

been tendered him, and the cadets succeeded in making the affair a particularly graceful compliment. The Lieutenant has hosts of friends outside the university, and many of them were privileged to pay their last respects, as guests of the cadets. It was really a very delightful affair, and as one noticed the beautiful decorations, listened to the charming music, saw the many pretty girls and striking gowns, and observed the general smartness and tone of the ball, one could not help thinking that these university parties have become bright and shining social functions. There was a long line of people in the receiving line, and the several hundred guests had an opportunity of meeting, among others, the new chancellor, Prof. MacLean, and Captain Guilfoyle, Lieutenant Pershing's successor. The large floor of representative hall was thronged with people, and the first formal dance of the season was a crush.

THE FEDERATION.

The second annual meeting of the Nebraska federation of womens clubs met in the Congregational church on Thursday. The ladies were greatly disappointed not to see Mrs. Henrotin. She telegraphed Mrs. M. D. Welch that news of illness at home prevented her from attending the meeting. The board of directors met in the morning and discussed the matter of sending a delegate to the federated women's club meeting in Atlanta and kindred matters. There are present probably from seventy-five to eighty delegates. In the afternoon the audience numbered nearly six hundred and such an audience! Six hundred handsome, intelligent women is a thrilling sight. It put the speakers on their mett'e. After the secretary's and treasurer's report, Mrs. Langworthy read a letter from Mrs. Jas. H. Canfield which was received with enthusiasm. Mrs. Allen Field, president of the city federation, then delivered the address of welcome which we print herewith. Mrs. Sawyer spoke on the influence of the club on the home of the future, and Mrs. Lena Chase addressed the meeting on the subject: "As Others See Us." Mrs. Will Owen Jones and Miss Marie Hoover played brilliantly a duo by Raff. Mrs. Spattiswoode, of New York city, was also unable to be present. She was to speak on the aims and objects of Sorosis. It was a great disappointment
