The Thanksgiving dance of the Patriarchs will be given in the new Harris hall Friday evening, November 27. It promises to be a pretty party.

The second floor of the Harris block, 1134 N street, has been fitted up for a dancing hall. The floor has received the attention of experts. It is of hard wood, and the boards are laid parallel with the length of the hall. Parties desiring to rent it can do so at the Courier office, in the same block.

A pleasant as well as profitable Mission tea was given at the home of Miss Alice Slaughter on Wednesday afternoon. A business meeting was begun at half-past two o'clock, with a majority of the members present. Six new members were voted into the Mission. They were the Misses Helen Welch, Blanche Garten, Eleanor Raymond, Katherine Kleutch, Mrs. F. W. Smith and Mrs. Ed Fitzgerald. The membership of twenty-five is now complete. The number of associate members is unlimited. At five the gentlemen came out to tea and brought their dimes with them. After a dance and a few charming vocal solos by Miss Ruth Weller, the guests departed about seven o'clock. A partial list of those present were Miss Ruth Weller of Omaha, the Misses Henrietta Hollowbush, Florence Farwell, Marie Marshall, Fannie Rector, Kathryn Brooks, M. Olive Latta, Lucy Griffith; Messrs. Will E. Clark, F. C. Zehring, M. H. Baldwin, Fred White, Roy Sawyer, Edgar Morrill, George Bartlett, Vilas Sheldon, Frank Cowdery, Elmer Merrill, John Lottridge, Ed Haney, Worcester Harmon, Hugh Edwiston, Arthur Walsh, Clapp, Joe Mallieu, Valentine; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Marshall; Mrs. Ode Rector.

Mrs. Dan Wheeler of Omaha, after a brief visit with her mother, Mrs. A. D. Marshall, returned home Sunday.

Everybody is delighted to see the Mohrenstechers' home again. Mr. Mohr-enstecker seems to have found his health in Germany, and he gives that country the credit for it, though he says America is the place for him. "Americans," he said, "are the nicest people of all you meet en route. They go to the best hotels and use the best of everything. Hotelkeepers, shopkeepers and guides are playing for Americans. They pay liberally for what they get and do not grumble about it like the English and they are not fractious like the French. In short, they are the nicest people there are going, and I am glad to be back where it is all American."

Mr. Mohrenstecher's health was quite restored at a cold water cure in Schanden on the Elbe, the most picturesque spot in the Saxon Alps—that is, if you are not talking to the people in the next town to Schanden. When they left the cure, Mr. and Mrs. M. visited the "free cities" of Germany. Sailed down the Danube to the imperial city of Vienna, then to Munich and to Heidelberg, where the degrees come from. Then they went down the Rhine and across to Paris and to London, whence they sailed, and arrived in New York November 1. They stopped a week there, and before arriving in Lincoln visited in Quincy, Mrs. M.'s home, and in Nebraska City, the parental home of Herr Mohrenstecher. They arrived in Lincoln on Monday and have been busy since that time receiving and extending joyous greetings, particularly emphatic on account of der freisinnige Herr's complete return to health.
