The various fraternities and societies at the state university will show their colors at the football game Saturday between their team and the Iowa College team. Tally-hos and coaches have been engaged which will fly the scarlet and cream. This is to be the event of the season at the university as the great inter-collegiate games have been for years in the east, and if you would see university life in its brightest hues go out Saturday to M street park and see and hear the football game.

The wedding last evening of Miss Nellie Shreve Cochrane and Mr. Frank Woods was one of the prettiest ever solemnized in St. Paul Methodist church which was thronged with numerous friends. The church was decorated with graceful palms and festoons of smilax. Promptly at six-thirty the doors opened and twenty pretty girls, friends of the bride, entered pouring out the notes of the Lohengrin wedding march. As they reached the chancel they separated and formed two rows on each side and then awaited the coming of the bride. As she advanced up the aisle the groom and best man stepped from the room on the right and met her. Dr. Lasby performed the ceremony in his usual impressive manner and soon
