"Oysters" were the menu of a supper given by the trustees of the Congregational church. These gentlemen never do things by halves so these delicious bivalves were served in the most tempting manner to all who availed themselves of the invitation. As the funds were for the Industrial School the partaker found additional relish in the pleasing of his own palate and contributing to a worthy object.

The storm of Monday was not sufficient to keep Sorosis ladies from attendance upon the regular meeting. The promise of an interesting paper from Mrs. Welch upon Australia was also a motive and this promise was amply fulfilled. The continent of Australasia, with its advanced ideas and legislation is a most profitable study for the people of the United States and as its new phases are presented we may adopt those that prove successful and leave untried those that assure success. New Zealand has gone farther in new ventures than the other colonies and has successfully introduced woman suffrage and compromised with the laboring class. Mrs. Welch's very thorough acquaintance with the country enabled her to answer intelligently the many questions propounded and to lead the ladies into an entirely different train of thought than that awakened at the former discussion of that subject. An adjournment was taken until November 12. The next meeting will be held in room 17, Nebraska Hall, when Miss Richardson will illustrate her "Trip through the Yellowstone."

A very interesting and unique entertainment was given under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. in the Congregational Church, Tuesday evening. The opening number was a violin solo by August Hagenow, accompanied by his daughter May Belle. Of Mr. Hagenow's playing it is unnecessary to speak, for all Lincolnites know his conscientious and artistic work. The "little maid" accompanies in a superior manner and unless some unforeseen circumstance occurs will develop into a rare pianist. A song "Sunny Spain" by Hattie Cropper, and a cradle song, "Sleep, My Child," by Mrs. Cropper revealed talent that will prove valuable additions to Lincoln musical circles. Little Florence Lawrence appeared in a charming song and later as "Ragged Pal," which was clever, and remarkably done. Great credit was reflected upon the careful and judicious training of her mother who appeared in the song. Mr. Planque, of the University conservatory, gave a banjo solo which met with much favor that a recall was imperative. The gentleman is thoroughly master of his instrument and the music was a revelation to those who had hitherto failed to see art or music in banjo playing. The successful program closed with a "Nocturne" for violin, viola and piano which left impressions of dreamy night songs and sweetest melody. The audience was thoroughly appreciative, but the lack of number greatly reflected on the taste of the good people of Lincoln who can scarcely be compelled to hear a worthy program. but crowd the doors at the "Texas Steer," "Bunch of Keys" or similar entertainments.

There is no falling off in the number of projected weddings and Lincoln society circles have scarcely time to recover from the effects of one couple breaking away from single blessedness, before another interesting occasion comes to keep up the excitement. Weddings past and to come are the chief topic of conversation; even politics being forced into second place by the interest manifested in these important affairs, and while members of the hunting set are chasing the aniseed bag and the foot ball enthusiasts are chasing the pigskin, the young men and women of society are industriously chasing wedding presents; so that altogether the social season may be said to be quite active.

Rev. A. B. Whitmer of Osceola lectured Tuesday night at Grace Methodist church on "Things That Make Me Tired." The church was crowded, the lecture having been well advertised by the Epworth League, under whose auspices it was given.
