The promenade concert given by the Mendelssohn concert orchestra in representative hall at the capitol Tuesday evening was attended by a large number of friends and admirers. The hall was artistically decorated with the national colors. In the centre of the hall was a large platform for the orchestra, and this, too, was decorated. The hall proper was reserved for the promenade and for the drill by the light infantry. The audience was seated around the sides of the hall and in the lobby. At 8:30 the march "Apollo" was commenced, and while it was being rendered the following patronesses with their husbands joined in the promenade; Adjutant-General Gage and Mrs. A. W. Jansen led the march followed by Messrs. and Mesdames R. H. Oakley, J. W. Winger, A. S. Raymond, F. M. Hall, C. S. Lippincott, D. A. Campbell, H. R. Nissley, D. E. Thompson, J. J. Imhoff, L. C. Richards, A. C. Zeimer, and C. C. Burr. The program consisted of musical selections, exhibition drill by the light infantry and Delsarte exercises by eleven young ladies.

The first recital of the artists' concerts, projected by Director Willard Kimball of the university conservatory of music, was given Tuesday evening. The program was made up mostly from modern composers and was bright and pleasing as well as interesting. The composers represented were: Beethoven, Greig, Liszt and Chopin and a sketch of each was printed opposite his number. The order was as follows:

Sonata op 27, No 2 - - - - - Louis von Beethoven
Adagio sostenuto, Allegretto, Presto Agitato.

Two Studies { op. 10, No. 12 } - - - - - Frederic Chopin
                  { op. 10, No. 5 }

Fantasia in F minor - - - - - Frederic Chopin

Sonata op. 46, piano and violin - - - - - Ed Greig

Allegro molto ed appassionata, allegretto espressivo alta Romanza, allegro animate.

Second polonaise - - - - - Franz Liszt

A character of Mr. Seiveking's playing is the rapid tempo he is able to maintain. Every number had its merits; his rendition of Beethoven's sonata, and a poetic selection from Greig were particularly charming. Mr. August Hagenow assisted in one number, the Greig sonata. The recital was enjoyed by a large number.
