

Thursday from Omaha, where she was the guest of Miss Mae Bartlett a week.

Dr. and Mrs. S. F. Ladd have returned from Minneapolis and St. Paul, where they have been for a short vacation.

T. C. Munger returned Wednesday from Spencer, Ia. His brother whose illness called him there is slowly recovering.

Miss Ella Harper and Miss Laura Fiske have returned from Omaha, where they were visiting friends during fair week.

Mrs. A. D. Beemer, of Beemer, and her sister, Mrs. Keller of Pennsylvania, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dorgan.

Miss Effie Steen returned Tuesday from a brief trip to Denver, from which place she took several delightful trips with the young people.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Lewis Baker and son Philip have returned from a month's journey to all the principal cities as far east as Rockport, Me.

Mr. A. W. Hargreaves, with his daughter, Miss Blanch, and son Harry, visited the fair Thursday and stayed for the parade in the evening.

F. M. Bentley started Monday for a second year's post graduate study in the Sage school of philosophy at Cornell university at Ithaca, N. Y.

Miss Rose Carson stopped over a day on her way from Omaha to Brownville. In the latter place her father and mother are spending the summer.

Mrs. C. E. Yates is entertaining Miss Ruth Phillippi of Omaha, Miss Louise and Bertha White of Plattsmouth and Miss Taylor of Tacoma, for a few days.

Mr. C. G. Wolcott returned this week from Dakota, Wyoming and Montana. Mrs. Wolcott, who is visiting at Oskaloosa, Ia., will not return for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Campbell have returned from an extended trip through the east. While away they attended the national librarians' convention at Cleveland, O.

Ray Welch and George Palmer of Omaha, who have been abroad all summer, are now on board the "The State of Nebraska," and are expected home about the 18th of this month. They have had a most delightful journey.

Judge S. J. Tuttle has just returned from Cleveland, where he attended the funeral of his aged mother, who had passed away before he could reach her side after receiving the telegram announcing her illness.

Last Wednesday evening a group of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Leonard's friends really surprised them. The occasion was the eleventh anniversary of their marriage. The successful conspirators were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hargreaves, Beeson, Green, Ladd, D. E. Thompson and Brown.

The beautiful Lyman terrace presented a merry scene Monday evening the event being a lawn party by the Junior Christian Endeavorers of the First Presbyterian church. From seven until eight the children played games with the greatest enthusiasm. From then until nine, every one who had five cents was invited to board a train made up of chairs, where light refreshments were served, before they departed for their several homes.

Some of the Lincoln people who attended the Ak-Sar-Ben ball last Friday night in Omaha: Misses Sadie Burnham and Grace Oakley, maids of honor; Mrs. G. M. Lambertson, Mrs. Clark, ladies in waiting; Dr. and Mrs. Righter, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Smith, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Walter Hargreaves, Mrs. L. C. Burr, W. S. Latta, F. W. Brown; Misses Alice Righter, Mae Burr, Marie Marshall, Olive Latta; Mrs. Mallalieu;

W. Morton Smith, John Dixon, J. W. Mason.

Hon. G. M. Lambertson, Dr. O. F. Lambertson, J. D. McDonald, J. H. Harley and Jack McFarland returned Wednesday from their three weeks hunting and fishing trip to the mountains with a guide. They penetrated some of the unexplored portions of Wyoming. The hunting and fishing was unusually good. Grouse was plentiful and they shot an elk. I do not know why it is so difficult to find out which one of the party shot the elk unless it was one of the guides.

A social event of the week was the reception given by the Y. W. C. A. ladies at the elegant home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sawyer. The house was prettily decorated with palms and cut flowers. The reception committee was composed of Mesdames H. H. Wilson, Allen Field, C. W. Gring, Al. E. Hargreaves and Miss Lizzie Irwin. The cool evening made it very pleasant for the hundred or more guests to remain indoors, where a most interesting program was rendered. The two musical features by Miss Susie Boyle and Miss Mabel Metcalf were especially good. Miss Margaret McPhee's reading was charming.

The new secretary, Miss Wild, who takes the vacancy caused by Miss Shirley Smith's departure made an instructive address, which was greatly appreciated, as it marked out the future line of work. (The address will be printed next week.)

Mrs. A. J. Sawyer completed the program with some very appropriate and well chosen remarks on the evolution of the ideals of woman from the earliest stages of barbarism, when she was simply the servant, bought and sold, to the more enlightened and independent era of these latter days. She also said that history gives no more striking contrasts than in the aims, conditions and ambitions of the woman of the present day compared with the woman valued only for her industry of the past ages. She then went on to say that the fullest development and completest equipment were necessary for woman's best work. Mrs. Sawyer's little talk, including a very appropriate poem, will not soon be forgotten.

After the program the guests were invited into the dining room by Mrs. Latta, where dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. J. H. McMurtry, assisted by the Misses Blanche Hargreaves, Rose Foster, Ella Harper, Flora Belle Hartley, Olive Latta; Mesdames Nissley and Reagan.

Miss Winifred Hill gave a very pretty Kensington to a number of her young lady friends yesterday afternoon. Beautiful cut flowers were used in the decorations. The music from a graphophone amused the young ladies in place of the gossip which is the natural accompaniment to needlework. Dainty refreshments were served late in the afternoon. This was one of the few remaining days before Miss Winifred leaves for school at Lindenwood college at St. Charles, Mo. The invited guests were: Misses Rose Foster, Marjorie Winger, Clara Quick, Minnie Sharp of Plattsmouth, Bernice Becker, Ella Harper, Laura Fiske, Mary Hartley, Edna Polk, Bessie Turner, Minnie Parker, Marian Camp, Bessie Bartruff, Kate Kimball, Anna and Clara Hammond, Grace Fleming, Irene Courtney, Mae Honeywell, Helen Welch, Frances Cunningham; Mrs. Bigger and Mrs. Welch.

Lincoln in her palmier days has entertained in her midst a few "blue blooded paupers," but never until this week has she thrown open her doors, both front and back, to two real live barons; who, for a wager equivalent to $75,000 in our own money, are trying to work their way around the world in three years without spending a cent of their own money, unless they earn it on the way. They have credentials from the Emperor of Germany as to their genuineness, and permits to leave the German army for the specified time. The two noblemen who are creating such a sensation among the freedom loving people of this little American town are Baron Frederick von Levetzow Ehierstorff, a first lieutenant in the grenadier regiment of the Kaiser Alexander guards, and Baron von Sack Eiller von Mitzlaff of Berlin of the Third guard Uhlan, being its first lieutenant. They are rather good looking gentlemen, of fine physique and noble bearing, which weatherstained clothing and large battered straw hats did their best to destroy. Their only companions are two dogs—a grey Siberian wolf hound called Silver and Tramp, and an American setter which is named Gold and Gentleman. They will be the guests of Major Fehet at the Lindell hotel until Sunday, when they go to Crete to visit a friend. From Lincoln they expect to travel to Denver, thence to Santa Fe, and by the southern route to San Francisco. There they will take a steamer to Tokio, Japan. They will cross Siberia in May, June or July next. They will go by the way of the Trans-Siberian railway to Moscow and St. Petersburg, thence to Berlin.
