was granted restraining her husband from interfering with her, but Stair went to her home, she swears, while she was disrobed and, by pressing a pistol to her side, forced her into an auto and drove her to St. Cloud, Minn., where they spent the night.

Next day, when he stopped at a gasoline station, she had him arrested. He was sentenced to 60 days in jail in Minneapolis, where he spent two weeks. Then he sued out a writ of habeas corpus, which was denied, but he was freed on bond pending an appeal. Mrs. Stair went before the grand jury and sought to have him indicted for kidnapping, but his attorney alleges a man can't kidnap his own wife. The supreme court of Minnesota will decide.

chant, arranged for automobile transportation. The art of living has been pretty well solved in this town. Business is good, there was only one case of bankruptcy in all of Shelby county and the three banks contain more than $2,000,000 deposits. A local auctioneer asserts that are farm land is selling now at from $250 to $350 an acre. As a banker said, money can safely be lent on these farms with the eyes shut.

Much Moderate Wealth.

There is no one hereabouts with a fortune of more than $200,000. But a whole flock of men here are worth from $50,000 to $100,000. A good many motor cars, mainly of the more expensive makes, are being bought. The children share in the good fortune of their parents.

Next week will be held the annual children's festival, which before the war was called the "Kinderfest." This is a custom brought from overseas. For the boys there is target-shooting in the park. For the girls there is the game in which that girl is declared queen who breaks while blindfolded the largest number of crocks with a club; then there is a dance in the opera house, first for the children and at night for the grownups.

The desire for closer business relations with Omaha, a necessary factor in which is good express and rail service, was voiced in a short address of welcome at Templeton by Rev. T. H. Huesman, the village priest. His plea was that Templeton be made a flag station for fast trains so that it would be possible for its citizens to travel to Omaha and back in the same day. He made the point that it was better for them to trade with their own west than to buy from the mail order houses in Chicago and said that insufficient railway service discouraged shopping in Omaha. A reminder of the prevalence of consolidated schools in Iowa was received at Lohrville and Lyton by the sight of the large busses that are used to carry the pupils back and forth.

Rotary to Meet on Train.

C. W. Evans, secretary of the Community club at Lohrville, arranged for the Omahans to ride from the station to the business district in seven of these school busses.

Sioux City is the final destination tonight. The Chamber of Commerce there is entertaining the visitors. Winnetoon, Neb., is the first stop tomorrow. The Omaha Rotary club, many of whose officers and members are on this excursion, will hold its weekly luncheon on the train tomorrow noon.

Alleged Forger Weds Rich Widow in Texas

Nebraska City, May 23.—(Special.)—Sheriff Fischer returned yesterday from Texas, having in his custody J. G. V. Ingolsby, charged with forgery, who jumped his bail here several months ago. Ingolsby was apprehended in Texas and held for the Otoe county authorities.

He was arraigned in the county court and entered a plea of not guilty and his hearing was set for Friday. He was unable to furnish a bond of $1,500 and is in the county jail.

He was arrested in Texas on several charges, but the Texas officials did not want to go to the expense of a trial and turned him over to Fischer.

Ingolsby was married to a wealthy woman in Texas just a few days before his arrest.

Skiles Puts Lash on Fellow-Demos

Says Harmony Impossible With Norton and Butler in Nomination Race.

Lincoln, Neb., May 23.—(Special.)—C. M. Skiles of Lincoln today refused to enter the primaries as a democratic nominee for governor.

In his statement, Skiles states bluntly that with Dan Butler and J. N. Norton in as candidates for governor, harmony is impossible. He says, in part: "It might not be asking too much now for those men who assume the power to make and unmake candidates to call another conference and for the sake of harmony and the success of the whole ticket, including United States senator, ask all candidates to withdraw in favor of some other democratic candidate."

"Why not let Charles W. Bryan or others file? Mr. Bryan, some time ago, was exhorted to stay out of the race for the sake of harmony, which has not altogether harmonized."

Continuing, Skiles offers the democratic party advice on the platform to be adopted at the July convention. In part, he urges abolishment of the state law enforcement bureau created to war on bootleggers, auto thieves and bank robbers, and presided over by State Sheriff Gus Hyers; changes in the blue sky law, amendment to the revenue law, an increase in the $2,000,000 bonus for soldiers voted by the last legislature; cheaper electrical power, publicly owned; reduction in educational expenses and the overthrow of code system of government.
