

Lions to Gather in Omaha Monday for Convention

Local Club Present Merle C. Taylor as Candidate for Office of District Governor.

More than 500 delegates from Iowa and Nebraska will be in Omaha next Monday to attend the annual district convention of the Lions clubs. The convention session will be held at the Hotel Fontenelle and besides the delegates will be attended by Governor McKelvie, Governor Preus of Minnesota, International Lions President Cameron of Minneapolis, Secretary-General Melvin Jones of Chicago, J. C. Coombs, district governor of Lions clubs in Arkansas, and International Director John Burianek of Cedar Rapids, Ia. Forty clubs in the two states have a membership of approximately 2,000. W. A. Westfall, a prominent attorney of Mason City, is district governor, having been elected over Judge Utterback of Des Moines at Cedar Rapids last year.

Many to Come by Auto.
Several clubs have chartered special Pullman's and many delegations will arrive by automobile. Registration is scheduled for the Fontenelle from 8 to 9.30. Business session will take up the remainder of the time until noon.

A lively contest is developing for the office of district governor. The Omaha club has put up Merle C. Taylor, local president and at present deputy district governor. After the business session and the selection of next year's convention city the delegates will have lunch at the Fontenelle followed by an automobile trip over the city, ending at Ak-Sar-Ben field, where the Omaha Lions entertain at the race meet. The women will have luncheon at the Athletic club.

To Attend Ak-Sar-Ben Show.
The annual banquet will be held at the Fontenelle from 6 to 8, and the delegates will attend Ak-Sar-Ben show at night. The women will enjoy an Orpheum day. Governors McKelvie and Preus, together with international officers, will speak at the banquet. President Taylor of the Omaha club will preside.

The convention committee of the Omaha club is composed of "Cubs" L. J. Millard, chairman; J. D. Dresler, Harry Mallo, William Randall, Roy Swanson, Ed Undeland and H. B. Watts.

The officers of the Omaha Lions club are: Merle C. Taylor, president; William R. Randall and D. M. Edgerley, vice presidents; Ira D. Kyle, secretary-treasurer.

Thomas Wins Point in Receivership Battle

A point in the controversy between rival receivers of the Lion Bonding & Surety company was won yesterday by Amos Thomas, who was appointed by the district court over a year ago.

Judge Redick gave an oral opinion that the district court appointee has jurisdiction, having been named previously to the federal court appointment in St. Paul, Minn.

The circuit court of appeals at St. Louis, a few weeks ago, held the opposite and ordered Thomas to turn over the company affairs to the St. Paul receivers, A. J. Hertz and John I. Levin.

A copy of Judge Redick's opinion will probably be filed in federal court today. The judge instructed Thomas orally to hold on to his receivership for the present. A stay will be asked, in federal court and the case likely will go to the United States supreme court for final decision.

Wife of Ex-Policeman Given Divorce on Cruelty Charge

Arthur Joseph McIntosh, former Omaha policeman, treated his wife with great brutality, according to her testimony before District Judge Sears yesterday, in her suit for divorce.

He met her on Tenth street viaduct one night as she was walking home from her work and threatened to throw her over the railing to the railroad tracks, she said. She testified further that he threatened her life with a revolver and when she returned to her parents' home, went there and threatened the whole family.

After he was discharged from the police force, he went to the Harmony cafeteria where she worked and demanded her money and ate his meals, having them charged to her, she alleged.

The wife is an exceptionally dashing and modishly dressed young woman. Judge Sears granted her a decree.

Property Lines Question to Be Determined by Court

Property owners on the south side of Leavenworth street, Forty-eighth to Sixtieth streets, will be required to go into court to have their property lines determined and legally established.

Albert F. Mitzlaff appeared before city council yesterday and explained that the recorded plats indicate that he is entitled to a depth of 114 from the street line. He finds that his property measures 101 feet and that he would be required to go into the street if he obtained his full 114 feet. On the other hand, it is contended that Leavenworth street was laid out as a county road on its present lines before the property in question was platted.

The council told Mr. Mitzlaff that his recourse would be to take the matter into court.

Central High School Girl Weds Secretly

"Brownie" Bandy.

The secret wedding of Hazel "Brownie" Bandy, Central high's "cutest girl," and Thorval Berg, football star, which took place at Missouri Valley February 6, became known yesterday. The bride played a leading role in the senior class play and was a solo dancer in the annual road show. Young Berg, the son of Mrs. L. Berg, was graduated from Central high with the mid-year class. He has been selling life insurance since he left school.

Second Trial of O'Hara Damage Suit Is Started

Trial of the suit of John O'Hara, 21, for $100,000 against the Union Pacific railroad was started yesterday in District Judge L. B. Day's court.

O'Hara, working for the railroad in the Council Bluffs yards, September 13, 1919, was ordered to take a curious looking cap from the end of a piece of wire found in a coal car. He tried to do so and an explosion put out both his eyes. He is hopelessly blind.

The wire found in the freight car was an electric blasting cap filled with mercury fulminate. The case was brought to trial in district court two years ago but the judge took it from the jury on the ground that no negligence on the part of the company had been shown.

The supreme court held that there was "abundant evidence of negligence" and sent the case back for trial.

O'Hara, a son of Frank J. O'Hara, 820 Eighth avenue, Council Bluffs, is now a student at the school for the blind.

Absentees May Vote at Primary by Mail

Registered voters who will be away from Omaha July 18 may take advantage of the absent voters' law for the primary election that day, regardless of where they may be, Election Commissioner McHugh ruled yesterday.

Application for absent voter blanks will be honored any time before June 18 at the election commissioner's office, he indicated.

The law provides that any registered voter who expects to be away on election day may secure an application blank at least two days before election day and may vote by going before a notary public.

The ballots must be mailed so that they will reach the election commissioner's office not later than the Thursday morning following the election.

The law provides voters may take advantage of this privilege even when outside the state. In previous years this was not permitted.

Sidney Doctor Given Oil Coat in Isolated Spot

Osteopath Refuse to Prosecute Men Who Attacked Him Following Dispute Over Bill.

Sidney, Neb., May 31.—(Special Telegram)—Dr. G. H. Crusen, an osteopath practicing here, was decoyed into the country Saturday night on the pretext that he was to answer a sick call. An automobile with a driver was sent to convey him to the patient.

At the edge of town three more men were picked up, and the machine continued to a spot about four miles from town. There the four men in the car attacked the doctor, tore off his clothing and applied to his body a heavy coat of crude oil and grease.

After being treated to this indignity he was abandoned and staggered to a nearby farm house where he telephoned to the sheriff. The farmer took pity on him and conveyed him back to Sidney.

Dr. Crusen identified the driver of the car in which he was kidnaped as Sidney Hawkins and with the sheriff drove immediately to the Hawkins home. The doctor's hat was found in a motor car in the yard and other evidences of the assault.

Hawkins confessed to his part in the affray and gave the names of his accomplices. Hawkins was brought to the county jail but released, when Dr. Crusen refused to prosecute.

Dr. Crusen explains the attack as being the result of an argument with Hawkins over an account for professional services in attending his wife. Hawkins, the doctor states, refused to pay the bill. Mrs. Hawkins was taken into Dr. Crusen's home for treatment.
