Readers of THE COURIER in this city and Fremont, who remember Mrs. C. M. Morrison and her two charming daughters, Misses Stella and Nellie, will bear with regret of the death of the mother at her home, 2203 Park avenue, Kansas City, Mo., Tuesday, June 11th. Mrs. Morrison was stricken with a severe attack of asthma on the day before, and after a night of acute suffering passed peacefully away in the morning.

Albert Luther Candy and Miss Ella Van Brunt were married Thursday evening at the residence of R. T. Van Brunt, Rev. Lewis Gregory, of the First Congregational church officiating. Only relatives were present. The wedding was distinctly quiet, but was characterized by its good taste. The groom is well known as a professor in the state university, while the bride, as Miss Van Brunt has held an estimable place in Lincoln social circles.

The types last week in the notice of Miss May Terrell's visit to Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Guthrie made it appear that the lady was from Paducah, N. Y. Miss Terrell, like all good Kentuckians is jealous of the fame of her native state and promised THE COURIER reporter annihilation if he did not promptly correct the statement this week. Miss Terrell is right. There is but one Paducah and it is in Kentucky, and its daughters are among the roses of the south.

Wednesday morning William G. Reddin, of McCook, and Miss Anna Hogan, of this city, were united in marriage at St. Theresa's pro-cathedral, Father Nugent officiating. Only a few intimate friends were present. F. L. Mary was Mr. Reddin's best man, and Miss Margaret Conway was bridesmaid. A niece of the bride, Miss Catherine Hogan, was flower girl. The wedding music was played by Miss Mame Mulien. The groom is a popular passenger conductor on the Burlington running between Hastings and Denver. Mrs. Hogan is a most estimable young lady. For five years she has been the sole mainstay of her grandmother, aged 94 years, also of her mother and her niece, and she is much respected and admired. Mr. and Mrs. Reddin will make their home in McCook.

A tallyho ride was taken by a large party of young people Friday afternoon of last week. The drive was given in honor of Miss Fay Thompson of Chicago. The trip was made to Ensign's farm where an excellent luncheon was served upon the beautiful lawn. Dancing and music were indulged in until a late hour. Mr. and Mrs. Nisbet, Mrs. Maule and Mrs. Anderson chaperoned the young people. Those participating in the drive were: Misses Fay Thompson of Chicago, Annie Nisbet, Blanche Hargreaves, Rose Foster, Bessie Hayden, Margie Winger, Florence Maule, Fannie Maule, Florence Putnam, Emma Outcult, Emily Weeks, Maggie Whedon, Messrs Edgar Morrill, George Bartlett, Ralph Winger, Bert Whedon, Alfred Fussy, Louie Westerman, Stafford Hewitt, Frank Steiner, Fred Humphrey, Donald Nesbet, Earl McCreery.

* Frederick William Smyser and Miss Fan Sheldon Hawley were united in marriage Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The ceremony took place in the First Presbyterian church, and was performed by Rev. J. D. Kerr, of Bellevue, the former pastor of the bride's family. The wedding was notable for its quiet elegance, and was one of the prettiest of the season. The auditorium of the church was completely filled by the guests who formed a fashionable assemblage. The ushers were: Fred W. Houtz, Frank C. Zehrung, Frank S. Burr, Mattson Baldwin, Harry Smyser and James Smyser, of Boston, the last two being brothers of the groom. Miss Given presided at the organ, and as the first strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march sounded the bridal party made its appearance at the rear east door. Following the ushers came Miss Henrietta Hawley, the bride's sister, as maid of honor. Her gown was of pink organdie. Little Fanchon Hooper followed, wearing white mousseline de soie over pink silk. She carried a white silk pillow bearing the ring. Then came the bride, and a fair and lovely bride she was. Miss Hawley's gown was of beautiful white duchesse satin with pearl and chiffon trimmings. A pearl crescent with a diamond pendant held her veil. Miss Hawley was joined by Mr. Smyser at the altar, the latter being accompanied by his best man and brother Charles Smyser. The ceremony was impressively performed. E. S. Hawley gave his daughter away. The bridal party passed out through the west aisle to the music of Lohengrin's wedding march. The ushers after escorting the party to the door, returned and gave their arms to the ladies of the two families represented. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hawley, the bride's parents, and at the same time the sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. Smyser's sister, Mrs. John Kurtz, of Washington, D. C. was celebrated. Guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Hawley, the bride and groom, Mrs. Smyser, mother of the groom, Mrs. Swett, Miss Henrietta Hawley and Charles Smyser. The decorations were pink and white. Mrs. John B. Wright and Miss Latta presided over the table in the dining room. They were assisted by Misses Jeanette Underwood, Josephine Winger, Lyle Hoover and Ena Ricketts. Among the out of town guests were: Mrs. J. H. Swett, Mrs. L. H. Smyser, Messrs Charles, James and Ernest Smyser of Boston, and Mrs. John Kurtz of Washington, D. C., General and Mrs. Van Wyck and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sheldon and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. C.
