ly—she may be here now—to visit her sister, Mrs. D. E. Thompson.

Next week Guy Huribut and Miss Grace Oakley and possibly others will visit Beatrice.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Kelley of Cincinnati, who have been visiting their son, W. F. Kelley, left for Mt. Pleasant, Ia., Mrs. W. F. Kelley's former home, this week. The Kelleys were entertained by the McMurtrys Tuesday.

Mr. Howell was in the city Sunday and left the first of the week for Annapolis to fulfil his official duties as a member of the United States naval visiting board. Mr. Howell is such a lucky fellow. He never holds less than two or three appointments.

If it were not for the fraternities society would be slow. It is getting tired and warm. Some of us are thinking of renting a cottage at Crete for a week or two. I am afraid that is as far away as we will get this summer. Crete is a beautiful place and the Blue banks are cooler than the city and greener, but young people have always been afraid to go to Crete since the papers there roasted the party that did try it for awhile. Perhaps the set who think of going to Crete will go to Milford instead, only there are no cottages there.

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity gave a party at Burlington beach on Tuesday night. About fifty couples were present. The men wore white trousers and sack coats and high spirits. Miss Willoughby's orchestra furnished the music. Jack says the floor of the pavilion is the only good dancing floor here. For warm weather it is just perfect. Don't you know you said so yourself the first time you went to a party there? It is just as nice as ever and under John Dorgan's care the pavilion and refreshment room have been cleaned and papered so that everything is ship shape. It is uncomfortable to try dancing in a house these nights. At the beach everyone has to dance to keep warm, except a few whose last year's course in English literature has been devoted to the "Poets of the Vague," Shelley, Keats and Byron. They naturally prefer moonlight and the wash of the wave to dance music. I was standing near a boat that was built for two and I heard him exclaim, after quoting Burns, and John and Frank: "Oh! Shelley would have liked tonight." His companion replied: "Shelley, Shelley who?" He explained and added that he thought they would better return to the pavilion. I suppose she never knew why the moonlight ceased to glimmer and the upper classman went gloomy.

The reception held by the vestry and members of Trinity church for the new rector, Rev. H. P. Silver, on Tuesday evening was a great success. The clergy of the city, including Mr. Chapin, Mr. Rowlands and others, were present. They were glad of the opportunity to meet Mr. Silver and were cordially received by the members of the church.

The reception and entertaining committee were as follows: Messrs. and Mesdames R. H. Oakley, R. O. Philipps, W. C. Miller, A. B. Coffroth, E. R. Sizer, W. W. Hackney, J. B. Horton, R. P. R. Millar, H. J. Walsh, J. C. Kier, C. H. Rudge, W. A. Rankin, C. C. Waldo, E. P. Ewing, J. H. Harley, Dr. William Greene, George Ralston; Misses Brunson, Dunn, Miller, Hohman; Messrs. Guy A. Brown, D. C. Van Duyn, James Hearn, Jr., E. P. Brown, G. L. Horn.

The committee of ladies, Mesdames Fuller, Huribut, Hoxie, Waldo, Ewing, Rudge and Miss Cowdery, transformed the basement of the church into a drawing room. Mr. Rudge furnished them with lace curtains, oriental rugs and rattan furniture so that even the Sunday school did not know the place. Miss Brunson and Mrs. Wade, assisted by several young ladies, served ice.

I feel more interested in the Episcopal church than any other since I heard Jack say that when he settles down that is the church he thinks his family will wish to attend. As for me I like one as well as another. The new rector says that there are more pretty girls in that church than any other. Jack is growing more serious-minded lately. He has had several very solemn talks with me on the porch. He says he hates that electric light in front of the house. Mama has always told me when I got married she would buy my furniture, so yesterday when I was passing Rudge & Morris' store I went in. I should like to furnish my rooms in rattan furniture. Mama says I can have any kind I want within a certain sum. I am going to get the cheaper kinds of furniture, not to look at, but confidentially. Then three-fourths of the money I shall spend on rugs. Mr. Rudge has some beauties. A real oriental rug will last forever—America forever—and imparts more distinction than any amount of varnish. Jack tries to dissuade me from going to parties. He says he likes to sit out on the porch in spite of that old light. I like parties though.

