Last Friday night a number of prominent society people, members of the married set, had an interesting time serenading. They started from the neighborhood of Seventeenth and G streets, and because of the premature explosion of fire crackers, or something, they decided that it was useless to try to sleep. The accordingly visited their friends' houses and insisted on their leaving their couches and joining the party. Numerous recruits were obtained. An interesting experience was had in one house occupied by a very prominent citizen. In answer to the usual summons the lord of the mansion appeared in all the white glory of his lingerie, with his bare feet trailing along below. He didn't seem to mind it a bit. The party did not stay long.

A company of Plymouth Christian endeavorers, consisting of W. R. Dawes, Albra Cook, L. C. Smith, Miss Jeanette Green, Misses Agnes and Anna Bethune, Miss Grace Dobson, Miss Thompson, Mrs. L. C. Some two or three weeks ago there was talk of two large picnic parties to be given on the Fourth of July, one to be under the management of R. M. Joyce and the other to be given by Mattson Baldwin at Meadowbrook farm. For some reason both were given up. Mr. Baldwin joined his friend George Woods at the bicycle races, and Mr. Joyce organized a small informal party that spent the afternoon and evening very delightfully at the home of Miss Lucy Griffith on North Sixteenth. The beautiful grounds of the Griffith mansion afforded an ideal place for a lawn party and the picnic was enjoyed without the discomforts that generally accompany a long drive into the country. In the evening there was an elaborate display of fireworks. The party included Misses Griffith, Marie Marshall, Mae Mount of Omaha, Alice Slaughter, Helen Nance, Olive Latta, Mae Moore, Hudson of Cairo, Ill., Mae Burr, Kelley; Messrs. R. B. Howell and C. P. A. Clough of Omaha, Mallaleu, Smith, Honeywell, Mason, Hurlbut and Joyce.

The city library board met this week in the library rooms. President Gere presided. Of the members Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. Austin, Messrs. Pentzer, Easterday and Bushnell were present.

The new members of the board are Mrs. Austin, W. S. Summers and H. M. Bushnell. Mrs. L. C. Richards was reappointed. They took their places on the board last night.

Messrs. Pentzer and Hyatt, who were appointed to examine Secretary Geisthardt's books, reported that they were in excellent condition, everything having been kept most systematically. They found that $2,283.29 had been collected by the librarian from October, 1891, to June, 1896, and every cent had been turned over to the city treasurer. The secretary had insured the property under the direction of the board, for $6,000. Upon the receipt of the report the following resolutions were introduced and adopted:

"Resolved, By the board of directors of the Lincoln public library that the thanks of the board are due and are hereby tendered to Mr. S. L. Geisthardt as an expression of our appreciation of the faithful and efficient services rendered by him to the library as secretary of the board.

"As evidence of his integrity and accuracy in handling and disbursing the library funds, we have his carefully kept records, with all bills vouched, audited and pronounced correct by a special finance committee of the board.

"Notwithstanding the demands upon his time in his own profession, he always freely gave his time and services whenever the interests of the library demanded them. To his executive ability and fidelity to the public trust committed to him the library owes much of its past progress and present usefulness.

"It is ordered by the board that a copy of these resolutions be entered upon the records of the library, that a copy be sent to Mr. Geisthardt, and also that one be sent to the papers for publication."

The resolutions were drawn and introduced by Mrs. J. L. McConnell, Mrs. L. C. Richards and J. C. Pentzer.

Officers were elected for the ensuing term. C. H. Gere was re-elected president of the board; Mrs. McConnell, vice-president and C. D. Hyatt, secretary. Mr. Gere appointed the following committees:

Finance, Pentzer, Hyatt and Bushnell.

Books, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. Richards and Summers.

Rooms, Mrs. Austin, Easterday and Gere.

Harry M. Shaeffer, W. N. Hicks and Ed R. Sizer, jr., returned this week from South America, where they went in search of their fortunes. Accompanied by Harry Hotchkiss of this city and C. D. Jensen of Geneva, they left this city on February 18. They travelled directly to New Orleans, where they shipped for Colon. From Colon the journey to Cartagena, Colombia, was soon made. Then steamboat passage by way of the river Atrato was secured to Quibdo, a distance of 675 miles. At Quibdo innumerable small rivers and creeks branch off from the Atrato river. One of these was followed, the men travelling in canoes. They journeyed as far as the Cordilleras mountains, where they expected to find what they were searching for.

Once in the mountains they did not anticipate much trouble. In this belief they were disappointed, however, as it rained steadily and one after another they were taken sick with fever resembling malaria. It seemed to rain continuously. Between showers they managed to examine the bed of one of the creeks. They found that gold existed there in paying quantities, but the water was so uncertain, being high one day and low the next, that it was unsafe to attempt to take it out.

After exploring the country pretty thoroughly they decided to return to Quibdo. Mr. Hotchkiss had made himself sick by continual doping. He would take half a dozen different kinds of medicines daily. The result was that when they returned to Cartagena he was burned out, his system destroyed and he left a physical wreck. For a week prior to the arrival of the party in Cartagena he was unconscious. As Mr. Jensen did not intend to return it was decided to leave Mr. Hotchkiss in his charge. His companions claim that it will be a miracle if he leaves Cartagena alive, as he lies in a comatose condition and is expected to die daily.

Young Sizer did not want to come back with the party. He was exactly the opposite of Mr. Hotchkiss. He declined to take any medicine at all. Mr.

Cod-liver oil is something more than a fat. Its peculiar action depends on a number of substances, among which might be mentioned iodine and phosphorus. There can be no substitute for cod-liver oil, because there is no other oil known which has in natural combination with it such a large number of valuable medicinal agents.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with the hypophosphites contains the whole oil, with its natural properties, and in a thoroughly emulsified or digested condition. The hypophosphites increase the appetite and impart strength to the nervous system. This combination has marked curative properties in a number of diseases of the skin and scalp, to which scrofulous persons are peculiarly liable. Such diseases as chronic eczema, ringworm, and other skin affections, are often quickly cured by the constitutional effects following the use of Scott's Emulsion.
