THE HOO HOOS

The lumber dealers of Nebraska held their seventh annual convention in Lincoln Tuesday and Wednesday. The first meeting was Tuesday afternoon, 2:30, at Y. M. C. A. hall. About a hundred were present.

President M. L. Fries of Arcadia, in taking the chair, gave a practical inaugural address. The secretary, J. C. Cleveland of Fremont, followed with a report of what had been done and what was to be done.

After matters of business were discussed a committee consisting of Messrs. Barnett of McCook, Cummings of Plattsmouth, and Greenlit of Surprise, was appointed to examine the membership list and report what members had paid dues, and also report delinquents.

A report was given by Treasurer William Fried. It was later referred to an auditing committee.

As a committee on resolutions, William Fried of Fremont, W. W. Cameron of Chester and S. W. Lightner of Monroe were named.

Nominations for auditing committee were J. L. Baker of Omaha, G. H. Kelly of Omaha, E. S. Clark of Gretna. These were considered elected.

Soliciting membership—E. S. Clark, Gretna; T. R. Whittaker, Lorton; H. F. Henderson, Osceola. Constitution and by-laws—G. W. Baldwin, Crete; J. L. Baker, Beemer; E. J. Tucker, Howe. Mr. Baldwin asked off, but consented to serve if excused from the chairmanship.

A little more business was gone through with before adjournment for supper.

An informal reception was held in the Lindell hotel parlors Tuesday evening for those who were not Hoo-Hoos. Lively conversation in the crowded rooms was furnished by Hagenow's orchestra. At the same time seventy of the members of the order of Hoo-Hoos were assembled in the Halter block, where they were initiating twenty victims into the concatenated order of the Hoo-Hoos. Those who henceforth will wear the white button with the black cat upon it are: William E. Brown, Dodge; Ben D. Sherwood, North Bend; Tom F. Birmingham, O'Neill; Perry R. Gillespie, Minden; Horace F. Henderson, Osceola; William J. Miller, Hastings; Alexander S. Scott, Stromsburg;

John J. Reimers, Evanston, Ill.; Fred P. McCormick, Holdrege; Oswald H.

Oliver, Hastings; Harry N. Bennett, Kansas City; Frederick R. Lint, Humboldt; Wilson F. Vincent, Sterling; Cornelius Crowley, Cloquet, Minn.; John W. Hart, Stromsburg, and Oscar W. Portlock, Bethany.

The grand snark of the state, Vice Gerent W. C. Ballard of Omaha, conducted the initiation. He was assisted by the following officers: Senior Hoo-Hoo, T. R. French, Lincoln, junior Hoo-Hoo, L. E. Deemer, Lincoln; bojum, Frank Colpetzer, Omaha; scrivener, W. H. Gearhart, Lincoln; jabberwock, D. E. Green, Lincoln; custodian, George E. Gascoigne, Lincoln; arkanoper, O. O. Snyder, O'Neill; gurdon, J. Cecil Graham, St. Louis.

Afterwards they all came together. The Lincoln lumbermen tendered a banquet to 160 lumbermen at the Lindell hotel following the initiation.

The tables were arranged in a square with a row down the middle. The decorations were potted plants and palms, with carnations at each cover.

After a menu with appropriate lumber term embellishments was served, A. H. Wier as toastmaster called upon the following people for remarks on the several topics assigned:

Address of welcome, A. H. Wier. Response, F. Colpetzer. "Our Association, Its Aims and Ethics," William Fried. Membership of the Association, Clear, Common and Cull, S. D. Ayres.

"Lights and Shades—The Sash, Door and Blind Men," W. H. Harrison.

"The Lumber Business, Its Past and Present," S. E. Smith.

"The Men Who Cover Our Defects—Paint Manufacturers," M. J. Waugh.

"The Development of Nebraska—Work of the Lumbermen," A. Barnett.

The last round consisted of a sparring match which was announced to be free for all. It was designed particularly for bald headed men and a bald headed man in the person of D. E. Green led it. Numerous smooth topped gentlemen joined in the match, which ended amicably early in the morning.

The commencement and attendant exercises of the Nebraska College of Oratory will consist of the following: Wednesday, March 24, graduating recital of George Link. Mr. Link will give recitations from Charles Dickens, Friday, March 26, graduating recital of Miss Anna Maryott and Miss Daisy Smith; Friday, April 2, junior exercises; Sunday, April 4, baccalaureate sermon by Dr. William M.
