

DOLPH WINS FEATURE RACE AT AK FIELD

Kentucky Horse Noses Mildred Out of Win at Wire

More Than 8,000 Omahans Witness Opening Day's Meeting at Ak-Sar-Ben Track.

Dolph in the silks of S. T. Baxter, well-known Kentucky horseman, won the feature race of the opening day's program of the second annual Ak-Sar-Ben spring meeting yesterday when he finished the mile and a sixteenth distance in front of a field of five runners.

In winning the feature race, Dolph displayed a great flight of early speed and decisively outfooted his opposition in the early part of the stretch. He likewise displayed pronounced gameness, for he stood the final drive with determination and shook off Mildred, when the latter ranged alongside of him in the last sixteenth.

Packers Wallop Buffaloes for 10 to 4 Victory

Burch Uses Four Hurlers in Effort to Win Third Game of Series—Play Today.

Control was a lost art so far as the Buffaloes' hurling staff was concerned yesterday, and Sioux City romped off with a 10-to-4 victory.

Barney Burch trotted out four hurlers during the entertainment and each failed to make the ball respond to his dictates.

Omaha outthit the Packers, getting 12 to its opponents' 11.

Brothers Will Coach Cyclones

Sam and Frank Willaman Are Chosen Football Mentors at Iowa State.

Ames, Ia., June 3.—One doesn't have to delve far into gridiron records to find cases where brothers have been stars on the same team, but a new family combination will be tried out at Iowa State college next fall when Sam and Frank Willaman undertake the job of coaching the Cyclone football team.

The Willaman brothers didn't happen to play together on the same team, chiefly because Sam Willaman is several years older than his brother.

Brother Frank falls short of Sam only in coaching experience. On the other hand, he is 30 or 40 pounds to the good in weight.

Eddie Anderson Feared by Buff, Bantam Champ

Title-holder's Boss Doesn't Consider Westerner a "Set Up"—Wants "Real Dough" to Fight Him.

By RAY PEARSON.

JOHNNY BUTT. "Well, say it is mighty hard to 'catch a sleeper' in the boxing game. Now and then some cunning gent who gets the 'meat and potatoes' out of the glove sport will put one over, but such things happen so infrequently that even those closely connected with the game seldom hear of them. In other sports, however, we frequently hear of 'hookers' who 'buy the head' and slip something over the less astute boys, but as we have said, it's tough picking to get away with anything in boxing, and we shall proceed to prove this argument.

On the eastern seaboard there is a town called Jersey City. That is the place that the big arena is located on, Boyle's 30 acres, the spot on which World's Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey and George Carstairs battled last summer. But that arena, which seats 100,000 human beings, isn't the only thing that has helped to put Jersey City on the map. There's a champion residing there and his name is Johnny Butt, known as the champion of the bantamweights and, judging from the news that wafts west, he isn't going to be caught napping and lose his crown.

Burman Among Waiters. Buff has been under the weather for a couple of months. His manager, Lew Diamond, attributes his condition, which has kept him out of several ring engagements, to a bad cold. This naturally has forced a number of bantam aspirants to let up a bit on their challenging business, but Pat Moore, Joe Lynch, Joe Burman and several others are waiting patiently for Mr. Diamond to give the word that the champion is ready to climb through the ropes and battle.

Of course, these challengers want to play loxy, and are aiming to get the first crack at Buff, Moore, Curry and a few of the others who are well known from coast to coast, have been trying to figure out some clever way of enticing the champion to give them the first chance, but there's another boy, and a mighty good glove swinger, right down in a town called Moline, Illinois, who also is hopeful of getting the first shot at Johnny. This boy's name is Eddie Anderson. His manager's name is Curley Anderson, and between the pair they made the play to get the match with Buff.

Fooling Difficult Nowadays. The fight, however, turned into failure, because it seemed to Johnny one in the boxing game for one thing and principally because Eddie Anderson is better known than he thought. Manager Curley Anderson figured it out that Eddie, who is only 15 years old, might not be known to a few fans in a town so far away from Moline, or some other city in the middle west by boxing Eddie Anderson.

"Soft money" and the honeyed words describing it, however, didn't catch Diamond napping for an instant for a few days before Curley Anderson received a reply. Here's what Diamond had to say about Eddie and the "soft money": "In reference to Johnny picking up some easy money, I would like to inform you that I have seen Eddie Anderson in the east previous to his going back home and he sure is one of the toughest and most improved youngsters I have seen since my connection with the boxing game.

Anderson Still Hopeful. "I had an opportunity to see him whip Midget Smith and Jack Sharkey atoney Island last year, so just drive that idea of your poolie that we will be getting soft dough. You have one of the most likely youngsters and one with championship possibilities.

So the effort to fool Buff and Diamond failed. But Eddie Anderson hasn't given up the idea of becoming champion. He has a gymnasium in Moline, where he is teaching some of the high school boys how to box. He has several influential friends there, too, who are willing to back him against anybody.

Co-Eds Drop Powder Puffs for Baseball

"Atta girl!" may become a pet exclamation on the Oklahoma university baseball diamond in the near future. The dainty co-ed this year has dropped her powder puff and stepped to the plate with a menacing bat and a creditable wallop.

Sisler Leads in Hitting and Pilfering in A. L.—East Runner-Up to Manush

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 3.—Kenneth Williams of the St. Louis Americans, leading home-run batter of the major leagues, is trying hard to maintain the pace in homers set by "Babe" Ruth, Yankee slugger, last year, when Ruth ran up his record-breaking string to 59 circuit hits.

The St. Louis slugger today is only one home run behind Ruth's 1921 performance up to June 3, when Ruth had collected 15 clean-base drives. Williams got his 14th home run hit here yesterday.

Ruth hit his 16th homer today, a year ago. George Sisler is topping the batters with an average of .435. The batting mark of the St. Louis star was given a setback in the series between the White Sox and Browns, but the St. Louis favorite appears to have again struck his stride.

Other leading batters for 25 or more games: Speaker, Cleveland, .383; Cobb, Detroit, .381; Witt, New York, .378; O'Neil, Cleveland, .377; Schang, New York, .354; McManus, St. Louis, .333; Severed, St. Louis, .331; Judge, Washington, .330; Heilmann, Detroit, .329; Blue, Detroit, .329.

George Toporcer, the slugging shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, who topped the National league batters a week ago with an average of .404, connected safely only four times in 31 times at bat, and fell into thirteenth place with a mark of .336.

Hank Gowdy, the Boston catcher, is the only batter in the league hitting over the 400 mark. His average for 25 games is .403.

European Net Star to Return to U. S.

New York, June 3.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, San Francisco girl, who has played with marked success on European courts during her several years' residence abroad, will come to the United States this summer, according to Samuel Hardy, captain of the 1920 Davis cup team.

Other leading batters for 25 or more games: Fisher, St. Joseph, .388; Metz, Sioux City, .388; Bennett, Tulsa, .382; DeLoe, St. Joseph, .371; Middleton, Oklahoma City, .368; Graham, Des Moines, .361; Elish, Sioux City, .365.

Days of Tulsa, the leading home run hitter of the Western league, has 10 homers to his credit.
