Understanding the Farmer. That the federal government affirm by law the right of farmers to combine co-operatively for handling and marketing their products has been advised by the National Agricultural conference and the Joint Commission of Agricultural Inquiry.

It would not be fair to allow the farmers to build up their co-operative enterprises only to have the government, under a special interpretation of the anti-trust laws, step in and break them down when they had done no actual wrong although legally without defense.

Opposition to the co-operative marketing bill comes with little right from E. H. Gary, who heads the gigantic corporation familiarly known as the steel trust. Such legal restraint as has been imposed on his concern has been to protect the rights of the public.

In answer to Judge Gary comes Bernard Baruch, yet his reply that the farmers aim by co-operation to do exactly what the manufacturers have done through corporations is neither true nor fair.

Back from the Vacation. Reams of good white paper from our rapidly disappearing forests are used each year by writers who have witty things to say about vacationing. Humorous writers gurgled gleefully about mosquito bites, sunburn and fish that fail to bite.

Civil War in China. Hope that China would be tranquilized and brought to something like political stability when General Wu defeated General Hsi and scattered his forces hangs by a very slender thread just now. Unification of China necessitates the elimination of Sun Yat Sen, president of the Canton government, and strong man of the old republic.

Duty of the Jury. A jurymen is entrusted with a high duty; it is to decide the facts in the case as developed by the evidence; to balance the conflicting testimony of witnesses and determine what is the truth.

Trial by jury is granted every man in the United States because it is the humane principle of the law that no man shall be condemned on the single judgment of any. Twelve men must agree that he is guilty before he can be made to suffer any penalty.

Iowa Decides. A democratic senator for Iowa is hardly within possibility, hence the spirited free-for-all primary contest for the republican nomination that ends with the victory of Col. Smith W. Brookhart of Washington.

Lovey Animals. In those days men's names were fancier than women's and many a Sarah was wed to a Basil, quartered down and the remainder given to a miscellaneous list of names.

A Road Laboratory. Despite talk about tax reduction the good roads movement is going to continue to move. There is no stopping an improvement program as valuable to all elements of the community as smooth all-the-year-round highways.

Gullible Americans. Many reports come from Europe concerning the manner in which American tourists are overcharged by European landlords, amusement proprietors and caterers who cater to the tourist trade.

Coal Gas Poisoning. R. A. E. writes: "What effect would coal gas have on a family? A family of six people lived in a house for eight years with a hot air furnace firing the house with gas."

Lung Air Bubbles. J. W. writes: "Will you kindly give me the definition of rales in the lung and why it more often appears in climate of lower altitude rather than high, and the best way to cure it?"

Canada still is coy, but may be won. In blaming the high cost of living on "the unwieldy system of marketing and distribution," the joint commission of agricultural inquiry has pointed the way for both needed reform and needless agitation.

From State and Nation

"Mary" and "Eliza" are Back. From the Detroit News. Old-fashioned names are again in vogue, and the greatest of them all—Mary—heads the lists of present-day Detroit brides.

When Jane is required to name the year of her birth she is able to mark "1921." In view of the fact that Jane was the style of 1922 and mothers were resurrecting Gwendolyn and Gladys in 1923.

From the Kansas City Drovers' Telegram. Howard Gore, chief of the department of market practices of the packstockyards control administration, charmed the National Live Stock Exchange convention here last week with the story of the big steer, Brownie, that did not go to market to become the highest priced bullock that ever appeared on the New York market.

From the Norfolk News. This animal was pure white except for his ears which were red. He was lithe and slim, with one glass eye, and was wearing the reputation of being one of the best cow ponies ever performed in the cow country.

From the Norfolk News. Despite talk about tax reduction the good roads movement is going to continue to move. There is no stopping an improvement program as valuable to all elements of the community as smooth all-the-year-round highways.

From the Kansas City Journal. Many reports come from Europe concerning the manner in which American tourists are overcharged by European landlords, amusement proprietors and caterers who cater to the tourist trade.

From the Detroit Free Press. New York appears to have added a new one to the multitude of schemes for making money. The moblites are good. Under an ordinance just adopted by the board of aldermen every motorist must carry a card with his photograph attached thereto.

From the Chicago News. Politicians might be less scornful of that "Henry Ford for President" club if they stopped to consider the flivver vote.

How to Keep Well

Questions concerning hygiene, sanitation and prevention of disease, submitted to Dr. Evans by readers of The Bee, will be answered personally subject to proper limitation, where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed.

BATHING BEACH PERILS. A committee of the American Public Health association set out to find what the ear, eye and nose specialists and the public health officers thought about bathing beaches and swimming pools.

One hundred and twenty-nine physicians reported that they had seen infections of the middle ear so caused by 77 reported cases of otitis media, 73 reported cases of pink-eye, sinus infections were reported by 71 physicians, 37 reported meningitis and ear infections.

And Keep the Window Open. H. S. writes: "I am sleeping on the stomach harmful?"

REPLY. Snorers should avoid sleeping flat on the back as much as possible. Persons disposed to snore should sleep without pillows. With the remainder it is up to you please.

REPLY. The rule is that disinfectants are more poisonous to people than they are to bacteria. If taken internally, in doses sufficient to kill bacteria within a man, they will first kill a man.

REPLY. A fifth member of the family is now having acute heart attacks. Probably what is called coal gas poisoning is poisoning by carbon monoxide gas.

REPLY. A rate is a sound made by air bubbling through fluid in a bronchial tube, generally in a small tube. The presence of rales, therefore, means that some part of the lung contains mucus, pus, blood, water or other fluid.

Whether the bride be high or lowly. Whether the wedding be grand or small. True be the trust and the kiss be holy. True be the love and the love be all.