Tomorrow, Saturday, there will be a gay tally-ho party at the bicycle races. I am not in it, but I suppose it will be gay, anyway. I hear the tally-hoers will be Messrs. Joyce, Morrison, Harry Lansing, Mallalieu, Ray Welch, Huribut, Mason, Will Clark, Houghton, Reese and Low; Misses Hudson, Nance, Grace Oakley, Mae Moore, Rinehart, Hollowbush, Marie Marshall, Griffith, Slaughter, Maud Oakley, Latta. The party is, or will be, the result of Messrs. Joyce and Morrison's enterprise.

I hear the man to whom Miss Quick of Des Moines is to be married June 3 is ill with pneumonia, but they expect to have the ceremony performed. Miss Mame Carson is with Miss Quick now.

I have received invitations for an "at home" at Mrs. M. I. Aitken's Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Prouty and Mrs. Brown of Des Moines.

Yours lovingly,

ELEANOR.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SEWARD, Neb., May 28.—(Special Correspondence The Courier.)—On my tour in search of subscribers for The Courier, information as to crops and pointers as to politics, I find in Seward, my starting point, a gratifying number of the former, a brighter crop outlook than there has been for years, and no scarcity of politics. Seward has a candidate for the nomination for presidential elector in the person of George A. Derby. He is eighty years old and a life-long republican of the old school. He is a much esteemed resident of Seward county.

The Seward History and Art club is a notable organization of women, officered by Mrs. S. C. Langworthy, president; Mrs. A. Anderson, vice-president; Mrs. F. A. Marsh, secretary; Mrs. S. D. Atkins, treasurer. Mrs. John Cattle, Mrs. T. L. Norval and Mrs. D. C. McKillip are among the prominent members.

W. D. Bowers, deputy county treasurer, and Hon. Alfred Hiller and others with whom I talked take a hopeful view of Nebraska and look for a genuine revival this fall.

I find a number of people here who think favorably of C. E. Adams as a candidate for governor. Louis Helmer of Valparaiso, candidate for state treasurer, is in town. He asks no favors of the railroad company—he rides a wheel.

Announcements

John Drew, with a stronger company than usual—and his support has always been the very best that Charles Frohman could secure—will appear at the Lansing theatre Monday, June 1. Mr. Drew comes direct from New York, where he played the entire theatrical season through, being opened at the Empire theatre there early last September, and closed at the Garrick theatre recently. In all he was before the New York public about thirty weeks, and every one of these weeks found him playing to the capacity of the theatre in which he happened to be appearing, for during the time he played in three theatres in all. There is no other star who could have achieved such a New York season. Mr. Drew encountered every novelty that visited or was originated in the eastern metropolis, and was not only not affected by their opposition, but far and away survived them all. During his stay he made two comedy successes, and these are the plays in which he will be seen during his western tour.

Miss Maud Adams, who has been Mr. Drew's leading lady during the four years in which he has been Charles Frohman's star, still holds that responsible position. The other members of the organization are Annie Irish, Gladys Wallace, Ethel Barrymore, Annie Adams, Harry Harwood, Arthur Byron, Lewis Baker, Leslie Allen, Herbert Ayling and Frank Lamb. The sale of seats is now open at the Lansing pharmacy, at prices ranging from $1.50 down.

Leopold Lewis' great dramatic study "The Bells" will be presented Decoration day, Saturday, May 30, at the Funke opera house. Mr. Short, who plays the leading role of Mathias, is a graduate of the American school of dramatic art, and late of Daniel Frohman's Lyceum theatre Stock company of New York. Seats on sale Thursday at 9 a. m. at Dunn's drug store. Regular prices—25c, 50c, 75c and $1.

The Nebraska McKinley club will have a special train of sleepers from Lincoln to St. Louis to attend the republican convention, leaving Lincoln about 3:20 p. m., June 15, via Missouri Pacific.

The total cost, including sleeping car for five days, attendance, etc., will be but $25. While in St. Louis the cars will be located three blocks from the convention auditorium, with complete sanitary arrangements provided for. All desiring to avail themselves of this privilege will communicate with F. W. Collins, secretary and treasurer Nebraska McKinley club.
