

Republican Rally.

With propitious weather, the people of Lincoln may next Tuesday look for the biggest McKinley demonstration that has yet taken place anywhere in the state. At that time two parades will be had, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Letters have been received by E. R. Sizer and the county central committee from numerous towns in the state, expressing the willingness and pleasure of the various republican organizations to participate in this rally. The old soldiers of this city are also very active, and are inviting their many comrades elsewhere to come and join them here. Corporal Tanner and Generals Siegell, Sickie, Porter, Manderson and many other notables will be present to speak on the issues of the campaign. Without doubt next Tuesday will be a red letter day for the republicans of Nebraska.

The Ladies' McKinley clubs of Lincoln are doing much good work for the republican ticket. They hold meetings nightly in some part of the city, and that their wholesome influence is being felt is manifest to the most casual observer. The ladies in politics, as in every other vocation, are enthusiastic, effective and of great value.

The only thing that can possibly elect Bryan is the general confidence that he cannot possibly be elected.

Half a vote is better than none; but a whole vote for McKinley will be more effective than half a vote for Palmer.

When in doubt play trumps, and McKinley is the only trump that can take the trick.

The man that is afraid to vote the Republican ticket on account of a higher tariff would allow his whole house to burn down for fear the firemen might injure his furniture.

If there were wisdom in experience, the South, that suffered from a depreciated currency during the Civil war, would be unanimous for honest money.

It is not un-American to adopt the financial policy of foreign nations when that policy is undoubtedly the best.

If through conscientious scruples you cannot vote for McKinley or for Palmer, what is the matter with the prohibition candidate?

The Young Man—Don't you think I'd make a good husband for your daughter?

The Old One—I'm not disputing that point; but, great heavens! so soon after the recent hard times, I can't get the foolish child everything she wants!

Brown—Jones made a very agreeable discovery when he reached home last night.

Smith—What was it?

Brown—The keyhole.

Robinson—I see that General Weyler continues to issue his proclamation.

Jenkins—Yes; I guess he's trying to establish his place in literature as the greatest exponent of modern Spanish fiction.

Salvation Shouter—Join us and you shall have that better part that shall never be taken away from you!

Excited Actor—Good enough! I'll sign for a summer salary!

"It's a sure sign she has money."

"What is it?"

"Why, her corsage is V-shaped."

A SENSITIVE SOUL.

"I was down at Long Branch the other day and came near getting into a fight with one of the summer residents over a game of billiards."

"How so?"

"He was insulted because I suggested playing with three balls."

the subscription price. Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."
