Chicago, June 10.—Grain prices held within narrow limits 'today, with the bulk of the trade of an evening up character. Wheat finished 1-4c lower to 1-2c higher, while corn was up 1-8@3-8c and oats 1-8@1-4c. Rye was unchanged to 1-4c lower.

Liquidation was on in wheat early Liquidation was on in wheat early in the week, and a change in senti-ment came later. With general short covering, the greater part of short covering, the greater part of the loss was recovered, the finish being 1-4@1c lower. Corn showed independent strength and gained 11-4@15-8c, while oats were 5-8@ 7-8c lower and rye was off $1-8@5c. Provisions, while reacting toward the last, closed with a gain of 15@ 25c on lard and 35c on short ribs. Commission houses were fair buyers of wheat on the minor breaks, but turned sellers on the bulge and the day's range was only about 1c. Total receipts 1 187

Commission houses were fair buyers of wheat on the minor breaks, but turned sellers on the bulge and the day's range was only about 1c, with the September somewhat stronger than the July. The local element evened up at the last. Crop reports from the winter wheat belt were mixed but not sufficiently radical either way to have much effect on the market.

Weather conditions northwest were favorable for the crop and the forecast indicated showers in the west and south west. Hervesting is making rapid prosreas in Kanass and offerings to arrive are increasing. Export demand was slow.

Corn and onts averaged slightly higher, although buying was mainly of a local character. Sentiment in corn remains rather bulilish and there is little opposite son when the pit element start to tuy at all freely. Crop reports on both sample market were elightly lower as commarked with the July.

Total receipts 30 decended.

Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, June 10.—The week ended today with another declining stock market, in which, not illogically, the lately much boomed "oil shares" were the particular point of weakness. Comparison of today's closing prices with those of the week before shows very substantial reaction—much more considerable than tion-much more considerable than that which followed the first clash of the delegations at Genoa. As on that occasion, so on this, it must be said that the breakdown of an overdone speculation which the declining market reflects is al-
