

About the only collection of posters in the city is the one made by the patrolmen at the police station. They have an iridescent collection that would gladden the heart of Beardley himself.

To vary the monotony of a Sunday evening church service, a musical program is not a bad idea. But of course it depends on the program a great deal, as to whether it is very enjoyable or not. The choir of the Trinity Methodist church prepared and gave Geo. F. Root's cantata, "David, the Shepherd Boy," last Sunday evening. Everyone knows what Root's cantatas are, insipid and easy. But owing to the excellence of the chorus, the mediocrity of the piece itself was lost sight of. If steadiness, perfect time and perfect enunciation count for anything in chorous work, then the Trinity choir is all right.

As might be supposed, the life of David, his trials and triumphs, were told in the music by soloists and choir. The solo parts were not as well done as the remainder of the work. But as there were no professional singers, simply the regular members of the choir, it was not expected that great talent would be shown. The part of David was sung by O. L. Linch; Jesse, G. B. Leonard; Abagail, Mrs. H. B. Trigg; Michael, Mrs. H. B. Towne; Jonathan, B. F. Linch; Saul, E. C. Miller, and Samuel, H. L. Towne. Mrs. E. J. Burkett presided at the piano and O. B. Wilcox at the organ. E. J. Burkett was the director of the chorus and a great deal of credit is due him for the splendid work done by the choir as a whole. The house was full to overflowing and a good many people went up to congratulate the director after the audience was dismissed by the pastor Rev. D. W. C. Huntington.

Below will be found the full program of the second annual charity concert which occurs at the Funke opera house Tuesday, December 17. The sale of seats continues at Dunn's drug store, 119 South Twelfth.

The Fortnightly club met with Mrs. C. H. Gere on last Friday afternoon. Mrs. L. C. Richards presented a biography of Longfellow and other members of the club read selections from his works. Mrs. C. H. Imhoff was selected as a delegate to the city federation from this club. The assessment for the year was placed at seventy-five cents. This includes everything. Everything means dues to city federation, to state federation, state circulating library, stationery and stamps, incidentals and salary of secretary. The ladies are requested to bring this sum with them next week when the club will meet with Mrs. W. J. Lamb on K street, between Twelfth and B, in the McClay block.

Mr. Wing Allen spent Monday in Lincoln.

The Lincoln club will give a New Year's party in the last hours of the old year. When the bells of the city salute the new year over the grave of the old, the ladies present will assume the responsibilities that come "once in four," and ask the gentlemen for the honor and pleasure.

The cotillon given at Mr. and Mrs. Buckstaff's on Monday evening was a most delightful affair. It was the first German of the season, the guests were in unusually happy mood, the music was excellent, the floor was in good shape and everybody got to dance with the one he desired to. It was a progressive German which means a constant change of partners. Sometimes a change is welcome, sometimes not. But the other evening everybody was satisfied all the time. It was two o'clock before the music stopped. Then the subscribers held a business meeting and decided to have another cotillon soon. It was a subscription party—a club for an evening. The favors were ribbons. Every dancer provided itself with as many ribbons as there were figures. Mr. Buckstaff's was a strip of leather suspended by a tasselled buck thong. Captain Guilfoyle's ribbon had two crossed swords fastened on them instead of his name. Lieutenant Townley led with elegance.

Only 10 Shopping Days Before Christmas

Our sales during the past week have been the largest—by a very handsome percentage—ever shown in the history of this business for the corresponding week, and this, in the face of the fact that PRICES ARE LOWER THAN EVER on nearly every line of merchandise, is a very satisfactory condition of affairs.

The result we largely attribute to the fact that the great buying public of Lincoln realize more fully and appreciate these easily proven points—upon which we continually place such great emphasis, namely—

"Our Prices are always as low or lower than those quoted elsewhere."

"Our advertisements are entirely free from the slightest exaggeration."

"Our stocks, varieties and assortments are immeasurably the best in Lincoln."

These facts being easily demonstrated, this store naturally becomes

Mr. O. R. Oakley is much better, though still very sore and lame from his fall.

Professor Sherman's lecture on "Spiritual Law in the Natural World" is not what might be called a popular lecture. It is full of deep, long, long thoughts. It is without anecdotes or variations of the kind that pack a house. Nevertheless the chapel was crowded full above and below and when the audience was dismissed with a prayer by the chancellor it went away quietly and felt as though prostrate, it had been looking at the stars and was surrounded by space and force.
